SAINT ANDREWS, NEW BRUNSWICK, WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 17, 1844.

New Brunswick, Provincial Parliament. HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

From the Journals.

Tuesday, 23 April.

On motion of Mr. Boyd, The House went into Committee of the whole on a Bill to encourage the Fisheries of this Province.

The Chairman reported, that the Committee having the Bill referred to them under their consideration, had made progress therein, and he was directed to ask for leave to sit again.

To Daniel Lee and Theodore Knutter the sum of £35 to remunerate them for that amount due them by the Commissioner for superintending the repairs of the Magaguadavic Bridge near Young's, and for extra materials and labour furnished by them last Summer in perfecting said repairs.

On motion of the Hon. Mr. Simonds.
Whereas by the Report of the Select Committee appointed in the Session of 1835, to inquire into and report upon all matters relating to the Charlotte County Election, and presented to the House on the twenty fourth February in that year, it appears that the Committee had discovered that certain errors, alterations and interlineations had been made in the Poll Book, and that they could not escape from the belief, that they were made by Robert Thomson, Esq. or with his privacy or knowledge; and whereas from what since transpired, there is good reason to believe that the whole facts came before the Select Committee, they would have arrived at other conclusions, which would have exculpated the said Robert Thomson from any blame attaching to him, in consequence of those errors, alterations and interlineations; therefore Resolved, unanimously, That in the opinion of this House, the said Robert Thomson Esq. is fully acquitted from blame in this matter, and that nothing unworthy or dishonorable attaches to his character.

Wednesday, 31 April.
A Bill to amend the Charter of King's College, passed the House.

To the Commissioners of the Alms House and Overseers of the Poor for the Parish of St. Andrews, the sum of £150 to reimburse them in expenses incurred for the relief of sick and distressed Emigrants; the same to be taken from the Emigrant Fund.

To the Overseers of the Poor for the Parish of St. George, the sum of £25 to reimburse them expenses incurred in aid of sick and distressed Emigrants in the year 1843; the same to be taken from the Emigrant Fund.

Mr. Hanington, from the Committee appointed to wait upon His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor with the Address of the House of the first inst., relative to the disposal of Crown Lands by instalments under the Association System, as also with regard to Despatches His Excellency may have received from this Colonial Secretary upon the subject, reported, That they had attended thereto, and that His Excellency was pleased to say, the information required should be furnished.

From the Courant.

Melancholy Death.—A young man named Samuel Fleming, son of Mr. John Fleming of Saint James, aged about 23 years, was killed, by a loaded sled passing over his body, on the Aroostook Road a few days since.

This is the same person whom our readers will remember, as having his head cut open in a lath machine at the Ferry Point last fall —and it is supposed that he fell from the sled while in a fit to which he has been subject since the accident alluded to.

Large Log.—A Pine Log making 4000 feet board measure, was hauled upon Millers-ry's Brook, the present winter, by Samuel and Stephen Gitchell. The stick is perfectly sound, clear of knots, 50 feet long, and 40 inches diameter or ten feet circumference at the top, or little end. This stick we presume is entitled to the name of "Burr," which we observed written upon it with red chalk—if not, whoever will tell us of a larger tree having been cut this winter, shall have credit for it.

Fire.—We learn that the dwelling house of Mr. Edwin Foster, on Tower Hill, was wholly consumed by fire on Wednesday night last; the family barely escaping with their lives. We have had no further particulars, but understand Mr. Foster's loss is estimated at £200.

Chickens.—Nature is getting superfluous.
We rather think she will be soon voted out of fashion and dispensed with. There is a chap just over our publication office hatching chickens in a big box, fifty a day, having a thousand eggs always doing. The trouble of doing them is slight, the heat costs very little, and the chickens crack their several shells and walk up to their dough and water like woodchoppers to dinner, or sailors to their grog. They are clean, strong, and lively, grow fast and rarely die; and whoever has a hatching machine can have "spring chickens" every week in the year; and at small expense. If we could invent a machine to lay eggs now, hens would be done with. Am. Paper.

It is said that 69 of the principal cities had towns of England (including Liverpool, Bristol, Birmingham, Nottingham, &c.) would not produce a population equal to that of London. It is also calculated that a population equal to that of the city of Sa-labury is added to London every three months.

St. Johns, Newfd. Scot Fishery.—In none of the British Colonial seaports is the spirit of enterprise so busy as in St. Johns, though it can boast of fewer allurements to intelligent merchants than any other. This season the Seal Fishery has caused the investment of a greater amount of means than ever, notwithstanding the extra hazardous nature of the business. Last year, there were 69 vessels, 9,625 tons, and 3477 men employed; this season there are 15 vessels, 1,403 tons, and 538 men engaged, beyond the numera-tion of that period. (Acadian Recorder.)

Two gentlemen of Mobile, a few days since, killed in about eight hours the extraordinary number of 297 English snipe, bull-heads and curlew plover.

Discontent.—How universal it is. We never knew the man who would say "I am contented." Go where you will, among the rich or the poor, the man of competence, or the man who earns his bread by the daily sweat of his brow, you hear the sound of murmuring and the voice of complaint. The other day we stood by a cooper, who was playing a merry tune with an adze round a cask. "Ah!" sighed he, "mine is a hard lot, forever trotting round like a dog driving a way at a hoop." "Heigho!" sighed a blacksmith, in one of the hot days, as he wiped the perspiration from his brow, while his red-hot iron glowed on his anvil, "this is life with a vengeance—melting and frying one's self over the fire." "Oh that I were a carpenter!" ejaculated a shoemaker, as he bent over his lap-stone, "here I am day after day, working my soul away in making soles for others, cooped up in a little 7 by 9 room."

"I am sick of this out-door work," exclaims the carpenter, hollering and sweating under the sun, or exposed to the inclemency of the weather, "if I was only a tailor." "This is too bad," perpetually cries the tailor, "to be compelled to sit perched up here, plying the needle all the while—would that mine was a more active life." "Last day of grace—the banks won't discount—customers won't pay—what shall I do?" grumbles the merchant, "I had rather be a truck-horse, a dog, any thing." "Happy fellow, grunts the lawyer, "he scratches his head over some perplexing case, or pores over some dry record."

"Happy fellow," I had rather hammer structure than cogel my brain on this tedious, vexa-tious question. And through all the ramifications of society, all complaining of their condition—fading fast with their particular calling. "If I were only this, or that, or the other, I should be content," is the universal cry, "anything but what I am." So wags the world, so it has wagged, and so it will wag.

Finished.—A word in general use, and of very significant import.

A young girl who has passed three years in a boarding school, gathered a superficial knowledge of her own language and the French, and acquired a profound knowledge of music, is said to be finished—that is, ready for a fine husband.

A student who has passed four years in a college, learned to rob hen roosts, drink rum, smoke opium, and spend the liberal allowance of a kind parent in every species of unworthy excess—receives his degrees, and makes a commonplace harangue, is finished—that is, ready for the d-r.

The prodigal who wastes at the gaming table and in the haunts of debauchery, a splendid patrimony, and then blows out his brag in a fit of despair, is said, by those who despised him to his ruin, to be finished.

It is finished, exclaims the man of fashion, as he surveys the completion of all the essentials of a splendid entertainment, which he is about to give five hundred men and women, who so far from indulging a friendly feeling for their host, will laugh at him in their sleeves, as they sip his costly wines, and criticize his person and air, while they are even washing and devouring his substance.

It is finished, the poor widow whispers, while her sunken eyes dilate, and light up with a mournful joy, as she folds the garment the making of which will give to herself and fatherless ones the coarse and scanty food for another day's subsistence.

Finished, murmurs the penniless lover, as he beholds the last drop descend from the beloved jug.

It is finished, gasps out the man of blood and violence, as he lays his head on the scaffold, and pays to the society he has warred upon, the forfeit of his crimes.

Finished! is the life-journey; what joys are expressed by this one word, what doubts made certain, what hopes realized, what forebodings confirmed!

POETRY.

THE WARNING.
Sinner will thou hear the warning, Sent in mercy—not in wrath!
Listen to the voice proclaiming, Dangers circle round thy path.
Flee the wine cup,
Dangers circle round thy path.

Listen to the woe, Jehovah In his statute-book records; Every line is fraught with terror;
Every word thy doom unfolds;
Reckless sinner,
Every word thy doom unfolds.

In the land of woe and weeping, Shall the drunkard weep and moan,
The lake that ever burneth,
Ever banished from the throne.
Wretched outcast,
Ever banished from the throne.

The syren singing peace and safety, Wreaths the cup of death with smiles,
But that cup is full of sorrow,
In its depths the serpent coils:
Touch not, taste not,
In its depth the serpent coils.

Youthful votary of pleasure, Launch not on the treacherous sea;
Its waves will bear thee, full of anguish,
To a lost eternity.
Young immortal,
To a lost eternity.

Cure for the Cancer.—The following recipe is said to be a sure cure for a cancer: Take wood sorrel and pound it well in a mortar; then strain it through a cloth and dry it down. Cut a piece of cloth or leather a little larger than the cancer and spread a thin coat and apply it, it will give much pain, but not enough to physic. It may take a week before it is all out, when you suppose that it is all out, then to cleanse it, take gar-gool, (some call it cocum) pound and strain at above, and dry it on a plate. Apply plasters of it daily until healed up. Should the sorrel patient prove so painful as to prevent the patient from resting nights, it may be taken off for a few hours. The sorrel grows in low hemlock land, the leaves about as large as red clover, in the shape of three leaves. The garget or cocum is frequently found in some parts of the country, on the road side. It grows about as high as a man's shoulders and bears a cluster of dark red berries.

The Albany Daily Advertiser says that the above has been found efficacious in the cure of cancer in that city.

We find the following article in the New York True Sun, which gives a short but vivid description of the greatness of that noble and magnificent nation of which it is our honour and happiness to form a part. We fully agree with the writer, that the policy of England is "essentially pacific," but at the same time sternly just:

British Dependencies.—It is not without interest we regard the possessions of Great Britain, at a moment when, if we may believe some of our leading politicians, she has her eye on Oregon.—The truth is, the leading journals, as well as the leading statesmen of England, have taken up the idea—that we are desirous of war; that we would like once more to try our mettle in a contest with her, now that we are more powerful, and better able to exert our strength. And the fact is not to be disguised that, with just cause, our out part, such a contest would not find us a divided people. But we still hold to our opinions expressed on Saturday last, that the policy of England is at present essentially pacific. Her dependencies are already of the most extended character. The care of them is oppressive and troublesome, and we cannot believe that the territory in dispute upon our North Western Coast will ever be considered sufficiently important to engage her in a serious opposition to our right. Let us for a moment glance at the English dependencies in Europe. (They are Gibraltar, Malta, and Gozo; the Ionian Islands, seven in number; and Heligoland, an island in the North Sea, off the coast of Holstein, occupied by Denmark in 1804, a convenient place of resort for smugglers, and now much frequented by invalids for the sake of the baths.
These possessions give constant employment to the English manufacturers; the commercial marine, and to her vessels of war.)

The dependencies of Asia are vast and important in every sense. The result of a small mercantile adventure in 1809, with a capital of only £30,000 has been the acquisition of territories of boundless extent, of kingdom upon kingdom, and the growth of a commerce which can scarcely be estimated. England receives directly $15,000,000 a year as dividends upon capital invested in India, besides countless sums which come into her lap by indirect means. There are one hundred distinct districts or territories in Asia, at the least calculations over with the British flag exerts its restraints or evinces its power.

Then there are the immense possessions of Australia 24 hundred miles long, and 1700 wide, with an area 25 times as large as that of Great Britain and Ireland. Under this head we place New South Wales, Van Die-men's land, Western Australia, South Australia, and New Zealand. A profitable commerce connected with emigration is also beginning to reach this quarter of the world.

In Africa, England has the Cape of Good Hope with an area of 111,000 square miles.
Mauritius, (an island in the Indian Ocean, St. Helena, the island of Ascension, St. Paul Island, the settlements on the Gambia, Cape Cott Castle, Accra, Dix Cove, Annamaboe, and Fernando Po.

In North America, there are the Canadian (the acquisition of Wolfe) twice, and a half larger than Great Britain and Ireland; New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Cape Breton, Prince Edward's Island, New Foundland; the Hudson Bay Territory with an area of three millions of miles and the Bermudas in the North Atlantic. What immense possessions are these?

In the West Indies, we find the British authority in the ascendancy in Antigua, Barbados, Anguilla, Dominica, Grenadines, Montserrat, Nevis, St. Christopher, St. Lucia, St.
Vincent, Tobago, Trinidad, Tortola and the Virgin Islands, Jamaica, the Bahama Islands, British Guiana, and Honduras.

The abolition of slavery in the West Indies is one of the most remarkable acts of power ever exercised by the mother country.
On some more fitting occasion we shall allude to it again. 603,809 slaves were liberated at a cost to the public of $16,561,634.

It appears by official returns that as late as 1841 the value of British Manufactures, exported to British colonies was over fifteen millions of pounds sterling, while to all the world besides it was but about fifty-one millions and a half pounds.

Curious Pulpit.—The pulpit in the church of St. Peter, at Wolverhampton, Eng., is formed wholly of stone, and consists of one entire piece, which supports it; the flight of steps leading to it, with the balustrade, &c., without any division, the whole having been cut out of a solid block of stone. The church was erected in the year 996, at which time it is said this remarkable pulpit was put up, and notwithstanding its great age, which appears to be 848 years, it is still good condition and continues in regular use.

Friendship of the World.—When I see leaves drop from the trees in the beginning of autumn, just such, think I, is the friendship of the world. While the sap of maintenance lasts, my friends swarm in abundance; but in the winter of need, they leave me naked.
He is a happy man, who hath a true friend at his need; but he is more truly happy that hath no need of his friend.

The erer fertile brain of the Yankees, has invented a new kind of ink called the "love letter ink." The virtue of this ink consists in its being a sure preventive against all kinds of breach of promise, as the ink fades away and leaves the sheet blank again in about 4 weeks after being written upon.

The Naval Court of Inquiry, convened by order of the Secretary of the Navy to investigate the cause of the disastrous explosion on board the Princeton, have made their report, in which they totally exonerate Captain Stockton and his officers from the slightest blame, and attribute the explosion entirely to accident.—Am. papers.

Countertenor half eagles, well executed and calculated to deceive, has been recently discovered in Baltimore. There is an omission of the period after the word and letter "P" and "L," which may enable persons to detect the fraud.
