But sometimes the kidneys fail. And netimes, from some other cause, the blood gets so full of poison that they cannot absorb it all. This is the start of Rheumatism. The poison accumulates and crystalizes. The crystals look like little grains of sugar or of fine white sand. The blood carries them and they increase in size. Then, when it can carry them no longer, it deposits them in a joint-on a bone-anywhere. The twinge in your leg-the dull ache in your arm on a rainy day—these are the outward signs of the unseen crystals. Albert Carty Found Dead in His Apartments—Groundless Rumors of Foul Play.

The death of Albert Carty, in Chicago, and the bringing of the body to the home of his mother on the tenth concesion of Biddulph for interment, in Clandeboye cemetery, gave rise to a number of lurid rumors concerning the young man's demise.

The body was brought home on Sunday last, accompanied by the widow of the deceased. Carty's mother and sister were not aware that the young man was ill or that he had met with any mishap, and the news of his sudden death almost prostrated them.

A story was circulated to the effect that Carty was not married, and last night a telegram was received from Chicago that the deceased was legally wedded to Miss Cora Sainsbury, in that city some time ago, and that Mrs. Carty had accompanied the body to Biddulph.

Then it transpired that Dr. Lang, who examined the body, had found no evidences of foul play. The only mark on the deceased was over the temple, but it was only a superficial abrasion, and in ocase could have caused death.

To The Advertiser this morning Dr. Lang stated that Carty's death had resulted from suffocation by gas. A postmortem had not been held, because it was not deemed necessary, and the body had been interred in St. James' Cemetery, Clandeboye, on Tuesday afternoon.
