

My son, said a good mother to her young hopeful, did you wish your teacher a happy New Year? No ma'am, responded the boy. Well, why not? Because, said the youth, she isn't happy unless she's whipping some of us boys, and I was afraid if I wished her happiness, she'd go for me.

A teacher questioning little boys about the gradations in the sea, of being asked: "What comes next to man?" And here a little shaver, who evidently smarting under a defeat in the previous question, immediately distanced all competitors, by promptly shouting, "His undershirt, ma'am!"

"Out of place and nothing to take to," as the man said when he fell out of the balloon.

FRIENDSHIP—The temporary cement that binds mutual interests.

He that in the world would rise must take the papers and advertise—Confucius.

Why is a mouse like a load of hay? Because the cat'll eat it.

Years do not make sages, they only make old men.

A farmer gathers what he sows while a seamstress sews what he gathers.

A lady widowed by the Chicago conflagration has been recently re-married. Her second husband calls her his relic of the great fire.

Romantic death—A young lady drowned in tears.

Why is a spider a good correspondent?—Because he drops a line by every post.

At a trades meeting, the following toast was given:—"The printer: he beats the farmer with his floor, the carpenter with his rule, the mason in setting up columns; he surpasses the lawyer and doctor in attending cases, and beats the parson in the management of the devil."

I'm sorry, observed the clergyman in a sympathizing tone, Mrs. Hart has a heavy burden to bear. Yes, she does, that's so, acquiesced the old farmer, she's laid there flat on back this seven year. Seems sometimes that as if I should get altogether wore out. I do wish she'd get well—or euthin.

Probably no man ever yet rose to the highest or sunk to the lowest level attainable by humanity, without the ennobling and purifying influence of woman on the one hand, or their debasing and demoralizing influence on the other.—J. W. Jackson.

A good sort of man was asked for to subscribe for a chandelier for the church. "No," said he, "what's the use of chandeliers? When you get it you can't get any one to play on it."
