THE POETRY OF THE TABLE.—In the first place, a starched and smoothly-ironed table-cloth—which, if neatly folded after every meal, will look well for several days. Then flowers and ferns in flat dishes, baskets or small vases. A few pretty dishes will make the plainest table glow. A small bright colored platter for pickles, horse-radish, or jelly; a few pennies' worth of parsley or cress, mingled with small scraps of white paper daintily clipped, will cause a plain dish to assume the air of a French entrée. A platter of hash may be ornamented with an edging of toasted or fried bread cut into points, and a dish of mutton chops is more impressive with the bones stacked as soldiers stack their guns. A few slices of lemon with sprigs of parsley and slices of hard-boiled eggs, form a pretty garnish to many dishes. The basket of fruit—peaches, pears grapes, or apples—should be tastefully arranged and trimmed with leaves and flowers. The bowl of salad should be ornamented with the scarlet and orange flowers of the tropæolum, their piquant flavor adding zest to the lettuce with which they can be eaten.

"Boys," said a village pedagogue the other day, "what is the meaning of all that noise in school?" "It's Bill Sykes, sir, who is imitating a locomotive." "Come up here, William," said the schoolmaster; "if you are turned into a locomotive, it is high time you were switched off."
