"HE IS RISEN."
DR. PARKER PREACHES IN BEECHER'S OLD CHURCH.

The Immense Audience

New York, Oct. 3.—A large audience that has hitherto met in Plymouth church since Henry Ward Beecher's death, assembled Sunday morning to listen to the late pastor's friend and possible successor, Dr. Parker of London.

The interior of the church has not been altered from its original appearance. The only notable change is in the substitution of a slight book rest, in place of the desk of wood from the Mount of Olive, behind which the Rev. Dr. Beecher used to stand, and which is now preserved by his family as a memento.

In the assembly of listeners was not inferior to the average English audience, and its members paid close attention to the English divine's utterances. Mr. Beecher and his family were not present.

The services were opened with a voluntary on the organ, during which Dr. Parker and his family sang in a very beautiful manner. He was followed by the venerable assistant pastor, Dr. Halliday, who led the choir in his usual manner. Dr. Parker's clear shaven face and plain black attire with high-buttoned coat, gave him a striking resemblance to a priest of the Catholic church.

After a selection by the large choir, Dr. Halliday invoked the blessing of God upon the service of the day. Dr. Parker then read the 46th psalm, in a strong deep voice, his rather pronounced English accent proving, after the first few sentences, no bar to the enjoyment of the intelligent and really progressive rendition of the grand verses of the text.

In the prayer and sermon which followed, Dr. Parker's mannerisms were more observable. His attitude and gestures are extremely stiff, almost grotesque, and so nearly as possible those of a nervously awkward school boy. His delivery is vocally dramatic. A singular feature is a tendency to chant passages in which exalted thought is expressed.

During the singing of another hymn, the Rev. Dr. Halliday spoke in a manner strongly reminding one of Mr. Beecher's habit. Dr. Halliday spoke in a manner strongly reminding one of Mr. Beecher's habit.

"You will find the text in the gospel according to Luke 24: 46: 'He is not here, but is risen.'"

"I am confident that in view of the pathetic circumstances which give uniqueness to this gospel, every Christian heart. We have not assembled under ordinary conditions. For nearly forty years this particular Sunday, the first in October, has been signalized by the appearance in this church of an honored and illustrious pastor."

"To-day he is not here, but he is risen." There may be those who would pass over such an event lightly. Some men have a genius of the degradation of all things that are not of their own making, and such men are to be pitied. We must take the responsibility of forgiving ourselves as well as others. It is not our fault that his days are but a handful of years. And it ought never to be the commonplace to man that his life passes like a weaver's shuttle; that his days are but a handful of years. And it ought never to be the commonplace to man that his life passes like a weaver's shuttle; that his days are but a handful of years.

"The cause of the explosion was the firing of the gun in the slope. Pillar No. 98 started to run, bringing down the top of the hammer. None of the killed were burned; they were overcome by the black damp, that followed the explosion. Two of the killed are believed to have been knocked into the gutter in the side of the slope and were drowned by the water that came down with the rush of the pillar from the upper workings."

The injured were overcome by gas. They were brought to the surface quickly and the proper care bestowed on them to bring them back to life.

The greatest excitement prevailed, and it was hours after the accident before any reliable news could be obtained.

The Bat Colliery is operated by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, and is known throughout the region as one of the most dangerous in the valley. It has been the scene, particularly in late years, of the most disastrous accidents, but that of Saturday afternoon will probably be the last, for the running of this pillar has closed the slope, and it would be a work of great expense to open it again.

The killed and mangled men in the disaster had to be brought out through the workings of Big Mtn. Run Colliery, the main outlet of which is over a mile and a half from that of Bat Colliery.

Less than two years ago a similar accident occurred at this mine by which double the number were killed.

BOTH PARTIES PLEASED.
SATSIFIED AT JOHN MORLEY'S HANDLING OF CHAMBERLAIN.

The Chances of War Between France and Germany Very Small—English Ministers in Better Condition Than Their American Fellow.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Even the Tories are obliged to admit that Mr. John Morley's speech at Templeogue Saturday evening was a brilliant effort. The Tories are in fact nearly as well pleased as the Liberals over the manner in which Mr. Morley handled Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech which received more approval, was that in which he declared that a policy of blind, indiscriminate blindfold force must fail, as it would not be permitted by the justice and equity of God. There were 20,000 people present at the meeting, and they displayed much enthusiasm.

Mr. Chamberlain, the popular representative who has been studying the politico-religious situation in Ireland, will pay another ten days visit to Dublin, and then proceed to Rome to make his report. No one seems to know just what ground the report will cover, and no one seems to care enough about it to even start a rumor on the subject.

The peculiar situation along the Franco-German frontier can hardly fail to give occasion for more episodes of an irritating character like the Kaufman and Schabert incidents, but the sensible attitude of the two governments in these cases makes it almost certain that no such fiery paroxysm will be allowed to give rise to hostilities. The general feeling in diplomatic circles has been greatly improved by the outcome of the recent frontier shooting affair. The probable result here just held a conference at which they decided to petition for the eight-hour day and other improvements in their lot.

Whatever may be true of other classes of laborers, there is no doubt that the English miner is better off than his American fellow. The accounts of the government report in Pennsylvania, reprinted here from American papers, have created surprise, and have furnished rampant free traders with new arguments of no less force than usual.

At Leicester Saturday, Woodcock, the American bicyclist, beat Howell, the English champion, in a ten-mile race.

WINNIFIELD, Pa., Oct. 3.—There was an explosion of gas at Best Colliery, Saturday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, by which five persons were killed and nineteen injured and great damage done to the mine. The names of the killed are: Frederick Decker, fire boss, married; John Corhan, miner, single; Patrick Kelly, boy; John Gillis, boy.

DEADLY FIRE DAMP.
Three Men Killed and Nineteen Injured by a Mine Explosion.

WINNIFIELD, Pa., Oct. 3.—The circular with reference to this season's crop prepared by the board of trade has now been made public. The board claims that the figures given are the very lowest, but they are nevertheless startling. It was estimated before the harvest, that the grain was standing at an average yield would be about twenty-four bushels per acre, but on threshing it has been found that the actual yield has been fully 20 per cent greater than the estimate. In many sections the yield has been not less than thirty-five bushels per acre.

Grain buyers are generally a unit in declining that thirty bushels is a sufficiently low estimate of the average yield of wheat for the province. The only difference being in the average under crop, some estimates being 10 per cent under the amount returned by the crop reporters. But the test of the amount of binding wheat sold to farmers this year proves conclusively that the government report under estimates, rather than overestimates the area of the wheat field crop.

Supposing a train to consist of twenty cars, not less than 1,000 trains must be supplied to meet the demand. The value of the year's crop which will be available for export is estimated as follows: Wheat, 10,000,000 bushels at 50c, $5,000,000; barley, 1,000,000 bushels at 30c, $300,000; oats, 2,500,000 bushels at 20c, $500,000; rye, 100,000 bushels at 40c, $40,000; potatoes, 1,000,000 bushels at 80c, $800,000; total, 14,500,000 bushels; total value, $6,010,000. It is safe to add, for wool, dairy products, stock, vegetables, wood, hides, etc., available for export not required in Manitoba, $500,000, making a gross total of $7,110,000.

A Defaulting Treasurer.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—The intelligence that Samuel Johnston, treasurer for the Hamilton Power Company in this city, was a defaulter to a considerable amount caused a good deal of surprise in business circles where he was well known. Johnston held the city a couple of evenings ago by the Western express, took the ferry at Prescott and crossed to Ogdensburg. A message was received by the company here stating that he had been arrested at the latter place. An examination of his accounts are now being made, and the shortage so far discovered amounts to about $75,000. This company holds a guarantee bond for $10,000, which is believed will more than cover the loss. Johnston, who is most respectfully commended in this city, has been in the employ of the company for many years, and was considered a most faithful servant. He recently met with severe domestic affliction, and it is believed took to speculation, to which his losses are attributed.

They Want Their Money.
WINNIFIELD, Oct. 3.—Ryan & Haney, the contractors for building the Red River railroad have refused to continue the work until their back pay is forthcoming, amounting to about $75,000. The people are very blue over the temporary set back to the enterprise.

Their Carelessness Caused Three Deaths.
OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—The department of militia and defense has directed the superintendent and members of the firing party through who overtook a shunt on the Island of Orleans, to be present at the inquest on the bodies of the three children killed by the explosion of the missile, and to render the local authorities all possible assistance in reaching the facts of the case.

Knights of Labor Convention.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 3.—The delegates to the Knights of Labor convention are going on among them as to the choice of general officers. It is too soon, however, to predict what action will be taken. Every thing points to a lively but harmonious meeting.
