Condon Advertiser

The Advertiser was established in 1863 and is published four times daily by The London Advertiser Company, ited. The subscription rates re: London, 15 cents weekly. By the United States, $6.00 yearly. The Advertiser is represented in Toronto at 95 King street east, and in Montreal at 317 Transportation Building, by J. B. Rathbone; in New York at 247 Park avenue, in Chicago at 122 South Michigan avenue, and in Boston at 294 Washington street, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1923. The Method of 1923.

Lloyd George is using every apparatus to which he can lay his hand in order to carry on his campaign. Wireless, the amplifier and the microin the shortest possible time, are all out. pressed into service in a campaign that even surpasses the last effort of Gladstone.

During his last fight for the Mid- them up on edge for half a day. lothian seat he carried on what was the claim of Disraeli that he (Glad- be solved at once. stone) was an "extinct volcano."

effort of Lloyd George, who before place. election day will have reached in one way or another 5,000,000 people.

Keep On Erecting.

St. Louis has inscribed on a monutims killed by automobiles the fol- ir school now than in 1918. lowing: "In memory of child life, sacrificed on the altar of reckless-some bars around the men who did than the average for that year. the killing.

Too Many Revolvers.

London has had another shooting affair, in which the life of an innocent young girl has been snuffed out. Apart entirely from the events

It is recognized that it is a hard matter to confiscate firearms. People do not go around with them tied to a belt. They have them secluded. This difficulty only increases the need for more vigilance. A man about a yard long for having a re-

Their Record Speaks.

Philip Pocock and Jared Vining to and right. the public utilities commission.

size shall have on it directors who maintain a memorial flower bed. are heart and soul in sympathy with public ownership.

The record of the commissioners living in. seeking re-election is before the voters. It is a good, clean docu-

Citizens should show their appreclation of work well done by giving fresh milk, it should be boiled." these men a good substantial majority.

Turning On the Light.

has come to be such a common oc- able to bother. currence that the idea might gain ground that this method was almost universal.

shiniest place in the world with 36 Now she has another excuse for stayper cent of its homes lit by electric ing in the Ruhr.

Japan is 30 per cent and Great Men, Oh Men!

Louis Goodman, a Brooklyn landlord, had to pay $5,000 for a kiss which he stole from one of his tenants in 1921. That was two long years ago, and no doubt Louis has lost all the thrill that he received at that time.

The same court gave Orlando Salisbury $1 damages because a girl jilted him and "broke his heart."

Has United States law gone crazy? A woman gets, $5,000 because the landlord placed a benevolent smack on her excellent face, while a man with a broken heart collects a paltry

A farmer on R. R. No. 4, Komoka. showed an Advertiser man who called at his place this week a field to be equipped with a swimming bushel, that being the market value mend it.—Brantford Expositor. at the time of the sale.

tilizer, labor, seed, threshing, interest, etc., and it cost him $1.17 to produce it.

This figure is a little under the figures secured from a number of Oxford County farms in 1921. Perhaps the Washington commis-nail: In Canada, $5.00 yearly; in sion now in session could tell this Komoka farmer now much he made selling grain at 95 cents that cost him $1.17 to grow.

> Just a Suggestion. Member of the British parliament makes a speech saying there are too many people in England, and further

1,000 a day. There were 618 people to a square mile, while in some of the "colonies" there were two to a mile. There were 2,000,000 out of world phone, everything that can serve to there now, and if a man got married streets of London. I think a great sell Lloyd George to the most people he should pick up at once and get

> Might it be impertinent to sugges to this birth controller that he should take the British Islands and turn

That would certainly allow considered to be at that time a goodly number to slide off into the deal safer than they are at present. whirlwind campaign, putting to rout sea, and the whole problem would

As soon as enough had slid off to This memorable Gladstonian effort suit him he could let the islands go passes into history compared to the down with a bang to their proper

What Figures Say.

In an election appeal, Mr. Adam Palmer made reference to enrollment figures of public schools, tending to as ment erected to thirty-two little vic- show that there were fewer pupils

Mr. Palmer used the average for the year in 1918 against the September figures for 1923, and the Sep-The next thing erected should be tember figures in any year are less

The complete figures for the years

	Average.	September
1918	 9,694	7.950
1919	 9,898	8,029
1920	 9,663	8,058
1921	 10,132	8,200
1922	 10,359	8,607

It is not a fair comparison to take preceding or following the case, it the low figure of September, 1923, brings up the question of the comparative ease with which any person 1918. The proper comparison would with a desire to shoot can secure a have been, on a September basis, be one flesh. (Verse 24).

In what words does Christ recognization of the 9.694 used by Mr. Palmer.

A Good Idea.

Watford had a good idea when it held a community Thanksgiving service in a theatre, under the ausought to be made to give a reason pices of the village council and the resident ministers

> They combined Thanksgiving and a remembrance of their own boys who went overseas.

Such a service, being placed under Voters should take no chances regarding the re-election of Messrs. an official recognition that is fitting

It is essential that a business this over to the Horticultural Society to It is just such community thought

Note and Comment

Heaven help the kids. Read this Heaven help the kids. Read this that he hateth putting away; thereone: "If the baby does not thrive on fore take heed to your spirits that

If the 1923 high-thinking agitators are able to do away with hell and hell-fire, they will ease a whole lot of Turning on lights with a button consciences that nothing else seems

The crown prince dropping into Germany was nothing short of a United States claims that it is the providential windfall for France.

New York has issued orders to all Britain 17 per cent, while Europe crooks to leave the city. And no in her payments. If one is suffigenerally is not over 10 per cent. great big field yet for the electrician. to make the first move.

> it has been sold for $2,460. And yet there were times when the famous Rab would have been glad exchange must be problematical. If to get a few bawbees out of it.

History will have to be scanned

Getting Figures.

A commission is probing what it costs to grow wheat in Canada and broken and bent affairs that are costs to grow wheat in Canada and broken and bent affairs that are would be farther beyond than they are at present, legally hitched to many other cars.

The first public school in Ontario from which he had taken a good pool was opened at Sandwich by air municipal skating rink is being crop of fall wheat in 1923.

Lord Byng. The departure is novel, season. The ground has been plowed He had sold it at 95 cents a but the principle has much to com-

To the Editor

How Many Acres?

Figured It Out by Old Rule and the Answer Is 58-10 Acres.

Editor of The Advertiser: Sir,-Would you kindly answer in The Advertiser this question: How many acres are there in a piece of land 264 feet wide and 960 feet long?

Yours truly, MRS. MARGARET LEE, R. R. 8, London. Answer: 5 8-10 acres.

Parking Regulations.

that the population was increasing Motorist Has Suggestion in Regard to Making the Streets Safer in London.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,-When they are marking of spaces for angle parking on the nistake was made in not making them stop before they came to the

As things are now a person driving along behind a row of cars has no chance at all to see the corner, or to whether another car is coming from the cross street. If there two of the spaces reserved at each corner it would make things a great

Marriage Is Sacred.

London, Nov. 28.

Reader Points Out Divine Means Provided for Guarding Against Attacks on It. Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,-I see that Dorothy Dix writes see what a sacred institution this is, After creating man what did God he thought not good that the man should be alone. (Gen. ii., 18). What, therefore, did God say He would make? I will make him an helpmeet for him. (Same verse.) What, therefore, And the Lord God caused a deep and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof. and the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made He a woman and brought her unto the man

What did Adam say as he received his wife from God? And Adam said, This is now bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh. She shall be called woman, because she was taken ou

What great truth was then stated? Therefore shall a man leave father and his mother and nize marriage as of God? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What, therefore, God hath joined together let not man put asunder. (Matthew xix, 6). Note.—Thus was the marriage in-stitution ordained of God in Eden before man sinned. Like the Sab-bath it has come down to us with the Edenic dews of God's blessing still upon it. By what commands has God guarded the marriage relation? Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife. (Ex. xx, 14, 17). Let marriage be had in honor among all, for fornicators and adult-erers God will judge. (Malachi ii, 13). with weeping, and with crying out. Yet ye say, Wherefore, because the The collection taken was handed Lord hath been witness between the over to the Horticultural Society to whom thou hast dealt treacherously. yet is she thy companion and the wife of thy covenant. (Verse 14). And It is just such community thought and action that makes a place worth living in.

did He not make one, yet had He the residue of the spirit. And wherefore one? That He might seek a godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal treach-erously against the wife of his youth For the Lord the God of Isreal, saith ye deal not treacherously. (From Bible readings). The Bible says, My word shall not return to me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

M., GRAHAM.

Wallacetown, Ont. Germany's War Debt.

Correspondent forecasts effect of permitting Germany access to Empire

Editor of The Advertiser, Sir: Two subjects seem to be up-permost in the public mind at the present time—viz, Christmas shopping and Germany's payment of her war debt. Credulous people, no doubt, believe that Germany is defaulting It looks as though there were a looking around to see who's going stores they can find piles of goods obviously of German or Austrian origin, although they may not have Robert Burns wrote a letter and has been sold for $2,460. And been purchased by Canadian firms with this knowledge. These goods bring an approximate value in Canadian currency but their value translated into terms of interantional the British government were to take down all tariff barriers and allow German goods free access to the British Empire we should soon have a flood History will have to be scanned carefully to find a parallel case to that of Germany. Seven years ago, riding high in the saddle, an unbroken army, victory with her, and all set for a great triumph. Today she practically asks for her next meal.

St. Thomas man was fined $25 for having a set of cardboard markers on his car. Wrong, of course, to do such a thing, but chances are that the cardboard markers were as distance of the scandboard markers were as distanced in the cardboard markers where the cardboard markers were as distanced in the cardboard markers where we should soon have a flood of commodities which would be said less than the cost of the raw materials. If the debt was paid, and the only way it can be paid is through the export and sale of German manufactured goods we could purchase a German manufactured goods at less than the cost of the tires of a Canadian or American machine. The could A. PRIORI.

RINK NEARLY FINISHED. Special to The Advertiser. Aylmer, Nov. 28.-Aylmer's open rapidly put in shape some plowed and shaped and a building has been are started for the accommodation of season. The ground has been plowed and shaped and a building has been erected for the accommodation of skaters. Electric lights are being installed so that skating may be enjoyed in the evenings. Aylmer has been without an ice ring for years and the open-air rink should be appreciated by skaters, young and old.

"Not much, Aunt Josie. I've meant to come a dozen times, but I'm kept pretty busy. You look fine."

"You're still growing, Denny." She looked at him with a timid pride and seemed half afraid to speak.

Lizzie, sitting near the stove, a baby in her lap, waited with the air of being a very important persons. She had her flat, yellow hair wound about her bushel, that being the market value at the time of the sale.

Wrong, brother. London has one skaters. Electric lights are being inschool where the youngsters have loyed in the evenings. Aylmer has a record of all things entering into splashed in the pool for many a been without an ice ring for years the production of that wheat, fer month

The Guide Post-By Henry van Dyke

THE DIGNITY OF MAN.

How much then is a man better than a sheep!-Matthew xii., 12, Christ reveals to us the dignity of man by speaking to us as beings who are capable of holding communion with God, and reflecting the divine holiness in our hearts and lives. And here his doctrine gains clearness and force when we bring it into close connection with his con-

I suppose that there are few of us who would not be ready to admit at once that there are some men and women who have high spiritual

For them, we say, religion is a possible thing. They can attain to the knowledge of God and fellowship with him They are born good.

They are saints by nature. But for the great mass of the human race, this is out of the question. They must dwell in ignorance, in wickedness, in impiety. But to all this Christ says, No!

He takes his way straight to the cutcasts of the world, the publicans and the harlots and the sinners; and to them he speaks of the mercy and the love of God and the beauty of the heavenly life. And he does this, not to cast them into black despair; not because it was impossible for them to be good and to find God, but because it was divinely possible-because God was waiting for them, and because something in them was waiting for God. (Copyright, 1923, by The Republican Syndicate.)

DENNY BROOKS

A STORY OF COURAGE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XXX

Violet's Return. Denny got off the car at Octavia drygoods store on Hayes street.

"I ought to bring her something." "Why didn't I ask Kat say? And the Lord God said, It is about it?"
not good that the man should be He had come to the city in answer to a plea from Aunt Josie:
"Dear Denny and Katy: Hope this week finds you as well as last.

are well here. Your uncle is working every day. Love from Aunt Josie."

Every Sunday Aunt Josie sent a post card, scarcely changing the wording from month to month. This week there was a postscript: "Denny, could you come over? don't ask it for myself. It will be a great favor. He will not be home." Some grave urgency impelled that Denny was sure of it.

came over at once, suppressed ex-It was a year since he had seen aunt Josie. Every Monday when her postal came he would say to Katy: "I ought to drop over and see her. Poor thing." . . . but he had never

Now he stared into the drygoods window, troubled by a feeling of tenderness for the mute, suppressed woman whose spirit had been emptied

This was the window where years before there had been a ruffled white organdy dress. He and Violet had come to buy it for the little queen of the flower fairies. The memory passed, laying a cold hand on his heart. He shook it off, fastened his glance on a row of gloves dangling from steel hooks.

"She'd like them," he thought pleased with the inspiration. Denny always remembered his aunt going to church on Sundays wearing a pair of black silk gloves, her forefingers sticking through holes.

He went into the store and bought a pair of gray mocha, taking the largest size the girl showed, smiling when he thought of Aunt Josie's surfor a week in this new possession.

And Denny wanted happiness about him. By instinct he was a lover of life, seeing it as a beauty, a growth, a joy. The shabby streets and stunted hours of his childhood were blunderings were blunderings, accidental and unnecessary. Happiness is the natural state, the only state where the human may exist. Outside of it there is not life, there are not people living, but only empty gestures mov-Aunt Josie was one of these. There was something unkind about it; something blindly stupid. So Denny bought her a pair of gloves just as a some apologist for the sun, going a to the North Pole, might carry the natives a coal oil stove. The gray house was a little murk-er; two more boards were kicked out of the alleyway gate, and the shade in the room that had been violet's "boudoir" flapped in strips against the half-open window: against the half-open window.

"Humph," Denny thought, dismissing recollection with a swift shrug. He went up the back steps, taking deep breath to insure against the laden, stale cabbage breath of the kitchen. Within, he heard Lizzie talking in an aggrieved indigna-

"Well, I'm sure it's nice in you, mamma, to keep blaming me as if I could help it." I'm not blaming you."
"Excited? I'll be a nervous wreck

I should think you'd be more considerate than to cry all the time I'm gave her tea and the cold biscuits left here. There—he's waking up. Look from supper. at his eyes, Denny; they're just like She was the

So it was about Violet! Snub nose and big hips, Lizzie went want to make me feel bad after how and because Emmet wouldn't like the sick I've been and all"—

Denny whistled, opened the door Lizzie had been in a hurry to send Violet away. Violet had gone.

"Hello," he called, taking off his cap and laughing. "How's the old kitchen?"

Dingy. smoke can bied, the sewing machine in one corner, the table with a coffee stained red cloth in the center, grime on the window above the sink and pots crowding the stove.

Aunt Josie, wiping a red, moist face, "Where is she now?"

Violet away. Violet had gone.
"She had no money, Denny. I know it. Violet was proud. She would never have gone to Lizzie if she could have helped it. Lizzie has a couch in the kitchen, but she wouldn't offer it. Oh, my Gawd—my poor girl—Gawd pity her!"

"Where did she go. Aunt Josie?

head, an insignificant blue bow perched like a mosquito in the center. This was a part of Lizzie's quest for daintiness and was as harmonious as lot about marriage. It is well to pausing before the windows of the a goose cavorting like a humming

"Now," she said, archly: "I should think it's about time you came to see your new cousin, Denny."

"Husky little fellow, isn't he, izzie? Well, how's Martha. Aunt Lizzie? Well, how's Martha. Aunt Josie?" Denny gave the infant a hasty glance, let the shawl drop over its face. Lizzie's small eyes flashed. "Why, you didn't even look at him! nd he was all ready to smile. Oh, l don't see how you can be so mean Denny. I'm sure if it was Miss Vio-A few years ago Denny would have said: "Aw go to grass! Who cares about your kid, anyway?" But he was a man now—so he laughed, though the allusion to Violet "Why, he's a young giant, Lizzie." he offered good humoredly. "What's his name?"

"Well, Emmet, of course! I'd like to know who better I could name him for than his own father." "Sure enough. He looks like him too-got a head just like him." Denny thought of Emmet Goss' pointed skull and laughed at the malice of his compliment. Lizzie was pleased.

"Did you know Emmet is head clerk, now, Denny? We're thinking of happiness. He would bring her a of buying an interest in the grocery Of course we have to save. to watch the nickels." She challenging glance at Aunt Josie "But mamma thinks Emmet picks up money on the street. She thinks he ought to be glad to throw it away on anybody!"

"Who do you mean, Lizzie?" Denny asked. Aunt Josie got up quickly, stirred a pot of stew, frowning at him "It's all very well who I mean but it doesn't seem to matter if my feel-ing are hurt—" She raised the baby in her arms, reached for her hat.

'Mamma doesn't care about me or Aunt Josie ad remained silent, the spoon poised over the stew. She went week-end as the guest of Mrs. S. Aunt Josie's sur-quietly and took the baby while Culp, Spruce street.

The Rev. Dr. Martin has returned with the baby when I'm stronger, from Brownsville, where he conduct-Denny. I'm glad you think little ed special services on Sunday. Emmet's pretty." He didn't answer. Aunt Josie turned to him, the coarse, reddened face open-ing in a quivering grief. "Violet's come home, Denny." "Lizzie turned her out!" The heavy chin trembled until the lips were doubled together. "Turned her out." Denny's heart smote him: "When? Aunt Josie." "Poor girl-if she'd come to her mother-" She rubbed the blue check apron over her face, yet her eyes, he rough cheeks, her lips remained moist with anguish. There was something that lit the heart like a rage in Aunt Josie's cowed emotion before her, smiling:

"Not expecting to see me, Lizzie, Lizzie, too astounded to speak, gan to talk. Violet had come from the south be cause she was out of work. She heard of a job in a candy factory and was going to apply for it. She just thought she'd call on Lizzie and see "Don't get yourself excited, Lizzie, the baby and find out how "Ma and all of them were.

She was thin, white as paper, her

"And he's got two of them, hasn't he, Lizzie? Lucky youngster!"

Lizzie blushed with pleasure, saying amiably: "Will you come over in the morning to help with the washing, mamma? And it's no use of your worrying. Guess she didn't bother about us in three years!"

She was thin, white as paper, her face all eyes. "I wish Denny could see her now; wonder if he'd think her so pretty now!" Lizzie had said that to her mother. Furthermore, Lizzie didn't believe she'd had such a fine time in Los Afigeles, for she had no silver purse and no feather in her hat and no gloves!

And she half binted about staving. And she half hinted about staying for the night with Lizzie!

But Lizzie had no room. down the hall, calling: "You just cause Emmet would soon be home ter, grime on the window above the sink and pots crowding the stove.

Aunt Josie, wiping a red, moist face, not a smile, but something akin to it. lighting her stolid eyes.

"Why, Denny"—The coarse ips trembled, she stood uncertain, waiting for his greeting. He stooped down and kissed her. Tears crawled down her cheeks. "I thought you'd forgotten all about us."

"Where did she go. Aunt Josie? Where is she now?"

Aunt Josie shook her head: "What an we do, Denny? Tell me what to be something. What will become of her? Gawd—how I'm punished!"

"Aw, don't cry, Aunt Josie. Listen. I'll go to the candy factory and find out about her."

"I've been there. She didn't get the job."

Violet running in a dark street, keep-ing close to the wall—tormented him. At the candy factory he went to the office. Perhaps Violet had filed an ap-

She had—a rooming house on O'Farrel street. "She's left," the woman in a dirty wrapper, sitting at a desk, informed him. "Left without paying for her room!" She turned to another patron, beligerently eyeing Denny. "She left her address?" he insisted

The woman laughed: "Guess she ain't got one!"
"When did she leave?"

"This morning!"
Denny could have leaped over the desk and strangled the sloppy, irate lump of flesh frowning at him. Somewhere, without a room, with-out food, Violet was wandering. He swept down the steps after her. (Copyright, 1923. by the Call Publishing Company.)

A Congressman's Mother

By ANNE CAMPBELL.

My boy has gone to Washington,
In Congress he will be!
The fact that they elected him Was no surprise to me. knew that he would win the He always was that way! oy has gone to Washington. He said good-bye today!

He's always been the finest lad. No better ever grew. When he was just a little boy He'd turn out great, I knew. So it was no surprise to me But oh, I'd like him back again, A baby needin' me! (Copyright, North American Newsp Alliance, 1923.)

When he came home that night and put his arms around me so And said he'd won the fight! My boy has gone to Washington, shouldn't mind it if I feel So very much alone. He'll see me often, t am sure, It's not real far, th boy has gone to Washington, He said good-bye today!

My boy has gone! Last night dreamed
That he was well once mor saw him as he came from school, A-rushin' through the door! My boy has gone to Washington,

I'm proud as I can be; FIND MAN ON THE FARM SECURES SOME ADVANTAGE

Special to The Advertiser. People's League of the Methodist Church, the program was prepared by the citizenship vice-president, Miss Vincenzo Lanni-were released, after Margaret Jenkins. The Rev. Dr. the police were satisfied that they Martin gave a brief Bible study, which was followed by a debate on the topic, "Resolved that a man in town with a salary of $2,000 with his house paid for is better off than a man in the country with a 100-acre farm equipped and paid for." The affirmative was upheld by Sydney Gould, Miss Jean Watson and Austin Stickland, and the negative by Clussie Lane, Miss Estelle Pond and Fred Jackson. The judges, Miss Margaret Jenkins, Miss Eunice Sudden and C.

A. Veigel, gave the decision to the negative by a very close margin.

Miss Beatrice Inkstater gave birthday dinner in honor of Miss Eiva D. Skippon.

FINALLY CLEARED

Say Evidence of N. Y. Police Is Strong Enough To Try Five For Murder.

CABAL OF CRIME

Associated Press Despatch New York, Nov. 28 .- The police onight announced they had- untangled the plot which led to the suspects more stolen slaying of the two west-end bank promising the solution of numerous messengers and theft of $43,607 in a other states. Brooklyn elevated station on November 14, and, through leads de- that the cabal indulged in booklegveloped in their investigations of this ging on the side. crime, had uncovered clues pointing reconstruction of the plot which led to a cabal of crime responsible for to the slaying of the bank messen-many other murders, holdups and gers in one of the boldest robberies after a day of lightning-swift de-velopments, during which: 1. Anthony Patano, a Brooklyn salesman, who confessed having under pressure informed the handits of bank messengers' movements, was arrested, and then six more up in a Bronx apartment. 2. Patano, along with Morris Dia mond and his brother Joseph, arrest ed several days ago, were thoroughly quizzed, and Patano was held as material witness, while charges of murder and robbery remained against the Diamond brothers. 3. Three of the Bronx suspect Eduardo Capabianco, Angelo Farina and Nicolo Luciana-were detained as material witnesses, after it was alleged they were present when the Bronx.

Boxer Is Held.

4. Michaelo Mezzano, a boxer, and another suspect rounded up in the Bronx, were virtually cleared of complicity in the Brooklyn robbery, but were detained on a charge of homi-cide after he had been identified as the slayer of Jacob Bankoff, a Manhattan druggist, during the holdu of his store on Nov. 13, the day be fore the Brooklyn murders. Mezzano was identified by Clement De Vries, Bankoff's clerk, accidentally, when ne went to police headquarters to look Paris, Nov. 28.—For the Young over the rogues' gallery pictures and ecople's League of the Methodist spotted Mezzano in the line-up. 5. The other two men rounded up were only laborers and not involved in the crime.

6. The police announced they had started a nation-wide search for the two actual mundances and the crime. two actual murderers and the driver of the car in which they had fied. 7. Detectives announced that the Diamond brothers, at first believed o have got the entire loot, had been double-crossed by the missing trio after receiving only $9,300, and been betrayed by the gunmen, who left in the murder car, when they abandoned it. Automobile license plate belongs to Joseph.

Seek Printer.

8. District attorney of Brooklyn an-nounced that through leads discovered today he would soon get his hands on Carlo A. Carcullaro, a printer, sought on charges of murder and arson in connection with the burning to death of six persons, including George Keim, a playwright, in a house Brooklyn last month. Two men ready are under arrest in the case 9. Detectives working on the ba case discovered in the possession of thefts in New York. Connecticut and

10. Discovery of stills indicating automobile thefts within the last ever committed in this city, express-few months. few months.

This note of victory was sounded hand, charges of first degree murder could be preferred against only three could be preferred against only three others besides the Diamond brothers. The police said they had a clear idea of the plot after Patano had confessed his part in the crime, and the Diamonds, formerly well known in Brooklyn as high school athletes, had made important admissions

HAMILTON MAN HAS CAR STOLEN AND BURNED

Harriston, Nov. 28 .- A touring car owned by William Fleet, Junr., of Hamilton, was stolen from the driveway of David Pocock's farm on the Fleet was calling there. The owner had left the car but a short time when it was discovered missing.

Later the car was found abandoned on a sideroad between the ninth and tenth concessions, about two miles from where it was stolen. The car when found was completely destroyed by fire, also three tires and rims and a Boyce motor meter were missing off the ca

senr., on the tenth concession of KING RECEIVES WARREN.

ton, where he resides, to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fleet,

London, Eng., Nov. 28. - King George today received Premier War-ren of Newfoundland at Buckingham

Superior

to the finest Japans,

GREEN TEA is the best at any price-Try it.

Beautifully Cool and

Sweet Smoking