JEWS IN SUPREME COURT

First of the Race Ever Appointed to a Russian Tribunal

Copenhagen, March 30—According to exclusive telegrams to Russian correspondents at Copenhagen, two Jewish advocates, Grusenberg and Winawer, have been appointed members of the Russian senate and of the Supreme Court. They are the first Jews who ever obtained a seat in a Russian tribunal.

Russian political fugitives who obtained a minesty have left Copenhagen via Malone and Haparanda with free passports. Their departure was very impressive, with speeches of a republican tendency, cheers for liberty, and the singing of the "Marseillaise."

The Russian ambassador, Baron von Rushoeveden, has received an order from his giventiate to give and provided to the control of the second of t

Weakened by Anaemia Doctors Gave No Hope

Said She Was Threatened With Consumption, and Gave Her Three Weeks to Live

Anaemia is indicated by thin, watery blood. The gums and eyelidis grow pale, there is great weakness and fatigue and digestion falls.

Since Dr. Chase's Nerve Food forms new, rich blood, it is naturally most suitable as a treatment for anaemia. This letter proves its efficiency in the most severe cases.

Mrs. J. Adams, Port Hope, Ont., writes: "About six years ago I was taken with very weak spells and though I doctored with the family physician and used other medicines for two years, I got very tored with the family physician and used other medicines for two years, I got very little relief and, in fact, continued to grow-weaker. I was so weak I could not wait on myself or raise my hand to my head and decided to go to my daughter in Toronto. When examined by Toronto doctors they pronounced me to be in a dangerous condition, threatened with consumption and other ailments and said I would not live for three weeks. One day I was looking ronto.

As a restorative for persons who are pale, weak and run down there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. Chase's wealth. Where is the solution of the problem of industry to be found? In profit-sharing, in socialism in syndications:

What can we as individuals do? The lecturer made the following suggestions:

The Russian ambassador, Baron von Rushoeveden, has received an order from his government to remove the imperial cagle from the embassy building and the word imperial from stamps and documents.

It is reported from Finland that the new minister of Finnish affairs, Rodizches, has promised a safe return to all persons who at the beginning of the war were living in Germany.

The state of the usual nation and welfare and welfare, housing, poverty, and industry.

The lecturer related the story of the African prince who, after a visit to England, said: "You English people take great care of your goods, but throw away your children." The lecturer pointed out the lamentable death rate among children was due to one or more of the following causes: Malnutrition, poor housing, congestion, lack of knowledge on the part of parents. He was shocked to learn that the infant death rate in Halifax was double that of Montential and the state of North America. The admiral is an intimate friend of Minister Redizection with him before his speech to the Finlanders.

Lord Rosebery has said: "You cannot rear an imperial nation in the slums." One of the reasons for poor housing was the high rents—many poor people having to pay from a quarter to a half of their income in rentals.

The lecturer referred to the splendid work done by Charles Booth in the study of poverty. He pointed out that in Britain five millions of the population owned half of the property, while the other half of it was divided among thirty millions. In the United States the wealth of the country was still more unevenly divided.

The problem of industry is regarded Industrialism had taken the place of feudalism, the capitalist living in the great house, his work people too often in unhealthy and overcrowded tenements. The desire to get gain, too, had led to the employment of women and led to the employment of women and children at too low wages for too long hours and in unhealthy conditions. It

2. Accustom our minds to a sympathetic relationship with our fellow men. We are all too much influenced by caste traditions, prejudices and feelings. Sympathy to the brethren is the chief characteristic of the Christian. "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples if he have love one to another." None should refuse their share of responsibility.

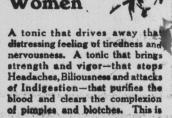

And practical lectures on Social Service, which have been given at the Church of England Institute this Lent, took place last evening, when Rev. Prof. J. W. Falconer, D.D., lectured on "A Social Service Programme for the Individual." His Grace the Archbishop bring in the golden age.

Prof. Falconer pointed out that in social service, as in other matters, we must ultimately get back to the individual. Not until a community consists of regenerated and consecrated individuals devoted to the service of others, will the community life be thoroughly sound and wholesome. The characteristic of the New Testament in its appeal to the individual, and our Lord always treated the spirit of man as being the ultimate factor.

In the sermon on the Mount, our lations of the individual: 1. Our duty to ourselves as set forth in St. Matthew 5, emphasizing the importance of our liberty, our righteousness, our purity, our peace, setting before us the necessity of self-control, self development, and self-expression. 2. Our, duty to wards God as set forth in St. Matthew 6, where we learn of Him as our Father, our Redeevers and the Arther, and the Redeevers and the Arther, our Redeevers and the Arther, and the Redeevers and the Redeevers and the Arther, and the Redeevers and t
