

vessels, yet by the grace of God we are filled with the truth, and made servants to the Churches, as stewards of the manifold grace of God through Jesus Christ our Lord. And first Brethren, what a solemn truth is this, that He whose eyes is as a burning flame, which run to and fro through the earth, beholding the evil and the good, is in the midst of the Churches, and beholds not only the conduct, but the intents and thoughts of every heart. When we compare our sentiments and practice with the doctrine and conduct of Christ and his Apostles, have we not cause to tremble before God and repent, and do our first works, lest he come and remove the candlestick. Are there not many of us who do not hold fast the form of sound words, but substitute in place thereof the doctrines of carnal men. The Holy Ghost has ingenuously brought forward the everlasting love of God as the foundation of the salvation of the poor sinner, with which is connected the meritorious life and atoning death of our Blessed Saviour, with all the great mystery of godliness. Here an infinite demand receives an infinite satisfaction, and our salvation is complete; while the astonished Angels de-
