Boy Scout Notes.

Patrol Leader Frank B. Johnston, of the 64th Toronto Troop, Boy Scouts, has just been awarded the bronze medal of the Carnegie Hero Fund for saving Miss Daisy A. Hooper from drowning in Lake Scugog. Scout Johnston was awarded the highest award The Boy Scouts Association could give him—its Bronze Cross for Gallantry—some time ago.

Le Comité Américain pour les Régions Dévastées de la France, which conducted a large Boy Scout Training Camp at Compiègne, France, last summer, will next summer conduct five similar camps for French boys. Last year The Boy Scouts Association, the Boy Scouts of America, the two Belgian Scout organizations and the several Boy Scout Associations in France co-operated in this work and some 275 older boys and young men from the devastated regions of France graduated from this "Camp-cole," as it was called. Mr. Frank C. Irwin, the Executive Secretary of the Boy Scouts Association for Ontario, represented Canada on the staff of the 1920 camp.

Charters permitting organizations to form Boy Scout troops are granted by the Provincial Council for Ontario, Headquarters, Sherbourne and Bloor Sts., Toronto. The conditions upon which charters are granted are, first, that the organization—it may be a church, a school, a community club, a parents' association or any other group of citizens—will guarantee for one year adequate leadership and facilities; second, that it will endeavor to provide an opportunity for the members of the troop to spend a week or more in a summer camp; and third, that it will conduct the troop, through a Troop Committee appointed by it, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Association. There are now nearly 250 registered Boy Scout Troops in Ontario.

Surnames and Their Origin

FRASER

Variations—Frazier, Frasier, Frazier.
Racial Origin—Norman-French.
Source—A locality.

This is another of the few Highland clan names which, though borne by Celtic families, trace back to an origin in Normandy.

All of these clan names were formed in the same way, by knights and nobles from the army of William the Conqueror, or the sons of such followers, who, either to strengthen the foreign relations of the conqueror, or because they were not satisfied with the spoils of war which fell to their lot in conquered England, sought their fortunes in the north at the court of the Scottish king.

They were, as might be expected, men with reputations as mighty fighters, and as they were independent, of blood relationship with the factions around the throne, they were, of course, welcome additions always to the royal Scottish organization.

But the Frasers, like the others, quickly formed alliances by marriage, and adapting themselves to the customs of the Gaels upon receiving grants of land in the Highlands, rapidly assumed leadership of existing clans and gathered around them clan organizations which they strove to make more powerful.

The Frasers are found first settled in Tweeddale during the reign of Malcolm III. They got their foothold in the Highlands through marriages into families of the Orkneys and Caithness chieftains.

The original Norman form of the name was "de Frisell" or "Frasell," and simply denoted overlordship of a place of that name in Normandy, being a family name only in the sense that it was hereditary because the feudal power was hereditary and descriptive.

COCHRAN

Variations—Corcoran, Coghram.
Racial Origin—Irish.
Source—A given name.

The family name of Cochran holds a high place in the annals of ancient Ireland, prior to the Anglo-Norman invasion, in which it appears as "O'Corrain."

The name traces back through the O'Carroll, or the "O'Carroll" clan to Owen More ("Eoghan Mor" being closer to the old Irish spelling) or "Corera," meaning "red," hence the family name of "O'Corrain," meaning "the descendant of the Red One."

In the year 1040 there was an O'Corrain who was abbot of Iniscarta, renowned as the most celebrated ecclesiastic of western Europe, both for his religious and his learning.

But being among the most bitter and relentless antagonists the Anglo-Norman invaders of the Middle Ages had to meet, the clan of O'Corrain suffered bitterly at their hands, and as the Norman sway extended the clan sank into a political insignificance that it was never able to overcome.

Cochran, Corcoran and Coghram, with or without the prefixes "O" or "Mac," are merely anglicized versions of this family name, once powerful in the ancient Irish kingdom.

Magic in Names.

Is there any young person who has not from his reading derived a sense of the magic of the East? And if the reasons for his impressions were analyzed, would not the mere sound of names be found in large part accountable? Spicy odors, tropical jungles, strange beasts and reptiles and peoples, all play their part; but it is such words as Samarkand and Ind, Bosphorus and Himalaya, ringing poetically in the youthful ear, that fill the youthful mind with impulses of vague adventure. India more than any other Far Eastern land stirs the imagination—and it is not because it is so besprinkled and bejewelled with magical names, rather than because it has tigers and cobras and elephants in its forests? China does not have the fascination for youth that India has—perhaps because there is less romance in the singsong Chinese syllables. Hongkong, Yangtze, Shanghai, Honancho have somehow the uncountedness of jargon rather than the ring of magic.

The Italians and the Spaniards have a happy gift for names. Cadenabbia, Bellagio, Verona and Lugano illustrate the Italian faculty for bestowing names that have cadence and charm. The best legacy that Spanish explorers and settlers left the New World is the names that still abide: Orinoco, Colorado, Vera Cruz and Monterey, to take a group almost at random, have a sonorous majesty that is not to be found in any purely English names.

In fact, English names, whether of persons or of places, are rather deficient in the quality of charm. The English people have sought the quality of homeliness rather than that of magic in their names. In the Arthurian legends the names of Lancelot and Guinevere have the same sort of romantic charm as some of the names that are common among Italians and Spaniards; but it is the exceptional Englishman or Canadian that would wish to name his son Lancelot or his daughter Guinevere. Some of our most engaging words are used to designate commonplace objects. Was it not an Italian who declared that the most beautiful word in any language was an English word—and that it was cellar-door?

"Three-Pile" Games.

The outfit required is only three piles of any small articles. At the beginning each pile may contain as many articles as the players wish, nor need the piles all contain the same number. Each player in turn takes as many counters as he pleases from a pile,—all there are in that pile if he wishes,—but he can draw from that pile only at that particular play. The other player has the same privilege in his turn. He who takes the last counter may be either the winner or the loser, as the players may agree beforehand.

The numbers 1, 2, 4, 8, 16, 32, constitute the key to the game. Take out the largest key number that you can, then the next largest, and so on.

If in order to win you must take the last counter, play so that each key number that appears is found in two piles or not at all; thus, when the piles are 8, 6, 2, you take 4 from the pile, so as to leave 4, 4 plus 2, 2.

If the last player is to be the loser, play so that each key number that appears is found in three piles or in only one. Thus when the piles are 8, 6, 2, you take 4 from the 6 pile, so as to leave 8, 2, 2.

The Silence.

(November 11, 1920)

The soul of England trembles in this air.

This air of England that our warriors breathed.

When in the valor of true hearts aware Of England's need, they to her heart bequeathed

Immortal legacies . . . No cavernous deep

Of nothingness is this. The air's astral To sound of shadowy voices. They who sleep

Th' omnipotent silence wake. Though weeping blur

The vision of our vigil, Love may hear The voices of the loved. Love's legions lean

From the celestial ramparts, and so near

They rest to England's heart, that on this scene

Maybe they gaze content, and hear the toll

Of bells that ring the psalm of England's soul.

The people to whom we are most grateful are those who raise our standards—who awaken in us generous impulses, who enrich us with spiritual gifts, and who make us resolve to express ourselves completely in service to others.

A twelve-cylinder auto is nice, but a one-cylinder sleigh, with a hot brick to warm the feet and a heavy fur robe over the lap, goes up the lane to the altar much quicker.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY DURING THE WINTER

Many Troubles May be Avoided if the Blood is Kept Pure.

Do not let your blood get thin this winter. For people who have a tendency towards anaemia, or bloodlessness, winter is a trying season. Lack of exercise, lack of fresh air, and a more restricted diet are among the things that combine to lower the tone of the body and weaken the blood.

As soon as you notice the tired feeling, lack of appetite and shortness of breath that are warning symptoms of thin blood, take a short course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Do not wait until the color has entirely left your cheeks, until your lips are white and your eyes are dull. It is so much easier to correct thinning of the blood in the earlier stages than later. This is well illustrated in the case of Mr. B. M. Day, Newcastle Bridge, N.B., who says: "From my own experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I can most heartily recommend them. Some time ago I was badly run down and my blood seemed thin and watery, accompanied by the usual symptoms of this condition. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking several boxes I felt like a new man."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Skipper's Only Fib.

The deep-sea fisherman often has a sharp tongue and is not likely to get the worse of a verbal duel. But George, the skipper of a Yarmouth trawler, who figures in North Sea Fishers and Fighters, by Mr. Walter Wood, certainly met with his match once whether he knew it or not.

"There's land people who come and bother you with foolish questions," he complained in recounting the hardships of a skipper's life. "I try to put 'em off, but can't allus do it. There was an old lady who worried me past endurance with her questions, asking if the herrin' were caught in barrels, as she'd sometimes seen 'em that way in shops. I told her no, and then she aggravated me to that extent that I told the only fib I ever spoke in my life."

"How do you kill 'em when you've caught 'em?" she asked.

"We bite off their heads," I answered.

"She looked at the catch of herrin' we had. 'My! My!' she murmured, walkin' away. 'How tired your poor jaws must be!'"

Electric Tree.

In the forests of Central India a tree has been discovered which has most curious characteristics. The leaves of the tree are of a highly sensitive nature, and so full of electricity that any person who touches one of them receives an electric shock. It has a very singular effect upon a magnetic needle, and will influence it at a distance of even 70 ft. The electrical strength of the tree varies according to the time of day, being strongest at midday, and weakest at midnight. In wet weather its powers disappear altogether. Birds and insects never approach it.

Germans Pour Into Japan.

German residents in this country are steadily increasing in number, says a Tokio despatch. As compared with pre-war days the number has already been practically doubled, it is said.

Most of the newcomers are employed by Japanese firms as engineers or technicians. According to the same authority, toys, chemicals and dyestuffs worth more than 10,000,000 yen have been imported from Germany since the peace.

One of the best known guides in Nova Scotia gives this testimonial of MINARD'S LINIMENT:

"I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my home, hunting and lumber camps for years and consider it the best white liniment on the market. I find that it gives quick relief to minor ailments, such as sprains, bruises and all kinds of wounds. Also it is a great remedy for colds, coughs, etc., which one is liable to catch when log driving and cruising during the winter and spring months. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT and cannot recommend it too highly."

Not a Question of Hours!

The local railway never had been known for its punctuality, but lately it had surpassed even its own record. One train, for instance, was nine hours late, and a passenger became wearied.

"Get me something so that I can figure out when I will get to London," he said to the dining-car attendant.
"Yes, sir; I'll get you a time-table," replied the official.

"Thunder, no!" roared the passenger. "What I want is a calendar!"

Routed.

"I haven't come in here to tell you how to run your paper," said the visitor.

"No?" replied the editor of the Toad-vine Clarion.

"But I must say that if I were running this sheet I'd make a better job of it than you are doing."

"I haven't the slightest doubt of it," said the editor. "The price of the Clarion is $7,500 cash, or half down and the rest secured by notes, for which I agree to turn over to you type, press, subscription lists, all advertising contracts, good will and the office cat. We can close up the deal in thirty minutes, sir."

But the visitor had silently faded away.
