

Vol. LIII, No. 10 UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA

aw Dean Resigns

QUEBEC (CUP)-The Dean of aw at Laval University has resignd under pressure from the French language campus newspaper, Le Carabin.

The action began with an article in he newspaper stating that students were not satisfied with either Dean Guy Hugon as a lecturer or the ourse of studies, and that many professors held the same view.

A special study organized to deal with the situation effected certain changes, but a subsequent Le Cara-bin editorial stated: "Le Carabin is sorry to inform the students that it has had no co-operation whatsoever from the students, the Law Faculty, and the University. Le Carabin will always maintain that the propositions expressed by the law students were valid, and it will not change this view.

News of Mr. Hudson's resignation was carried by Le Carabin the following week.

LAW AND LIBERTY ... common law-common custom ... right of teachers to teach . . . free search for truth . . . judgements not always in favor . . .--Justice Samuel Freedman, speaker for Tory lectures. photo by Heinz Moller

Student Housing Study Analysed

"Assuming that the commun-|tion to the attainment of the University's objectives.

Lecturer Traces Law And Liberty

"The right of an independant as judicial disgression. judiciary is the badge of a free single judges, while attempting to protect individual liberty, does somenation," said Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman, speaking at the Marshall Tory lectures, Tuesday night.

"Law and Liberty" was the topic this year of the annual lectures. The constitutional background of the law and its particular application to the particular problems of individual and academic freedom were traced in the lecture.

Law in Canada, Justice Freed-tory law is the type of law enacted by parliament, while common law is inherited from the long history of British "common custom." An important phrase Canada's constitution is "similar in principle," which in-dicates our British heritage in formation of our constitution.

The BNA Act does, however, infer esponsibility in areas which are integrated education in the United outside direct court influence, such States.

times subdue it. The law must do its utmost to protect against such factors.

TWELVE PAGES

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1962

Another aspect of freedom and the law dealt with was the area of academic freedom. Justice Freedman felt that this is one of most important and also one of the least understood freedoms.

Students, as well as professors, can enjoy the free search for truth and security of tenure. Security of tenure is a teacher's and students' right to teach or hold an idea or principle without fear of losing his position, or of being expelled.

Two aspects influence judgments on academic principles. These are:

- the attitude of the presiding judge to academic freedom and
- the statutes governing a judgment, which must be closely examined in all cases.

As a result, judgment are not alvays in favor of academic freedom. This freedom is growing however, as can be seen by the trend toward

Cuban Crisis Professorial Debate Avocates Applying Counter Pressure

uestioned by four professors, Monday, Oct. 29 in the Wauneita Lounge. A panel, consisting of Professor C. A. Hedges, economics; N. O. Linton, political science; R. E. Baird, political science and D. M. Murray, philosophy, was sponsored by the New Democratic Party.

Prof. Baird, admitting the U.S. has been responsible for a number of equally bad and good political moves, defended American action in this instance. Both the U.S.S.R. and U.S., to show seriousness of intent, will talk of war, he said, but it is doubtful that a conflict will occur.

Cuba is merely a pawn in the cold war, stated Prof. Linton. Both powers are using the situation as an external argument and, "To suggest Cuba could up-set the existing balance of power, would be using the thought pattern of a pre-atomic age.

Views expressed by American ationalist groups, through the mass edia, were presented by Prof. edges. He satirically supplement- signed to determine the student arguments quoted from U.S. feelings on housing and its contribu-

American action in Cuba was | magazines and journals.

Prof. Murray condemned both American action and Canadian backing of this action. He point-ed out one of the sources of U.S. provocation was Cuban nationalprovocation was Cuban national-ization of industry. Therefore, he argued, would Canada not face similar U.S. hostility, should she try to oust Amercian economic control?

ity in which the University is situated cannot provide adequate housing to students, the University has the responsibility to provide such housing,' stated Dr. W. E. Kalbach, Sociology professor, Sunday at the

Referring to a survey made last summer by the Department of Soci-ology, of housing needs, he stated that the administration has sufficient knowledge to plan and provide hous-

The survey was only a pilot study and has not been processed by the University's computer. It was designed to determine the student Leadership Seminar.

Panel members closed the discussion with an answer to the audience question, "Where do we go from here?"

Profs. Baird and Murray advocated disarmament. Prof. Linton stated more action must be brought to bear by middle powers. Prof. Hedges added we must be watchful for any visible change and pay closer heed to the cold war situation.

The limitation of present research is that it cannot correlate housing types and the degree of attainment of the University's objectives. Instead, a great deal of reliance must be plac-

(Continued on Page 3)

"Must man have religion?" mitted that man need not really be was discussed at the first meeting of the Student Religious Liberal Club last Sunday.

Ted Kemp, former philosophy instructor, was guest speaker.

Giving a philosophical definition of religion as the belief in some of religion as the belief in some Nov. 18. Further information may be transcendental, supernatural force obtained from Don Harper at HO 6which is inescapable, Mr. Kemp sub- 2691.

Man, however, does need faith; faith in himself, in humanity, or in some value, Kemp stated. If to be religious is to have faith, then man does need religion, he added.

The purpose of the Student Re-ligious Liberal Club is to study and discuss theology, philosophy, and related social problems.

The next meeting will be Sunday,

Faith Serves Man's Needs

Funds Fighting

ing.

'The Thai and I'' will be the theme | berta, and offers a wide range of mual campaign for funds at the niversity of Alberta this fall.

Many students at Chulalongkorn University in Bankok, Thailand, are in English. suffering from tuberculosis. The local VUS committee hopes to provide funds for a program of prevention and cure on that campus.

Fund drive will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Novemer 20 to 22.

maller than the University of Al- versity communities.

the World University Service's courses. Instruction is primarily in the Thai language but many classesparticularly in subjects where the literature is scanty—are conducted

The World University Service operates in more than 50 nations. Its program of assistance is designed to encourage students, professors and administrators to work together to provide improved facilities for higher education and to provide better Chulalongkorn is a college slightly health and living standards for uni-

JUST FOR a Hallowe'en joke, Mr. K sent us a bomb. This is what the campus looked like the following morning