A Professor of Economics Said:

"When a man buys a suit, he is looking for the point of maximum economy."

"In other words, he is after the best style and the longest wear at the lowest possible price."

As for ourselves, we aren't much given to theorizing. But we do think our 20th Century Brand ready clothes, at today's prices, touch the maximum economy point.

Ready to finish to your measure at short notice.

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—Jack Britton, a Chicago middleweight, and Soldier Bartfield of New York fought six fast rounds to a draw here tonight at Shibe Park.

In the fifth round Britton dropped his opponent to the mat, but he came back strong in the sixth and earned a draw.

Before the first bout 300 government agents went through the crowd and arrested about 600 alleged draft evaders.

Hard Job.

Any one who has ever led a drunken man home will understand the latent heroism in President Wilson's declaration that he intends to stand by Russia.
