THE LION'S GLASS EYE.

Put in After a Terrific Struggle -Quickly Shaken Out.

New York, June 13.—A new glass eye was fitted yesterday into the head of was fitted yesterday into the head of Prince, a fierce 600-pound Barbary lion, at Sea Beach Palace, Coney Island. That it remained in position only five minutes was not the fault of Prince, nor of Bostock. his owner, nor of Capt. Jack Bona-vita, his trainer, nor yet of the eminent naturalists who assisted at the function. The trouble began at noon. Capt. Bona-The trouble began at noon. Capt. Bonavita entered the cage, in which Prince, assisted by a couple of tawny princesses, was mourning the loss of his left eye. Incidentally that loss occurred in one of the fiercest lion battles ever recorded, at Richmond, Va., on the night of March 16 last. Bonavita's twelve trained performing lions had developed a lot of the fiercest lion battles ever recorded, at Richmond, Va., on the night of March 16 last. Bonavita's twelve trained performing lions had developed a lot of grudges in the St. Nicholas Rink, New York, and they were let into the arena to settle them. Prince not only lost his left eye, but he was ripped down the neck and back. Two of his contemporaries died of their wounds.

Bonavita entered the cage, cried. "Scattherei" and the two tawny princesses fied away. Prince arose, bristled his mane and growled. In his right hand Bonavita held a big club, which Prince recognized as an old enemy. The monarch of the desert immediately moderated his growt. Bonavita held forth a six-foot snaring fork, on the end of which hung a long, louse mouse made of greased chain. This noose he easily slipped over Prince's head and around his loins. A similar noose of half-linch Manila rope he slung around the lion's neck. Ten men tailed out on the free end of each noose, and thereby dragged Prince pronie to the farth of the cage, close up against out on the free end of each noose, and well, but in this his struggles shook the cage in the show. The total uproor was the list half of the cage in the show. The total uproor was prince to the should be not sharing fork. One of the keepers tickled the pads of Prince's right fore pay. The beast raised the paw to protest, and, pop! Before you could count on the five was snared, too. Similarly the other three powerful paws were bound and made helpless. Then came the placing of the new eye.

"Here you are Captain," said Mr. J. "Yayer of the R. Hoehn Company of New York.

"Oh, no, thanks," repiled Bonavita.

Then the nooses were all slackened, and Prince slowly arose and stepped att of his bonds. The operation had lasted one hour and a half.

Womph!' he roared, by way of protest Twice he swaggered up and down his long eye. Then he stood still and shook himsel like a big Newfoundland dog. The "We'll have a new one made of four millimetres greater diameter," said Bostock, "and we'll put it in next Tuesday. Then we'll be able to put Prince back in the arena where he belongs."

"Ignorance and neglect are the cause of untold female suffering, not only with the laws of health but with the chance of a cure. I did not heed the warnings of headaches, organic pains and general weariness, until I was well nigh prostrated. I knew I had to do something. Happily I did the right thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound faithfully according to directions, and was rewarded in a few weeks to find that my aches and pains disappeared, and I again felt the glow of health through my body. Since I have been well I have been more careful. I have also advised a number of my sick friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they have never had reason to be sorry. GRAPHIC STORY OF THE MUR-DERS AT BELGRADE.

THE PALACE MASSACRE,

Struggle in the Dark-Conspirators Unsuccessful at the Beginning-Compelled a Servant to Lead Them to the King and Queen.

Belgrade, June 13 .- The following is narrative of the Servian revolution given by men who took an active part n it :- Army officers to the number of ninety having formed a project of a revolt, among them being delegates rom almost every garrison in Servia and the majority of the officers of the 5th Regiment, Lieutenant-Colonel Mischich invited his comrades on Wednes chich invited his comrades on Wednesday evening at II o'clock to meet in the Halimmgden garden, and there the immediate carrying out of the intended deed was organized.

At I.40 a,m. the officers in the eight groups went to the Konak, the royal palace. Each had a cue and especial instructions regarding his part in the revolution. In the Konak Palace the revolutionaries had two important partisans in the King's body guard—Col. Maschin, Queen Draga's cousin (not schin, Queen Draga's cousin (not brother-in-law, as previously stat-, and the King's personal adjutant, ut. Naumovics. The two officers the high military academy appear-I at the appointed hour, at 2 a.m., at the gate of the Konak, where the ing's adjutant, Panajotovitch, who as in the conspiracy, handed them the vas in the conspiracy, named them the teys to the garden gate, which is always kept locked. First stepping beore the guard at the Konak, one of he two officers called: "Throw down our arms!" A fight ensued, with shooting on

A fight ensued, with shooting on both sides, in which several persons were wounded. The revolutionaries then entered the front garden without hindrance and reached the courtyard of old Konak, where Lieut. Naumovics was awaiting. He opened the lock of the iron door, leading to the front room on the first floor. By this front room on the first floor. By this it was seen that the Konak was carefully closed and that danger was suspected. Hurrying upstairs to the first floor, the revolting officers attracted the attention of the palace attendants and the royal couple by the noise of shooting.

Lieut. Petrovitch, alarmed by the unwonted hubbub, hurried forward, a drawn revolver in one hand and in the other a sword. "What do you want?"

"Show us where the King and the Queen are," came the reply.
"Back," cried Petrovitch, and at the same moment a ball stretched him on the ground. The revolutionaries press-ed forward, when suddenly the electric light went out. All stood in darkness, In the greatest excitement, and feeling their way, the revolutionaries climbed the stairs and got into the dark ante-room to the King's apart-ment. Here they found candles and lit This seemingly slight circumstance was decisive to the whole ac-tion. Without light they could not have found the victims, who fled from their sleeping apartment through corridors and numerous rooms, and might have escaped; but part of the officers, with burning candles, and others with pistols, commenced to search for the royal couple. In breathless haste the conspirators ran through the rooms, opened wardrobes, and looked behind curtains, but in vain. In the ante-room connecting the corridor be-tween the old and new Konak, the sertween the old and new Konak, the sergeant of the gendarmes was sleeping. Awakening, he stepped before the revolutionaries, who felled him.

At last Queen Draga's servant was found. He wounded Captain Dimmi-found. He wounded Captain Dimmitrevic severely, but was spared, because he was needed in finding the fleeing couple. Indeed, this servant showed the officers where King Alexander and Queen Draga had gone to conceal themselves. When he had told this he was shot. Col. Maschin now joined the revolutionists and led them back to the sleeping apartment, where the King's adjutant tried to hinder the search. He shot at Lieut. Naumovics, who fell dead. The other killed the adjutant. After a long search, a small door leading into an alcove was disdoor leading into an alcove was discovered, but was found locked. It was broken in with an axe, and here the royal couple were found in undress. The older officers first intended forcng the King to abdicate, but the roung officers were in no mood to hold back, and shot at the royal ocuple. Nobody knows, in the excitement, who fired the first shot, but it is generally said it was Lieut. Kistice.

After the murder King Alexander's

After the murder King Alexander's body was found entirely covered with blood, while that of Queen Draga was absolutely torh by bullets. The report that the bodies were thrown out of a window into the garden is untrue. The young officers intended to to so, but Colonel Maschin prevented it, exclaimed, "That would be barbarous." All the servants of the arous." All the servants of the royal couple fied when the first shots were neard, with the exception of Queen Draga's servant, who was found dead.

Draga's servant, who was found dead. At twelve minutes past 2 all was over. Colonel Maschin issued from the gate of the Konak, around which great rrowds had collected, and made a speech, saying: "We have now destroyed the dynasty of the Obrenovitchs and have got rid of the disaonorable woman who was the King's wil spirit. Long live Servia."

The people responded: "Long live the army."

Almost simultaneously with the butchery in the palace, the troops endeavored to arrest all the relatives of the Queen and those Ministers whom the conspirators disliked. Two brothers of the Queen, Lieut.-Cols. Nikola and Nikodern Lunjevics, were speedily seiz-Nikodern Lunjevics, were speedily seiz-ed and escorted by a detachment of troops from their dwelling to the guard room of the divisional commander. room of the divisional commander. They were evidently not suspicious of their doom, and were lighting cigarettes when they were shot dead by eight soldiers. Premier Markovics, Gen. Pavlovitc, Minister of War, and M. Todorovics, Minister of the Interior, were all, as they attempted to delend themselves from arrest, shot by the troops. The two former were killed and the last named is just alive toed and the last named is just alive to-night.

The autopsy held has proved that the late King received thirty shot wounds, many of them deadly. Queen Draga had numerous shot and sabre wounds, and it is alleged that her body was torn in a barbaric fashion. The ap-pearance of the royal apartments is in-describable. The doors and floors are shattered, and the ruins drenched with blood.

Shortly after midnight the bodies of the dead King and Queen were carried to their last resting-place. It was a pitiful sight. All day long the victims were reposing in rough coffins, and had lain exposed to the gaze of those who had killed them and to the privileged of the curious. There were unpleasant evidences of the public sentiment against the late royal couple. Some persons even spat on the remains.

The sisters and nieces of the late Queen, who had been arrested by the military authorities, were expelled from the country.

RUSSIA SCORES A POINT.

Gains Practical Freedom From Chinese Custom.

Pekin, June 13 .- The question of the establishment of Chinese customs offices at Dalny and on the Russian frontier, of the leased territory, is practically settled. It is an important mat-ter, because in the absence of customs stations China has been losing considerable revenue directly by the admission of dutiable goods through leased territory into Manchuria, duty free, and indirectly by the injury done to Newchwang by this differential treat-ment. Russia had the right, under the Manchuria railway convention of 1898, to appoint a customs officer, reporting direct to the Pekin Government, and uncontrolled by the maritime customs, and had nominated Protasief, the exand had nominated Protasief, the ex-Finance Secretary of Port Arthur, in that capacity. She now consents to adopt the German Kiaochau system, under which the commissioner is al-ways a German, appointed by Sir Rob-ert Hart, and approved by the Ger-mans. All the staff, however, though Germans, are controlled by the mari-time customs.

While granting the shadow, how-ever, Russia retains the substance, for she nominates the commissioner, Pro-tasieff, above mentioned. Moreover, his staff will be Russians, and, though they will all nominally be controlled by the maritime customs, the revenues will be paid into the Russo-Chinese
