YOUNG COR-

To Stop the Go—For Many Rounds After the Decision the Champion Kissed His Vanguished Opponent.

MECHANICS' PAVILION, SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—The Young Corbett-Hanlon contest for the featherweight championship at Mechanics Pavilion tonight proved to be one of the greatest drawing cards in the history of the fighting game in this city. The vast auditorium which has been scene of so many notable pugilistic battles, was taxed to its capacity long before the bell clanged, summoning the principals to action.

The interest in the outcome was in-tense. Despite the fact that Hanlon, previous ecounter with the champion had somewhat the better of the bout and the wellsknown propensity of the local sporting fraternity to allow sentiment to warp the judgment in contests participated in by local celebrities, Corbett was a pronounced favorite in the betting. Opening up at odds of 8 to 10 a few days ago, the odds gradually shortened owing to the weight of Corbett's money and when the lads entered the pavilion tonight two to one was offered with the Denver crack on the long end. At the figures many large wagers were made at the ringside. One of the reasons advanced for the apparent uneveness of the betting is the fact that most of the eastern turfmen and bookmakers attending the local races, have pinned their faith on the superiority of the champion and have backed their opinions

Corbett and Hanlon met at Harry Corbett's resort this evening, where the question of weight was decided. The articles of agreement stipulated that they should weigh in at 129 pounds at Corbett put in a terrific right under Hanlon's heart, which rattled and hurt Hanlon, who fought back Hanlon accused Corbett of Hanlon swung right and left to the jaw, forcing the champion to the ropes. He then sent a straight right to the face, but Corbett fought back viciously, forcing the Californian to a clinch. Then followed some desultory sparring. Hanlon made a much better showing in this round, landing several good lefts. The right that Cor bett landed early in the round feased Hanlon but momentarity. Corbett's straight lefts and uppercuts did not seem to do much damage.

Round 3-Corbett tried with left several times for face, but could not He straightened Hanlon with a right uppercut, and they mixed it viciously, both landing good lefts t the face. Corbett ducked vicious right swing and gave Hanlon smart rap with right to the jaw. Corbett missed a right swing and Hanlon drove a hard left to body. Infighting followed, Corbett protecting Corbett rushed as the round closed, but failed to land.

Both missed several straight lefts and they came to a clinch, Hanlon having the better of it. They hung on and as the gong rang both landed rights to the jaw. Corbett appearently was willing to take a blow in order to land on his opponent. No special harm was done to either man. The pace continued very fast.

Round 6—Corbett tried with left for head thrice, but was blocked. Both men did considerable talking. Hanton stopped the champion's talk with a succession of rights and lefts to the jaw. They mixed it, both swinging with right and left. They stood shoulder to shoulder fighting like law and complained to the referee that Corbett was holding. Furious infightng followed, Hanlon doing the better work. Hanlon landed right and left in the mixup. Corbett continued to talk to Hanlon, fighting at the same time. Corbett missed a right for the ead and landed a rather hard right swing on the back of the head, Hanlon smiling. A mixup followed, but no damage resulted. Corbett was appar-ently anxious to mix it all times.

Round 7-Corbett began talking at nce and Hanlon put left to the face. Corbett countered with a hard right swing to the ear. Both men gave remarkable exhibitions of blocking and protecting. Graney once more cautioned Corbett for hitting low. Corbett then got in a good right to the head and followed it with two lefts to the In a mixup Corbett swung right and left to the head. Hanlon put two short-arm lefts to the face and swinging hard with left, sent the champion to the floor. He got up instantly and fought back hard. Hanlon sent right and left to the head. Hanlon cut loose and caught Corbett clean on the point of the jaw and floored him. When gong sounded both men were fighting furiously.

Round 8-Corbett was more careful and the smile had gone from his face, He mixed it, however, and chopped a right to the head and followed it up with a left to the face. Hanlon fol-lowed him around the ring, sending straight lefts to the face and a right to the jaw that staggered Corbett. Corbett swung wildly and got another left on the jaw from Hanlon that hurt him. Corbett got in a left swing on the jaw Hanlon backed Corbett to the ropes and in a fierce mixup Corbett put in several hard rights and lefts to the face with force enough to knock out an ordinary fighter, but Hanlon smiled. Hanlon put in a terrific left to the body at the close of the round. When Corbett came up he commenced swinging wildly, Finally Hanlon backed him against the ropes. Corbett then landed with great force with right and left swings on Hanlon's jaw, but they only made Hanlon fight back harder.

Finally Corbett succeeded in getting the right to Hanlon's chin and missed another try. Hanlon blocked a hard swing for face, and they got inside of right and left swings for the body. Hanlon put a light left to the face, and they went to a clinch. Corbett got in a terrific right uppercut to the chin, which only made Hanlon the more vicious. The fighting during this round was not so fast, except at the close, when Corbett landed a terrific uppercut on the chin. Hanlon has enormous capacity for taking punishment, and blows that doubtless would knock out an ordinary man merely staggered him and made him fight all the harder.

Round 10-Corbett missed a fierce right upper cut for the jaw. A moment later he sent a right uppercut to the chin and they hung to each other Both men began talking to one another and Hanlon waded in with rights and lefts for the head, but was blocked. In the breakaway both exchanged rights and lefts to the face. Corbett planted his left to the face and followed with a right uppercut for the Hanlon sent Corbett back with right high on the head, but did no damage. Hanlon caught Corbett with a right swins to the jaw and followed it with another to the same place. Hanlon got in two straight left jabs to the face. Hanlon was now doing the leading. Corbett sent right to the face and Hanlon retaliated with a left hard to the jaw. Corbett was leaning against Hanlon, coming up with short left swings on Hanlon's jaw. He stood with his head against Haplon's breast, swinging left to stomach and right to the jaw. Hanlon tried to fight back, but his blows lacked force.

Round 14-They assumed the same tactics, Corbett putting right and left to the stomach. Hanlon fought back hard and landed two terrific swings to the jaw. He then sent Corbett back with right to the jaw, staggering the champion. Corbett, however, fought back and landed some telling blows on Hanlon's body. Corbett sent Hanlon to the floor with two lefts to the jaw. He was down nine seconds. They went to a mixup and Corbett planted right and left to the jaw. Corbett forced Hanlon to the ropes. The gong apparently saved Hanlon from a knockout. He stood still, covered his face and body with his gloves and Corbett punched him as hard as he could. Hanlon could not be knocked out, however, and at the gong went to his corner with a grin.

Round 15-Corbett tried several lefts to the face at long range, but was short. He missed a hard right for the body and another for the face. Hanlon then sent a straight left to the face. Corbett jabbed with left, Hanlon being content to rest. Hanlon missed a hard left swing for the jaw, and Corbett was short with a hard right. Hanlon blocked some hard lefts for the body. Corbett then caught Hanlon with right and left to the stomach and a right uppercut to the chin that sent Hanlon's head back. SCOTCH-CANADIAN BOAT SONG.

(Toronto Globe.) On his recent visit to Toronto Major Jeneral Sir Ian Hamilton, in addressing the Highlanders, quoted from The Canadian Boat Song. About the same time a cable despatch stated that The Canadian Boat Song was attributed to the Earl of Eglinton. C. R. W. Biggar, K. C., who has been investigating the subject, writes: The Canadian Boat Song, from which General Ian Hamilton quoted in his address to the High landers, first appeared in No. 46 of Blackwood's Magazine, September 1829, in one of the series of Noctes Ambrosianae, by Christopher Norte discursive way, that he had received a letter that morning from a friend, then in Upper Canada, inclosing a Gaelic ong, which he (Prof. Wilson) translates as here inclosed. The friendwho was, no doubt, purely mythicalsaid that he was being rowed down the St. Lawrence for several successive days by Highlanders, who sang a great many of the old Highland folk songs, some of which he (the friend) took down, words and music. This particular one he sent to Christopher North. Later it appeared in Tait's Maga zine for June, 1848, where it is reported as having been translated by the Earl of Eglinton, among whose papers believe, a copy of it was found after his death. It has also been credited to John Galt. I thought the Globe might like to publish it. I am sure a good many scotchmen would like to have a conof it. The poem follows:

(Translated from the Gaelic.) Listen to me, as when ye heard our fathers Sing, long ago, the song of other shores; Listen to me, and then in chorus gather All our deep yolces as ye pull your oars; Fair these broad meads, these hoary shores But we are exiles from our fatherland

'A liberal's' great mistake is in supposing that the opposition to the local government can be consolidated against Mr. Robinson merely because the local government machine supports him. That can't be done. Liberals and conservatives who worked side by side in the fight that sent Messrs. Loggie, Morrissy and Morrison to the legislature wil be on opposite sides in a dominion contest. It is absurd to say that the local opposition party, without its conservative half, can carry the county. Conservative electors will vote for Mr. Robinson, should he again be in the field, even though Mr. Tweedle or any other politicaly objectionable person or machine should support him. THE curse of mankind is constipation. Ninetenths of the ailments we have can be traced to constipation. The bowels are for no other earthly purpose but to cleanse and keep clean and in working order our systems. Constipation is more prevalent among women than men, but it is too common in both. You may imagine you have dyspepsia, or chronic headache, or rheumatism, or heart affections, or bad blood causing eruptions—you may feel dull and ambitionless. Unless your case has been diagnosed and you know otherwise, the chances are your trouble is constipation. Laxa-Cara Tablets, if taken after meals, draw nature into her natural course and keep the bowels regular and in healthy action. Ordinarily a short treatment will prove sufficient. In stubborn cases several boxes may be needed. It is only a question of a short time, however, when the whole intestinal system will be made strong and naturally active. Then Laxa-Cara Tablets should be stopped. They come in small, chocolate-coated form, easy to take and palatable. From the first day you will feel their gentle but sure effect.
