MUST NOT FAIL

Need for Financial Strength is at the Dawn of Victory.

MEETING OF BANKERS

Points of Loan Campaign Explained at Big Gathering.

Canada's heroes have placed their country's name on such a footing and have given it such prominence among the nations of the world by their sacrifice, their initiative, their ability to smash the German line and their undounted spirit of victory that those at home must measure up and in the coming Victory Loan campaign lend money to the limit, to the utmost, to the point where prudence ceases.

The nearer the dawn of victory the grater the need for military and financial strength in order that the magnitude of the power behind the allies may absolutely stagger the enemy and with blow on blow heavier with each repetition break the enemy morale and compel him to seek any terms he may get, glad to give in with amonditional surrender.

This was the note struck at an enthusiastic tho serious meting of the branch bank managers of Toronto when they met to hear addresses or the organization of the Victory Loan campaign and to join in a discussion of its various problems following dinner at the King Edward Hotel last evening. Those who spoke were Site Edmund Walker, Dennison Miller, Sir Among those at the head table were J. W. Mitchell, Dennison Miller, Sir Among those at the head table were J. W. In the beginning Great Britain had placed a credit here of $5,000,000 a month. As the war progressed, conditions changed until today Canada was lending money to Great Britain, and the situation was reversed. Sir Edmund dwelt upon technical points in regard to the questions of finance, and reminded his audience that the bankers would do much to educate the people along these lines. "But," he said, "when we say Canada must lend the money, we mean she must, and we have learned that when a Canadian is told a thing once that is enough. The man who doesn't lend his money at the call of his country has no right to enjoy its privileges. The greatest danger is that of slackening at the last moment. Everything must increase in its scope until the actual moment of peace is secured. There must be the maximum of dynamic force."

He stated that altho bankers were asked to do the opposite to their usual asked to do the opposite to their usual practice and encourage depositors to put their savings in bonds, it was a fact that following last year's loan campaign there was now more money in the banks on deposit than there had be no use to the banks and the banks no use to the customers if we did not win this war," he said with emphasis, "and we can only win by doing the most we can, not the least. The man who takes a $500 bond when he should take $1,000 is fooling himself. He is not prudent."

not prudent."

Sir Edmund spoke with sincere feeling of the bravery of the Canadians in the front trenches, and paid tribute to the Anzacs for the brilliant part they were released. part they were playing, but said that part they were playing, but said that the meanest as well as the loftiest significance of the sacrifices was not the mere winning of the war, but the glorious halo about the name Canada that would attract the best immisrants after the war to settle here. During the year Ontario had contributed $20,000,000 to war charities, and this was but another indication of the this was but another indication of the

Mr. Miller, who was on his way to Australia after visiting England and France, said there had been seven loans in Australia, each of which had substantially oversubscribed were only two things that counted, men and money, and nothing else mattered but to win the war. He said every man and woman in Eng-land was at war work, and in France the various branches of military activity were going ahead wonderfully. lefields and what the Germans had done in leveling cities for the sake of destruction only. "It makes one feel that we must win the war definitely," he said. "There must be the uncon-ditional surrender of the Hun, or our sacrifices have been in vain. It is the duty and should be the pleasure of every person to subscribe to the fullest extent, and in Australia we advised them to put all the money they had into bonds and then borrow more and put that in bonds too." Mr. Mitchest explained the purpos of the meeting, and said that the minister of finance expected Toronto 000,000 was raised. The minimum this year is to be $80,000,000, and this amount should be exceeded substan-tially. He spoke of the honor flags which would be donated by the gov-paign.

Following the speeches, the meeting was thrown open for general discussion, when matters of detail were taken up, and all kinds of perplexing questions answered. A feature of the meeting was the rousing singing by Frank Oldfield, accompanied by Charles Musgrave at the piano. Mr. Oldfield was introduced as the official soloist of this and all other Victory Loan canipaigns.

executive, and H. V. F. Jones, chairman of the advisory committee for Ontario.

New Circumstances.

It was one of the most interesting meetings conducted on any campaign since the war began, and there was a peculiar feeling of responcibility which seemed to prevail constantly. The why of the 1913 loan was told in convining sentences by Sir Edmund. Its coming was not a surprise to the bankers, nor would future loans be cause for surprise, but while they knew a year ago that Britain and her allies would win the war, the circumstances were tremendously different this year.

"We know now that victory is within our grasp," he said. "We might in our grasp," he said. "We might have had a kind of victory had we so desired ere this, but we have backing enough now, with the United States in the war, to demand unconditional surrender."

Canada had faced many great problems since the war began and had surmounted them all. Things that were considered impossible five years, ago had been accomplished in all lines of activity. Nothing in history could ever efface the glory of Canada's volunteer army, and while Sir Edmund did not attempt a discussion of the Conscription Bill, he held that Canada's volunteer force had outweighed all other accomplishments.

In the beginning Great Britain had placed a credit here of $5,000,000 as a market has the war reconstruct.

Texture the past few days.

At a meeting of the Rotary committee on fderation for community service, held at the King Edward Hotel on Tuesday at noon, steps were considered for securing more complete survey of the city, who are in need of help. It was decided to make a complete survey of the city and to this end the postmen and postal authorities were approached for co-operation. The quick response was "anything in our power." Authority to render this assistance was required from Ottawa and this had been accomplishment of the city and to this end the postmen proceeded with the printing of the postmen proceeded with the printing of the feeling of the city and the making o

To the Thousand and One Applicants Who Have Been Refused Telco Service

Dear Sirs:---

During the last three months we have been unable to supply you with electric service.

You naturally have a feeling that you have been discriminated against, and that a Public Utility should be compelled to supply all applicants.

We are in business to serve all customers on our lines, and have spared neither money nor engineering ability to make our service superior and indispensable to you, and have provided for our customers ample reserves in power capacity. Steam and battery plants as insurance of continuity and for additional demands were provided.

On the Order of the Federal Authorities made last November, however, these carefully planned reserves have been diverted from our customers' use and placed at the disposal of our business competitor, the Hydro Electric Commission.

We have been assured that all of this 28,500 horsepower supplied under these Orders is required to supply Hydro deficiencies on munition contracts. We hope it is so used.

For the above reason we were prevented from taking any additional contracts, consequently were unable to accept your Hastings, M.O.H., at the resumed inquest over the remains of Cadet Davidson, who died there October 13 from the effects of Spanish influenza. The M.O.H. agreed with Crown Attorney Greer that the building was obsolete in structure, with a mass of faults and few virtues. He stated that the late Dr. Bruce-Smith had condemned the building, which had been abandoned by the trustees. Lieutenant-Colonel MacDonald, advocate for the military authorities, endeavored to show that the M.O.H. could have exerted control over the Base Hospital if he had so desired "Would you interfere if you knew that the authorities were not dealing properly, say with diphtheria patients?" asked Col. MacDonald. "Not unless I knew also that they were also affecting the health of the citizens of the city," replied the M.O.H. "The military hospitals are conducted under federal control and Colonel McCullough has been placed in charge of all such hospitals in this province. I have every faith in his ability."

Capt. William H. Butler, M.O. at Long Branch Camp, warmly repudiated the advice of Mayor Church to grant the well members of the force at the camp leave of absence during the epidemic. "In my opinion, to do so," said the witness in repty to I. F. Fairly, assistant city solicitor, "would only tend to increase the possibilities of infection. We isolate our men, and all traces of an epidemic have now disappeared."

Opinion of Dr. Hastings
Regarding the Base Hospital.

That the Base Hospital had been inspected more than two years ago as to its possibilities as a barracks and that the military authorities had used it for two battalions, and that the present accommodation of more than 800 patients would be conducive to greater mortality than would be the case with 400 patients in the same building, which was really capable of accommodation, only 250 patients.
