Best Days Felt.

The total vote secured by each candidate during the entire contest will be her standing at its close. Now is the time to get busy, and it may be that through renewed and energetic operations many unexpected "catches" may be "fished" up to celebrate this day. The voting is done with much good natured, but intense friendly rivalry is apparent on all sides. Some of the contestants are doing a lot of talking, as may be observed, but that may be their manner of "sawing wood"—you never can tell. All are bent on winning, and they mean to continue working up to the very last hour. CANDIDATE FOR CHIVALRY

MRS. FRANCES E. BEAUCHAMPE.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 4.—Just to prove that there are several sparks of chivalry left in Kentucky, Mrs. Frances E. Beauchampe is running for congress.

"Men will give up anything in Kentucky for a woman when they believe she is right," says Mrs. Beauchampe. "I will make a good race, and the result will be startling."

Mrs. Beauchampe is president of the Kentucky W. C. T. U. and is making the fight in the district that once sent Henry Clay to congress. Her platform is anti-whisky, anti-

SUFFRAGETTES IN GERMANY

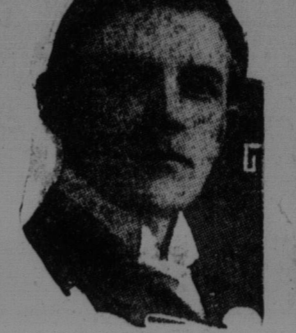

London, Oct. 4.—The Kaiser stirred up a hornet's nest when he took to lecturing the women of his country on the duties they ought to perform in life.

The Kaiser has provided the Suffragists with powder and shot. The Kaiser is accused of having revived antiquated notions which would not be accepted now by the exemplary women he cited. Queen Louise, were she living today, would not be so easily deceived.

white slave, anti-tobacco. She says she doesn't expect to be elected and wouldn't go to congress if she should be, being a woman, but she intends to bring the temperance question into the limelight.

FOUNDER OF NEW CHURCH

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The Rev. Dr. Geo. R. Lunn cares more for human beings than theology. That's why he shocked his wealthy and aristocratic congregation here with repeated attacks on grabbing corporations, then resigned his pastorate and organized a new, crediting people's church.

Dr. Lunn began fighting early in life. He's young yet. He quit his theological studies to go to war with Col. Bryan's regiment, fought typhoid fever and won out, preached a while in Omaha and Brooklyn churches, then came to Schenectady.

He began preaching a live gospel for live men and women—discarding some orthodox traditions and insisting that a man's life mattered more than his belief.

Then Dr. Lunn turned on his oratorical gaiting guns. "Why not cut down the notoriously watered capital stock?" he asked of the governor if they thought it was really necessary. A preacher's business was to let politics alone.

The general electric bosses both parties here.

But Gov. Hughes came and the gang legislator had to make way for a real representative of the people.

By this time most of the wealthy members who paid Dr. Lunn's salary were represented by empty pews, but there was a noticeable increase in the attendance of plain, ordinary folks.

The preacher engineered an inspection of the books of the board of supervisors. It was very shocking to sensitive souls when he read from the pulp some salient facts buried in the investigators' report. It showed that many leading business men had been paid large sums for supplies that couldn't be traced farther than the bills.

Dr. Lunn then formed the People's church. He holds two meetings every Sunday in a local theatre. His audience usually fills the theatre—1500 people, divided about equally as to sex—enthusiastic over the doctrine of democracy in religion.
