

of a police officer to take the negro into custody. Not finding one, Mr. C. returned. He told the negro to go up into the Mayor's office. Mr. Chester then turned to deliver a paper to Waldren, Esq. when immediately the negro drew a pistol and fired it at him; the ball entered his head on the left side below the ear. Mr. Chester fell at once, and lived only five minutes, without speaking. Mr. Frazer and Mr. Brady promptly clinched with the negro, who attempted to use his pistol again. Mr. Frazer wrested the pistol from him, and finding that he could not discharge it again, chastised the negro severely. An excited crowd at once rushed in. Shortly Mr. Chester's son, a lad of seventeen, came in, crazed with his terrible misfortune, was furnished with a pistol, and fired three slugs into the negro's back. They inflicted a mortal wound. The negro was hurried off to the calaboose.—A crowd, excited to frenzy by the spectacle of the dead Chester, followed, compelled the surrender of the calaboose keys, dragged out the negro, and in the view of an immense crowd, swung him up to the next tree. He confessed that he was a runaway before dying.

The Louisville Journal of Thursday, the 9th inst., says:—

A private letter to a gentleman in Nashville states that a white man has been committed to jail as an accomplice of the murderer, it being supposed that the pistol was furnished by him. It was with great difficulty the citizens could be prevented from hanging him also, the city guard having been doubled at the city prison.

PHILANTHROPY AND MISANTHROPY.—We notice an inclination in the Catholic periodicals, and in Catholic lectures, to treat not only with suspicion, but even with contempt, the assumption of that very equivocal ministering angel, philanthropy. As its title is one of those vague modernisms so full of fallacy, and so current in our age, it should be made to show its papers before admitted into Catholic language. If it is applied to true benevolence charity is a sweeter and holier word; if not, it should be shown up at once.—Philanthropy means love for men, misanthropy hatred of men. In nine cases out of ten the word philanthropy really means misanthropy. Its object is to lead to destruction those it professes to benefit and save.—Its plan is like that of the monkey in the fable, who saw some fine potatoes roasting in the kitchen fire, and seizing upon the cat who was dozing on the hearth, made use of its innocent paw to rake them out of the red hot embers. Whenever those pious looking customers who have somewhere been ironically styled "Friends and Fathers," lay hold in seeming kindness of a victim, what they profess is philanthropy, what they are really actuated by, is misanthropy; the object is the flavorful esculent roasting at the kitchen fire; they are the malicious monkey, and the victim the foolish cat sleeping, when it ought to have watched with the hundred eyes of Argus.—N. Y. Freeman's Journal.

IRELAND.

The Mayor of Limerick has munificently dispensed 100 guineas to the local charities, from his private purse.—Limerick Chronicle.

We understand that a sealed order was issued on Saturday, dismissing the Ennistymon Board of Guardians, who have made themselves infamous by their treatment of the poor, and whose conduct, particularly in the case exposed by "S.G.O.," of the boy that dropped dead while journeying from one workhouse to another, drew upon them universal execration. They are now justly deprived of the functions which they shamefully abused.

To THE EDITOR OF THE FREEMAN.—St. Augustine's, Ramsgate, Dec. 18th, 1850. Sir—I regret exceedingly to observe that in some late number of your journal you introduce the name of the Earl of Shrewsbury, as likely to act in the same unworthy manner as Lord Beaumont and the Duke of Norfolk. The Earl is now far distant from England, but as a long-trying and faithful servant of his lordship, and one who is well acquainted with his principles, and his uncompromising adherence to the Catholic faith, I cannot remain silent under this most unjust aspersion on his name; and I therefore most solemnly declare my firm conviction that the Earl of Shrewsbury would rather lose every acre of his broad lands, and suffer even death itself, than be guilty of any action that was inconsistent with the duty of a faithful son of the Catholic Church. Trusting, in justice to his lordship, you will give publicity to this letter, I remain your humble servant. A. WELBY PUGH.

Notes and Queries says—"There is a current belief in Ireland that the family of Mather, in Roscommon, is descended from Queen Elizabeth; and there are many traditions completely at variance with the ordinarily received opinion as to her inviolate chastity. A discussion of the matter might discover the foundation on which they rest."

Mr. H. B. Ker, in writing to Surgeon Wild his opinions formed during a recent visit in Ireland says—"I do not think there are any gardens in Europe better managed than those of Glasnevin and of Belfast—none where so much is done at so small a cost—none where greater zeal and greater devotion is shown by the persons having their management. I think Belfast Botanic Garden may vie with—nay, I sincerely believe, surpasses—any provincial public garden in England, and certainly Glasnevin, in utility at least, surpasses Kew, though I should suppose the means at the disposal of Kew are more than ten times what are the support of Glasnevin."

The eccentric Sidney Smith, in speaking of the prosy nature of most sermons, said—"They were written as if sin were to be taken out of man, like Eve out of Adam, by putting him to sleep."

THE POPULAR CYCLOPEDIA OF MODERN DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By Dr. IMRAY, Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, &c., &c.

The Subscribers having purchased a large number of the above work, are enabled to sell it for Twelve Shillings and Sixpence, being seven shillings and sixpence less than the New York price. It makes a large octavo volume of nearly 900 pages and is substantially bound in leather.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

"We conscientiously recommend this book as the best, and only one, that will supply in all respects, the want of a scientific treatise on popular medicine, which has long been felt by those to whom the work is addressed. To the Clergy, therefore, who feel it their duty to know in some degree the principles and practice of medicine, in order that they may administer relief, in slight cases, amongst their parishioners, and, in cases of emergency, before the arrival of proper medical assistance; to foreign Missionaries; to Settlers in the new Colonies; to Captains of Vessels; to Heads of Schools and Families; to each, and to all, we would strongly recommend this admirable work."—Church of England Quarterly Review.

"The book is intelligibly and clearly written; and as a more general view of the more important diseases to which miserable man is subject, and in which all miserable men ought to take a sharp interest, it has a value quite apart from anything more directly practical. Dr. Imray's book is worth ten thousand of those ordinary Family Medicine Instructors that it would be difficult not to detect, in some corner or other, of almost every country house."—Examiner.

"There are, in almost every page, some useful hints and advice, that cannot fail to be of great advantage to all who consult the volume; while the reader will find much to instruct him 'de morbo occurrente.'"—Globe.

"We consider Dr. Imray's Cyclopaedia to be a work of much merit and value, showing a large acquaintance with all the diseases which flesh is heir to. The articles on Consumption, Indigestion, and Diet, are worthy of the attention and remembrance of every person."—Manchester Courier.

"Dr. Imray's name is a guarantee for the value of his work. It is a large volume, embracing all the leading maladies incident to the human frame, and appears to us one of the most suitable works a family could have in their possession."—Observer.

"We feel happy in being able to speak most favorably of this work, as the only one we are acquainted with that will tend to instruct those to whom it is addressed, and remove the erroneous views under which the public labor on the nature and cure of their bodily sufferings. We most strongly recommend this 'Cyclopaedia of Popular Medicine' to all. We would wish it to find a place in every family; but most especially would we direct it to the attention of our Clergy residing in remote rural districts,—to them such a work must be an especial boon."—Churchman.
