POETRY, &c. AN APRIL DAY. When the warm sun that brings Seed-time and harvest has return'd again, 'Tis sweet to visit the still wood, where springs The first flower of the plain. I love the season well, When forcet glades are teening with bright form Nor dark nor manifolded-clouds foretell The coming-on of storms.

From the earth's loosen'd mould The sapling draws its sustenance, and thrives ; Though stricken to the heart with winter's cold, The drooping tree revives.

The softly-warbled song Comes from the pleasant woods, and colour'd wings Glance quick in the bright song that moves along The forest openings.

When the bright sun-set fills silver woods with light, the green slo shadows in the hollows of the hills, And wide the upland glows.

And, when the eve is born, In the blue lake the sky, o'er-reaching far, Is hollow'd out, and the moon dips her horn, And twinkles many a star.

Inverted in the tide, Stand the grey rocks, and trembling shadows th And the fair trees look over, side by side, And see themselves below.

Sweet April ! many a thought Is weided unto thee, as hearts are wed : Nor shall they fail, till, to its autumn brought, Life's golden fruit is shed.

backwards than forwards."--Castle of Ehrensten. The ENFERON OF CHINA.--The "Son of the Sun" appears to have been in a similar predicament to her Majesty Queen Victoria--his palace has required additions and repairs, especially the harem We read that a certain person--the Mr. Biore of China--h has given a very full account of whith will be required for outlay, labour, and supervision, with all other particulars." This extension of the harem is partly accounted for by another paragraph. "Lan kwang has been pleased to raise one of his concubines to the rank of imperial partner. The mame of the lady does not appear, for to pronounce it would be sacrilege." Under a later date we read, "The Emperor appears to be in excellent appirits since he raised the lady of the harem to be his consort.-The surplus from the southern trade of Teen tain, which is expected this year to amount to 12,300 taels, has been assigned in advance to meet the household expresses of the princes."
