This country is very greatly exaggerated as farming country. I say this as a farmer of twenty years experience, that I could do better in New Brunswick on a farm, if cleared, than here. The seasons are so uncertain and so short, and early and late frosts so terrible, that a man's wheat is never safe until in the barn. The only thing to pay well here are barn. The only thing to pay well here are cattle and horses and sheep. These will pay bell, but wheat will fail on an average every other year, so tell your New Brunswick farmers to keep at home."
