Social Club alive and kicking

By KAREN MAIR

"The Social Club is not in financial dire straits as some people have been led to believe" said College Hill Social Club manager Allyson Woodside.

In an interview with The Brunswickan, Woodside said that while the Social Club has suffered from financial problems in the past, she also acknowledged that there are several restrictions on the Social Club that "are preventing full benefit of the club and surrounding possibilities that are not being realised."

Woodside cited the use of the adjoining ballroom in the Student Union Building is one area of the club that could be exploited. Presently, under the 15 year lease, the Social Club is only permitted licensed use of the ballroom four times an academic year. That lease was signed in 1981 between the Student Union Building Advisory Board and the College Hill Social Club Board.

Kim Norris, SUB Director, says that he would like to see the Social Club be permitted more use of the adjoining ballroom, "but the way it works it can't happen."

New Brunswick Liquor Regulations have granted a liquor license to the Social Club and one to the Ballroom, but they stipulate the use be restricted to four times an academic year. It is there where the problem lies. Club manager Woodside says that she would like to see the Social Club have use of the Ballroom at least once a month. "If we had the ballroom, we could book bands and have regular live entertainment on this campus."

There are other minor problems, according to Woodside. In the signing of the lease it was also decided that the Social Club (when it moved from the Woodshed to the third floor) would pay to have the Ballroom completely sound proofed. The sound proofing on one wall was done recently and the Social Club will have to pay the bill of roughly $8000.

As well, the Social Club is in the process of paying off a substantial bank loan that they recieved when they moved from the Woodshed. According to Woodside, that loan should be paid off by October of 1987. When that time comes, the Social Club will be well into the financial black.

Woodside is looking forward to that time: "This club has a good reputation. We are a good, clean, tight bar. We treat our membership and our license very well and very seriously. It is a bar run by students, for students."

Merrithew tells all

By MIRIAM DEBLY

On February 2nd at 12:30 Gerald Merrithew, Minister of State for Forestry, gave a lecture in the Forestry/Geology Building at UNB. He spoke to a gathering of over 60 people; professional foresters from the NB Department of Natural Resources, faculty graduate students and undergraduates.

He discussed the 15% import tax which was imposed on Canadian lumber as a response to American producers pressuring the U.S. government because of low priced lumber entering the United States from Canada. He stressed that there is an increasing rivalry between governments because of prices.

In addition, he discussed that the $5-6 million dollars collected by Canadian customs (less the cost of administering the program) which will be returned to the provinces to be used as part of their general revenue.

He also noted that he is aware of the concern by the provinces that certain larger companies such as Irving are exempt from these taxes. However it was part of the U.S. deal and not that of the Canadian government.

Unfortunately much of the problems in lumber trade arise because of low stumpage rates charged in Canada. The combination of this and other forestry practices has led to lower lumber prices in comparison to the U.S.

Merrithew noted that there are opportunities for Canada to reduce world trade barriers. Therefore, an "Industry Trade Advisory Council" has been elected to deal with these matters.

Finally, Merrithew stressed that Canada cannot accept the Status Quo, it is pertinent for Canada to negotiate a better deal. A better deal is essential to Canada's welfare considering the fact that the trade balance between the U.S. & Canada ranges between $15-20 million per year.

RECIPES FOR FOOD WE BET YOU NEVER ATE BEFORE.

Cassubian Headcheese

1 pigs head	2 bay leaves
2 large onions	2 lbs. dry white bread
6 whole allspice	1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Remove eyes and teeth from pig's head. Have the head chopped in quarters. Wash thoroughly, over with water, add onion, allspice, bay leaves, salt and pepper. Cook until tender. Remove from bones and chop into - coarse pieces. Cut bread into cubes, mix with meat and meat stock. Return to fire, add cinnamon and simmer slowly for 20 minutes. Stirring to prevent burning. Pour into pig skull mold or crock. After it is set and cold, remove fat from top. Slice and heat before serving.

Turkey's and Tributes's of the Week are chosen by Brunswickan News Staff in recognition of the Marvelous and the Moronic things people say or do.

This week's Turkey of the Week is awarded to Acadia University. The university reached an agreement last month whereby they will pay a professor's homosexual lover's medical coverage. What we want to know is if they are married!

TRIBUTE OF THE WEEK

This week's Tribute of the Week is awarded to the late Liberace who provided the world with flashy musical inspiration.
