Mr. Trumbull's address will probably be published in full with the proceedings of the Convention.

The morning of the

THIRD DAY

Was devoted to discussions on "Uniform Lessons," "Sabbath School Accommodation," and suggestions with regard to the next convention ; but these we cannot even notice.

In the afternoon, the Convention met at two o'clock, in four sections, in as many different places, namely, superintendents, Bible class teachers, intermediate class teachers, and infant class teachers' sections.

At four o'clock, the children of the several Sunday Schools in the town were gathered in Knox Church, nearly filling the body of the building. The gallery and aisles were crowded with delegates and visitors. The addresses delivered were too numerous (five), and mostly too long, so that we cannot speak of it as a very successful meeting.

At the evening session, after devotional exercises, reports were read from the sections that had met in the afternoon.

The "Question Drawer" was then answered in part by Mr. H. J. Clark, of Toronto, and Rev. W. R. Parker, of Brantford ; but the questions being so numerous, some of them were handed over to Mr. Taylor, to be answered in the S. S. Workman. A number of brief but stirring addresses then followed, and the Convention adjourned, to meet in London in 1871.
