ADDRESS THE WORLD TORONTO.

The Toronto World. WEDNESDAY MORNING FERRILARY 15, 1889

A bill for the consolidation of the Toront and Nipissing, Whitby Port Perry and Lindsay, Victoria, Toronto and Ottawa, Grand Junction, and Midland railway companies was before the railway committee yesterday. We propose to give a few take place or if it does why it should only take place after very careful consideration, and after full provision has been made for the protection of the public interests.

In the first place we would point out that the amalgamation was inspired by, and is being pushed through by the Grand Trunk. It is only one step in the scheme of that great corporation to secure the entire control of the railway system of Ontario. What the Grand Trunk most fears is a competing line from the Detroit river to tidewater at Montreal. The construction of the Ontario and Quebec railway would secure this great competing line, as by it the Great Western and Canada Southern would have petition against it-which on many streets, free access to Montreal via. Ottawa. The especially exemption bordered ones, they will not often do—to let the council ing the construction of the Ontario and do just what they please, and Quebec, or failing in this to starve it as mortgage the property along the much as possible in the matter of local roads as they like. And we are traffic. If the Midland consolidation is actually asked to place this confieffected the six roads involved will be dence in a body who cannot even keep come part and parcel of the Grand Trunk, and they will be so worked that none of mutilated, or find out who does it when the traffic of the country which they serve | done. Once grant them this, and straightwill be given to the Ontario and Quebec way rings will be formed between conrailroad, but it will all be brought south to tractors and councilmen, and half the city the Grand Trunk, either at Whitby, Port | will be mortgaged to fill their pockets.

Hone or Belleville. As was pointed out by several gentlemen who represent various towns between Toronto and the Ottawa, the effect of the proposed amalgamation would be to do away with a certain amount of local competition that they now enjoy. These people are interested in two ways. In the first place they desire local competition among these six various lines and they also desire competition in reaching tidewater. Their interest, therefore, would be served in maintaing the independnce of the six local lines and we not better wait and see what our cedar ecuring the construction of the Ontario and | block really will do! We cannot believe in th rough line as of the Grand Trunk. There is another vital point at issue. The Grand Trunk desires to get to the Sault. and this Midland consolidation is to be the foundation of a northwestern extension to Lake Superior. Even if the Grand Trunk bought up the Sault charter it does not follow that y should have complete con-

rol over it. The whole of Ontario s interested in having a line built from some part of the Ontario system to the Sault, and provision should be made for fair running powers over that line and not for its passing into the control

He first begins by buying single lots very

A girl named Mary Wehle, recently arrived from Waterloo, was attacked by two men on Strachan avenue Sunday night. She struck one of the ruffians, but they managed to drag her into a vacant lot. A struggle followed and the girl was almost overcome when assistance arrived and the overcome when italists to handle large blocks of land. How well these schemes have succeeded here may be judged from the fact that enough farms, swamps, mud holes, quagmires and frog ponds around Winnipeg have been bought and sold in this way, at enormous gains, to make a city of three millions of people. For six miles on all sides you cannot get a foot of land but has been run up to such fabulous prices that a poor man cannot touch it. The winter has been favorable for these travergings. fabulous prices that a poor man cannot touch it. The winter has been favorable for these transactions. The snow is light, and the ground seems all high and dry, but in the spring it will require a tug to get over some of it. I may explain the modus operandi of this business for the special benefit of the "innocents at home" who may be coming out here next summer, if not sooner. The first thing is to secure any piece of land near the city, say at $10,000. Five men will put in $2000 a piece, and buy it, but it is usually held in one person's name—generally the richest man in the ring to give tone to think it is an advantage to be associated with a man of means, forgetting the old maxim about the large and small fishes. The next thing is to fix the price at a fearful figure, perhaps $75,900, and work up a "bound" on it in this way: Each of the "boom" on it in this way: Each of the five will take it up all over the city, and employ two or three apparently disinterested parties to refer to, and in a few days sell it to a new syndicate of ten, at $7,500 a piece they syndicate of ten, at $7,500 a piece, as "greens," and the obensible vendor, he retains a share in it to show them what good thing it is. But they get $67,500 tylow for $10,000, and can let the other ide if necessary. Some of the hotelkeepers in league with these respectable reacals octach the new-comers.
