

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

LITTLE PIGS IN BLANKETS.

Eighteen large oysters, an equal number of slices of boned breakfast bacon, and a plate of toast should be allowed for three persons. Get the bacon where they use a machine for cutting it, and have it cut as thin as a shaving. If you cannot get it cut in this way, it is better to buy the bacon in the piece and cut it with a sharp knife yourself. The slices should be so thin that one could almost see through them. Wrap each oyster in a slice of the bacon and fasten it with a wooden tooth-pick. Light the lamp, having the wicks rather high, and place the granite-ware dish over it. In a few seconds put in as many "little pigs" as will lie flat on the bottom of the pan. Turn constantly with a fork until they are brown on both sides; serve at once on slices of toast. Put in another layer and cook as before. With a dish of common size six or eight can be cooked at a time.

LAMBS' KIDNEY SAUTÉ.

Four kidneys should be used for three people. Wash them, remove the skin and hard white cores, and cut them into thin round slices. Have the lamp wicks low. Place the granite-ware pan on the lightest lamp, and put into it two tablespoonsful of butter and one teaspoonful of flour. Stir until the butter begins to bubble; then put in the sliced kidneys, and season with one teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper. Stir with a fork for three minutes, turning the pieces of kidney over so that each shall come in contact with the bottom of the pan. Now add two tablespoonsful of lemon-juice and a gill of cold water. Stir until the sauce begins to boil. The meat must never fry or boil rapidly, as a high temperature would harden it. Serve with toast. Instead of the lemon and water there may be added to the kidneys half a pint of stewed tomato, cold. When this begins to boil blow out the light and serve at once.

DEVILED OYSTERS.

For three people use eighteen large oysters, three tablespoonsful of butter, two tablespoonsful of lemon-juice, one level teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of mixed mustard and half a teaspoonful of cayenne. Drain the oysters. Put the butter in a granite-ware dish and light the lamp. When the butter is hot add the oysters and other ingredients. Stir until the oysters begin to curl on the edge, which will be in about four minutes. Serve at once on hot toast. For cooking this dish the wick of the lamp should be kept high to produce great heat.

SCOTCH WOODCOCK.

There will be required for six persons half a dozen slices of toast, six hard boiled eggs, two tablespoonsful of butter, one of flour, one of anchovy paste, half a pint of milk, half a teaspoonful of salt and a grain of cayenne. Slice the eggs into a soup plate, and then chop them with a silver-plated knife until they are rather fine. Put the butter in the granite-ware dish and place over the lamp. As soon as the butter melts add the flour and stir until the mixture is smooth and frothy, but be careful that it does not brown; now add the milk, a little at a time, stirring all the while. Stir with the back of the bowl of the spoon, not the edge. Stir continually until the same boils; then add the anchovy paste, salt and pepper. Cook for one minute, then add the eggs and cook for three minutes. Place a slice of toast on a warm plate and spread about sixths of the woodcock on it. Without delay serve the six slices of toast in this manner. Should it be necessary to keep the woodcock hot for a short time before serving, place the dish over another of hot water, and cover.

STEWED MUSHROOMS ON TOAST.

Cut the stalks from some fresh mushrooms. Have two bowls, one half full of cold water. Raise the mushrooms, one by one, in the water, and drop them into the second bowl. (They should not rest a moment in the water, as that would impoverish them.) For one pound of mushrooms put into the upper pan two tablespoonsful of butter; stir the mushrooms into this, and sprinkle over them one teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of pepper. Cook them gently for ten minutes, having the wicks of the lamp low, and serve on toast.

The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is well known to the medical profession and universally approved. The reputation of the firm guarantees excellence and uniformity in the medicine, and the world's experience for nearly half a century has fully demonstrated its value.

A LOVING WIFE.

Deceives Her Husband, and Thus Saves His Life.
Brantford Examiner.

A report has been circulated around this vicinity for some time past of the cure of Mr. Samuel Hall, a severe attack of sciatica and muscular rheumatism about two years ago by the use of Williams' Royal Crown Remedy, after many other remedies had failed and several doctors had tried their skill upon him. A reporter investigated the case this morning and had a short interview with Mr. Hall, who at present resides at 31 Albion street. After explaining the business he was upon the reporter asked if Mr. Hall was willing to give any testimony in favor of this medicine, which had been stated to have cured him of his complaint. He answered that he had testified to many persons who had been afflicted with this trouble, and they, as well as he, had found the medicine to be superior to anything ever used for the complaint.

"When was it that you were taken sick, and what form did the sickness take?"
"It was a little over two years ago, and the complaint was sciatica rheumatism."
"How long were you sick before you took the Royal Crown Remedy?"
"About twelve weeks."
"Who had been your doctor previous to this?"
"I was living at the time in Welland, and when I was taken sick Dr. Smith of that place was my physician. When we came to Brantford I consulted the leading physician here and he gave me medicine."
"When we came to Brantford," said Mrs. Hall, "we had great confidence in our doctor, and thought if anything could be done he would do it."
"Well, how did you commence to take this Royal Crown Remedy?"
"I had to practice considerable deception to get my husband to take it, as he was so confident in the power and skill of this leading doctor that he would not listen to taking any other medicine. I took the bottle of medicine before Dr. S. had left and took about the same quantity of the other medicine in the bottle, the two of them being so near alike in color that my husband did not notice the change either in appearance or taste."

"Who was this medicine recommended to you by?"
"It was recommended by Mrs. Hall, my daughter-in-law, who lives on Dalhousie street now."
"How long did your husband take it before he appeared to be better?"
"In one week there was a difference in his condition, and two weeks he could walk with the help of a cane, and he had to use crutches before."
"How much of the medicine was used?"
"We got only two bottles of it."
"Has he had any return of the complaint yet?"
"No."

We, Samuel and Sarah Hall, of the city of Brantford, in the county of Brant husband and wife, respectively, do solemnly declare:
1. That we have read over the above written articles purporting to be an interview held by a reporter with our relative the cure of the said Samuel Hall of sciatica rheumatism by the use of Williams' Royal Crown Remedy.
2. That the facts set out in the above article are true in every particular.
And we make this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the "Act Respecting Extra Judicial Oaths" Declared before me at the city of Brantford, in the county of Brant, this 15th day of May, in the year of our Lord, 1893, by the said Samuel Hall and Sarah Hall.

Mr. Hall is 63 years of age, and was employed in Beatty's establishment in Welland as a moulder. He has never had any attack of the disease since, and still works at his trade when he can get any work. He is very loud in his praise of Williams' Crown Remedy and says it cannot be spoken of too highly.
In the matter of the Province of Ontario, Williams' Royal Crown Remedy.
Declared before me, a commissioner, etc.

GEORGE D. HEYD, of Brantford, Mairhead & Heyd, a commissioner, etc.

The great mystery to us is how these people find out about the virtues contained in this Williams' Crown Remedy for in the very town where these cures have been effected this marvellous liquid has never been known to be advertised, and the knowledge of their virtues must get about by one friend telling another, like in the case of Mr. Hall. But we have always held that when a medicine has real merit, like "Royal Crown Remedy," it is not necessary to advertise in the paper with large display of horrid faces to attract attention.

An almost equally surprising cure has been effected in Brussels, in the case of Mr. J. J. Gilpin, a prominent business man in that town, and brother-in-law of Mr. W. H. Kerr, the popular editor and proprietor of the Brussels Post.

Williams' Crown Remedy is a perfect blood purifier, alterative, builder and nerve restorer; especially designed for building up shattered constitutions and affecting complete cures in such cases as arise from over work or disordered kidneys and liver trouble, the tired feeling therefrom, and after-effects of a grippé, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, locomotor ataxia, diseases depending on humors of the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. (Clip this out and send to friend.)

THE DETECTIVE FROM BALTIMORE.

New York Sun.
I was approaching Washington in the night from Philadelphia, and should have been entirely alone in the smoking car but for a man who got on at Baltimore. He had a bundle as baggage, and sat down three seats ahead of me and smoked away without a word for twenty minutes. Then he turned and asked:
"Ever do any detective work?"
"No."

"It is very romantic and exciting. Let me introduce myself as Detective Wadsworth, of the Baltimore police."

We shook hands. I gave him my name, and after some general talk he said:
"I hope to catch a crook at the depot in Washington who knows me well by sight. I have got to disguise myself to nab him."

He undid the package and took from it a wig, a necktie, and a coat and vest, and from a pocket he drew a pair of spectacles. He made the change in three or four minutes, and I had to compliment him on the transformation. I should never have known him to be the same man.
"It's a part of our profession, you know," he explained. "I want you to render me a service when we enter the depot. Go to the back end of the train and work forward. If you meet a fat man wearing a checked suit and stoppage hat, while so, and I will be there in three seconds."

I agreed to follow his instructions, and I kept my promise. I saw no fat man, however. Neither did I again see my Baltimore detective. I went to a hotel and went to bed, but was aroused from sleep an hour later by a Washington detective, who compared my face with a photograph, and growled:

"D—n it, you ain't the man, after all!"
"Who are you looking for?"
"A bad man from Baltimore who gave us the slip at the depot."

"Describe him."

When he had done so I replied:
"Why, that man rode with me in the smoker, and he was a detective. He disguised himself to catch someone here at the depot."

"The—he did! And he got you out of the way, like the idiot you are!" Hang it, then, that man had better go and look for himself! Here I put you under arrest! Come along to the station!"

But they didn't keep me long, and a month later when I ran across the bad man again, he was looking for me. He had Philadelphia I just exchanged winks with him and passed on.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer from a headache every day after day with headache. There is rest neither day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach and a cure can be effected by using Farnes's Vegetable Pills, containing madder and dandelion. Mr. Finlay Wark, Esq., of P. Q., writes: "I find Farnes's Pills a first-class article for bilious headache."

Vessels salute each other at sea by dipping their colors over the taffrail in the ship's wake.

There is danger in neglecting a cold. Many who have died of consumption dated their troubles from exposure, followed by a cold which settled on their lungs, and in a short time they were beyond the skill of the best physician. Had they used Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been spared. This medicine has no equal for curing coughs, colds and all affections of the throat and lungs.

According to The Lokalanzeiger of Berlin Emperor William will give a grand banquet in Metz at the close of the military manoeuvres in Lorraine. He is expected to make a great speech on that occasion. The refusal of the French officers to be present at the manoeuvres has given rise to considerable comment of a bitter character in some of the German papers, and the visit of the Prince of Naples to Lorraine offends the French and has already stirred up the Italians.

The Pope has established a new rule for the Benedictine order by appointing an Abbot Primate. Among the Benedictines the several congregations have each possessed an absolute autonomy, and the individual abbots who are associated in a congregation have enjoyed almost the same power. The order will thus be brought more into touch with the Vatican, although the new Primate is appointed as the result of a conference held in Rome last April by all the abbots and the superior of the various congregations throughout the world. The first Primate is the Abbot of Marades of the Beuron congregation. He will also be Abbot of the new Pontifical College of St. Anselm at Rome, a structure now being built on the Aventine.

"She" Looketh Well

to the ways of her household." Yes, Solomon is right; that's what the good housekeeper everywhere does, but particularly in Canada.

But her ways are not always old ways. In fact she has discarded many unsatisfactory old ways. For instance, to-day she is using the New Shortening, instead of lard. And this is in itself a reason why "she looketh well" in another sense, for she eats no lard to cause poor digestion and a worse complexion.

COTTOLENE is much better than lard for all cooking purposes, as every one who has tried it declares. Have you tried it?
