That is enough in all conscience! The American Agriculturalist has made a study of food supply and places the deficit at the above figures, "or perhaps double as much." It says:

Enormous exports of wheat and flour from the United States in August prove that Europe regards the situation as worse than it has been single month, close upon the harvest, nearly half as much wheat as she took from the United States during the first eight months of the year following one of our largest wheat crops and a period of bed-rock prices? Indeed, August wheat exports were almost treble those of the same month last year, and over four times as much as the average exports at this season of last year. For the first time in years wheat, bran and middings are being exported to Europe thus early in the season.

The same authority tells us that the present prices of wheat are unnaturally low in the process of the store of the same and to the legal profession generally. Some held aloof from the newcomer but he had such a winning way, and moreover, his pockets were such a peren nia rce of delight with their false bottoms and funny corners, that in time he won them over. The guest soon became the dictator and the dictator's head swelled. He talked much and revealed more than was judicious, defining his policy as really one of Persia. He thinks that North American wheat may in part be held back from one cause and another until the demand is over, as was done in 1881. The French, Spaniards and Italians can use great economy in consumption, and if they ever did economize they will now.
