

CHOICE OF PRINCIPAL.

Two Names Mentioned For the New Technical School.

Wentworth Street People Will Put Up a Fight.

Hospital Board Declines to Discuss Isolation Question.

Two names are prominently mentioned for the position of principal of the new technical school. One is a Hamilton man, a brother of Architect Witton, and the other F. L. Fairbanks, principal of manual training in the Mechanics' Institute, Rochester.

It is expected that a big deputation of Wentworth street people will be at the Board of Works meeting to-night to object to tracks being laid on that street. The Radial still insists on laying the tracks there, but the aldermen say the street railway must have running rights for all time or the company will never get what it is asking for.

The chief business for the Fire and Water Committee to consider to-morrow night is the manning of the new east end fire station. It is likely arrangements will be made to take some men from other stations and appoint five new men.

The Hospital Board decided yesterday afternoon to install one large meter instead of the six or seven being installed to make a saving of forty per cent. by doing this. Adam Clark was awarded the contract for connecting the annex with the central heating plant at a cost of $295.

Chairman Ferguson of the Finance Committee was present yesterday at the meeting of the hospital governors and enquired what their ideas were about enlarging the isolation buildings. They said they did not care to discuss the matter. If the Council instructed them to enlarge the present buildings they would do so.

The city is advertising a sale of land for taxes in arrears. The back taxes amount to about $6,700. The sale will take place in June.

In the absence of Mayor McLaren, who is in Toronto today, Ald. Robson is acting Mayor.

Burned to a Crisp

Chicago, March 2.—The tragic death of Alice Ryan, a 16-year-old invalid, was reported to the police today. Ill of hip and spine disease from infancy, unable to move, she sat in an invalid chair in front of the fireplace yesterday while her mother was at work in the kitchen. A spark ignited her clothing, but she was unable to stir or cry out. When Mrs. Ryan entered the room she found her daughter's body burned to a crisp.

TWO CHARGES.

John Campbell Accused of Housebreaking and Theft.

John Campbell, 96 Wentworth street north, was arrested shortly before noon by Detectives Campbell and Sayers, charged with housebreaking and theft. Two charges were laid against him, entering Russell's residence, 107 MacNab street south, last Wednesday night, and stealing some jewelry and a gun, and entering Archibald Martin's residence, 225 Mary street, a few nights ago and stealing money and jewelry. Campbell was identified through an attempt to dispose of some of the stolen jewelry to a Barton street bartender.

BRITANNIA RINK.

The Britannia Roller Rink's Wednesday matinee for ladies are becoming more popular than ever. The fair sex are not slow to show their appreciation of this delightful pastime and these matinees are the main topic of conversation among a large number of ladies. Those who have never had the opportunity of enjoying this healthful exercise will be assured the most cordial attention by Manager McMaster and his staff of assistants, who are engaged to instruct the beginners. They are the most competent instructors, and those who attend will enjoy a most delightful afternoon. The rink has fifteen skating numbers at every session and with its latest music played by the orchestral band, the rink is able to provide its patrons with the most modern and improved methods of roller skating in existence. The Irish carnival on March 17th promises to be the feature event of the season, and judging by the enthusiasm shown by those who attend the east end rink it will prove a success.

MUNICIPAL ART GALLERY.

The Municipal Art Gallery will be closed until next Friday evening, March 5th, for the purpose of making alterations and changing exhibitions. The next exhibition will be the works of G. A. Reid, President of the Royal Canadian Academy. This exhibition will be formally opened next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Many a fellow gets a skate on who was never in a rink in his life.

TEA TABLE GOSSIP.

Mrs. H. Trebilcock will receive on the first Tuesday of each month at 500 Main street east.

The tenth annual meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association will be held at Ottawa on Thursday, 11th inst. Miss Marie Timmen, Walnut street south, is home Monday morning from Montreal, after spending a month with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Archdale Wilson and Miss Katharine Wilson have returned from a four months' trip to England and the continent.

Frank M. Regan has been appointed farmer at the Asylum for the Insane, to succeed Thomas McQueen, who, after holding the position for twelve years, resigned in December last.

Mrs. Richard Butler has prepared a splendid programme for the musicale, to be given under the auspices of the Day Nursery Committee, at her home this evening, to which every one is welcome.

Mr. Philip Mauro, who is to give a series of addresses in the Gospel Tabernacle, commencing to-morrow afternoon, will be the guest of Mr. Hugh Brennan, Main street east, while staying in Hamilton.

Capt. Henderson assumed his seasonal duties yesterday, and will be found on the hurricane deck of the staunch little Maecasa when she sails on her route between here and Toronto as soon as the ice floats away.

The final papers have been signed by Sister A. Witton and the purchase of the old Central Church property. It is stated that the well known architects will erect a four-story building on the property, to be used for light manufacturing purposes.

A. T. Fred, Masonic Grand Master, will give a reception by London Masons within a short time, although the exact date has not as yet been decided upon. The reception will be a big affair, and will probably be held during the last of March or the first of April.

A very enjoyable sleighing party was held last evening at Watkinson, Mrs. J. H. Summers and the Misses Farmer gave the treat to about thirty of their friends. The evening was spent in cards, games and dancing. It was in the wee sma' hours when the party returned, tired but happy.

At a joint meeting of Chalmers' Presbytery and Barton Stone Church, held in the former church last evening at Mount Hamilton, it was decided not to proceed with a call to a minister until later. In the meantime the pulpits will be supplied by students. It is expected that the congregations will be ready to give a call in a month or two.

Miss Kennedy and Miss Phillips, the leading milliners, 33 King street west, have returned home from New York after a most successful inspection and purchase of the latest styles in this city will be pleased to see their Easter selections, which are certainly very comprehensive. The opening display will be held later, when the announcement will be made.

As the result of blood poisoning Mrs. Mary Kellie, wife of John Kellie, passed away this morning at her home, 241 Catharine street north, in her 27th year. Deceased was well known and highly respected, and her untimely death will be regretted by all who knew her. She is survived by a husband and two small children, the youngest of which is only ten days old. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A MUSICAL.

St. Giles' Church Ladies' Aid Society gave a musicale at the residence of Mrs. Peter Smith, 37 Grant avenue, last evening, in aid of the society's funds. The attendance was large and an exceptionally liberal offering was given. The excellent programme was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Gwen Elmslie; song, Miss Stella Sintzel; song, Mrs. Dunlop; recitation, Miss Gertrude Gardner; violin solo, Miss Olive Clark; piano solo, Mr. Bruce Fraser; song, Mrs. Wilcox; piano solo, Miss Anderson; song, Miss Edna Love; song, Mr. Hartly Morgan; piano duet, Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Walker. The entertainment those who had taken part were entertained, dainty refreshments being served.

TO GET REDUCED RATES.

Samuel L. Robertson, manager of the Maple Leaf Amusement Company, is in Toronto to-day attending to business with the Canadian Passenger Association with the intention of securing reduced rates from outside places to this city during the exposition, which will be held at Maple Leaf Park in May. Mr. Robertson is greatly pleased with the success he has met with so far and claims that when the people of Hamilton learn of the magnitude of the exposition, they will be surprised. Work on some of the new buildings at the park will start within a couple of weeks.

ENTERTAINED THE CHOIR.

On Friday evening last the choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were entertained by the pastor and his wife at the manse, Smith avenue. A very pleasant evening was spent in games, songs and stories. Refreshments were served and the songsters were delighted with the pleasant evening spent with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

An attempt was made last night to burglarize the home of Miss Howell, who lives all alone on the Craighton road near Dundas. Miss Howell heard a noise during the night, as though some one was trying to force his way through one of the windows. She dressed hastily, and creeping down stairs opened the back door and ran to the home of one of her neighbors. "Sago Aitchison was arrested by Chief Twiss and lodged in the cells in connection with the affair.

ely and is improving. She "pulled her self together," to use a medical expression, quite a bit yesterday. She still does not know by what means her daughter came to her death, believing that she met with an accident.

INQUEST WILL GO ON.

Dr. McNicol, Coroner, stated to-day that the inquest would go on to-morrow night. If medical certificates are produced to show that the necessary witnesses are not in a fit physical condition to attend an adjournment will be granted.

The witnesses will include all the members of the Kinrade family, the mother and father, Florence Kinrade, Earle Kinrade and Ernest Kinrade, the brothers, and Gertrude Kinrade, another sister; Mrs. F. J. Hickey, to whose place Florence ran to give the alarm; Luke Coppel, and D. M. Brown, who responded to the call for assistance; and Drs. Edgell and Balfe, who performed the post-mortem.

ESTABLISHES THEIR THEORY.

Interest in the case has not abated by any means, although nearly a week has

Remarkable Incident

While the detectives were examining Florence Kinrade yesterday morning at the house on Herkimer street, a rather surprising thing occurred. When the officers were questioning the girl about the man who did the shooting, she became quite hysterical, and began to cry, "There he is; there he is."

A young man who was staying at the house came into the room, and tried to quiet her by placing his hand over her mouth. Detective Bleakley pulled his arm away. Miss Kinrade broke down shortly after, and the officers were obliged to leave.

The incident was very remarkable, and impressed the officers. Of course her exclamation had no reference whatever to the young man, who was then there, but seemed to be directed to some person she saw as in a vision.

pass. Letters pour in from all parts of the country offering theories and suggestions. "Some of them," said a detective, "are very foolish, and some of them are very good in their reasoning, but that they offer anything new, but they show good common sense. We have a great many theories, but every one will be thrashed out. It takes time, though. Some of them, of course, show nothing after they have been sifted for a day."

The officers who are working on the case seem confident of achieving something. "The story told by Florence Kinrade yesterday," they said, "establishes our theory that it was not a tramp who committed the crime."

WHAT AUTOPTIC DISCLOSED.

Gossip mongers are not at all particular in their silly stories, and as long as they have something sensational to talk about, yesterday the story was going around that the report of the doctors who made the autopsy would prove no tell what the cause of death was until they got to the witness box, but it can be authoritatively stated that the organs of the deceased were found to be normal, and to disclose nothing unusual.

SUPPORTS BLEAKLEY'S THEORY.

Although the detectives following up the story told by Florence Kinrade during her examination by the Provincial Officer in the morning, when she declared an attempt was also made to murder her, made a minute investigation of the Kinrade home and premises, they could find no shots embedded in the walls, ceiling or woodwork of the house, or in the fence outside. This is an entirely different version from any given by the girl yet, and in some quarters it is being taken as a hysterical story. There is one feature of the story she told yesterday, however, that supports the theory first advanced by Detective Bleakley. When he arrived there and made an examination he found the side window open and a woman's footprints in the snow outside. They faced with the toes pointing from the window, and one foot mark turned to the south. He was puzzled at the time because they could not be traced any further, indicating that if any one got out the window, they must have returned the same way. Miss Florence was questioned on this point by the officer the day after the murder, but she explained that although she opened the window with the intention of escaping that way, she did not step out.

In her statements to the detectives yesterday the girl told the officers she got out this window, and returned, the same way. She thinks the murderer pulled her in again.

"That bears out your theory of the footprints outside the window," the detective was asked.

"Certainly," he replied. "It is impossible to get away from it, the footprints were there."

FLORENCE TALKS TO OFFICERS.

Allowances are made by the officers for the girl's hysterical condition when they were questioning her. Miss Kinrade conversed pleasantly with the detectives until the question of the shooting was mentioned when she became very hysterical.

This is the story she told while the examination lasted:

Last Thursday between 3 and 4 o'clock a man came to the door and asked for something to eat. I attempted to close the vestibule door, but he would not let me, and, coming inside, said something about wanting all the money I had, or something like that. I went up stairs to get some, and called to Ethel, whose room is beside mine, and she came to the front street, to lock herself in her room. I do not know if Ethel was in her room then or not. I did not tell her why, but after going in my room I raised my window opening on top of the front verandah.

I thought I would get out and give the alarm, but while I stood there I heard a number of explosions and was frightened. I got the money—$10—and

DEATHS

BANWELL.—At her parents' residence, Lottridge and Princess streets, on Tuesday, March 2nd, 1909, Hazel Pages, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Banwell, aged 11 years and 3 months. Funeral on Thursday at 2 p. m. to Hamilton Cemetery. Kindly omit flowers. Western papers please copy.

BATEMAN.—In this city, Sunday morning, February 28, 1909, E. W. Bateman, aged 81 years. Funeral on Wednesday, March 3rd, 2 o'clock, from his late residence, 67 Victoria avenue north, to Hamilton Cemetery. Friends and acquaintances will kindly accept this intimation.

BOYD.—On Sunday, 28th February, 1909, at Inglewood Crescent, Dundas St. W., first daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. E. Boyd, aged 8 months.

Tender Shepherd, Thou hast still'd Now Thy little lamb's brief weeping. Oh, how peaceful, pale, and mild, In its narrow coffin lying. And no sigh of anguish sore Heaves that little bosom more.

In a world of pain and care, Loved, Thou wouldst no longer leave it: To Thy meadows bright and fair, Lovingly Thou dost receive it. Clothed in robes of spotless white, Now it dwells with Thee in light.

Oh, Lord Jesu, grant that we There may live where it is living. And the blissful pasture see. That its heavenly food are giving: Let awhile our treasured love, Gathered green, stay above.

MCHENRY.—On Monday, March 1st, 1909, at her late residence, 75 Jackson street west, Mary Ann, wife of the late Capt. P. S. McHenry, in her 70th year. Funeral private from above residence on Wednesday, March 3rd, at St. Mary's Cathedral, thence to Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

LAMBER.—At Bartonville on Monday, March 1st, at 10.30 p. m., Chas. Lamber, in his 70th year. Funeral on Thursday at 2 p. m. from his late residence, Service at Bartonville Methodist Church. Interment at Bartonville Cemetery.

MEMORIAL. CATTON.—Walter J. Catton died March 2nd. While we are happy still we must weep. When for the last one who silently sleeps. O, dear father we miss you to-day.

Wife and Family. HACKBUSH.—In loving remembrance of our daughter, Myrtle Rose Hackbush, who died in the home of feeble beauty. She is now a shining star. Dwelling in the Holy City. With the golden gates ajar; Then beside the pure and spotless. She has joined the angel band. Wears a crown upon her forehead. Bears a harp within her Father and Mother.

going downstairs met the man in the hallway and gave it to him. I was turning into the back parlor when he came to me and said: "Now, don't you cause an alarm." I went to the back parlor window, and lifting it, went out on the front lawn. I heard shots fired then. I came in again, I think because he pulled me in. I went into the dining room and didn't see him, so I tried to go out the back door, and as I was running I heard shots. I think he was trying to shoot me. I couldn't climb the fence, but returned to the house and found the man in the dining-room again. He tried to hit me with the revolver, but I warded it off with my arm, and as he was threatening me I got past him and ran out the front door as he was firing after me.

WAS NOT A TRAMP.

After the officers left she became quite hysterical and her screams could be heard on the street. The story is being so confusing that ever, was Detective Miller's comment.

While at the house Miss Kinrade was shown the photographs of a number of suspects arrested since the shooting, but failed to identify any of them. When asked if the murderer was like any of them, she replied: "No, he was not a tramp. He was too well dressed."

"Would you know him again?" "Yes, if he had on the same hat," she said, "I don't think so."

ONLY AN ORDINARY QUARREL.

A point elaborated upon in a morning paper tells of a quarrel Florence had with her sister about a man in Virginia. Miss Florence could not remember this at first, but told the detectives before that there was a man in Virginia from whom she received letters two weeks before Christmas, when she returned home. Ethel did not approve of this man, according to the report. An officer who was present during the examination, it is quite clear that this was nothing more than an ordinary disagreement between sisters over such matters. Florence denied ever having had a revolver or inspecting one closely.

WAS NOTIFIED AT ONCE.

Another morning paper to-day makes it appear as though Coroner McNicol was doubtful if he was called to the house promptly, as was first stated, and while the girl was still standing. "That he was called immediately after the shooting," "Supposedly yes," the Coroner assured the Times to-day that he said when asked if he had been called immediately was that he supposed he had, "I do not think there was any delay," he said this morning.

ARE PUZZLED OVER THIS.

The authorities are somewhat puzzled over the fact that although there was no external bleeding from the wounds in the breast there was a pool of blood under the body. The four wounds in the head did not kill the girl, as first supposed, the post-mortem showing that the wounds were unimportant, but every one of the three shots through the breast would have been fatal, one piercing the heart.

When the body was found a 32 calibre bullet was discovered in a small pool of blood under the back. It was badly flattened and stained, showing that it must have gone through the girl's body. The three bullets in the breast were located, and this one must have been through her head. An effort will be made to ascertain how the girl was lying in a pool of blood which came from wounds in her head, while there was no blood under her head.

Four of the seven bullets are in the possession of the police, three having been retained by the coroner. The bullets fired into the breast went through her body, but did not come out at the back, while the third struck the girl's eighth rib and took an upward course, lodging in her throat.

ENCOURAGED TRAMPS.

Dr. Gerald O'Reilly, of Guelph, was in Hamilton at the time of the murder, staying at 104 Herkimer street, directly opposite from the Kinrade home. In speaking of the murder to the Guelph Mercury he says:

As to the tramp theory, there is plenty to support it, as the vicinity is infested with the tough wanderers. The street is one of the best residential streets in the city and the tramps have been to some extent encouraged by liberality, so that there are always a number hanging about. The doctor said he had heard them spoken of not only in the home where he was staying, but by others living in the vicinity.

MURDERER MADE SURE.

There seems no lack of evidence that whoever committed the murder made sure of killing the girl. It looks as if the first shot was fired while she stood on the second or third steps coming down the back stairs, striking her in the side of the face; that she reeled; the second bullet striking her lower down on the same side. Two other bullets struck her on the other side of the face, near the mouth and temple. One of the bullets was found in the hair at the back of the girl's head. The police believe the three bullets in the breast were fired when the murderer stood over the prostrate body, and they think this accounts for the small space in which the bullets in the breast were found. It is thought that the fact that the clothing and flesh were burned proves conclusively that the murderer stooped over the body of the girl and pumped three bullets in rapid succession. Although the police were inclined for a time to doubt the theory that an automatic revolver was used, it looks very much as if that was the kind of a weapon with which the crime was committed.

BURCH DENIES FINDING SCARF.

The police denied to-day that any blood-stained scarf had been found in the yard back of the Kinrade home, and in any event attached no importance to it. A constable who was among the first there stated that he had seen a blood-stained scarf in the yard. He told this to one of the detectives, but admitted that he did not pick it up. When a search was made it could not be found. There was a piece of cloth in the yard, with what looked like paint spots on it, and it is believed that this was what he saw. No importance is attached to it.

Constable Burch, who was credited with the find, was seen this morning by a Times reporter and gave an emphatic denial to the story.

"I found nothing whatever," he said. "Was there a scarf found at all?" he was asked.

"Not that I know of. The police have certainly not got one in their possession," he replied.

To the reporters this morning Inspector McMahon gave an interesting little account of the case. He said that he had a body's scarf for instance," he said, "It would likely be one of those four-foot long chiffons. Florence Kinrade might have been wearing it. It is not improbable that she would go to her sister's side, stoop down or lift her up, and in that manner get some of the blood on her scarf. The blood from a wound would be likely to spurt up and get on it." The Inspector went on to say that the girl told the detectives she had a scarf which she had used when she was in her agency or the dead girl herself may have been shot in the face and head first, wounds that were not mortal, according to the doctors, and then fallen on the blood that streamed from her head while she was still standing. "That is all assuming that there is a scarf found," said the Inspector, "but as far as I know there was none found at all. I have not seen or heard of it."

Miss Florence Kinrade has been in a constant hysterical state since the shooting and has added or detracted from previous stories each time she has made the recital to detectives; yet they attach no importance to some of these and merely put them down to the girl's terrible condition.

CHIEF HAS HIS VIEWS.

"What hope have the police of clearing up this mystery?" Chief of Police Smith was asked by the Times yesterday. "Well, you see what we have to go on," he replied. "A description furnished by a hysterical girl, and statements that are confusing the more we hear of them."

The Chief said he did not know much about the case since the Provincial man took charge. He said no report of the finding of a blood-stained scarf was made by the officer said to have found it.

"I have my own conclusions in this case," he said, "and I will not divulge them to anyone at present."
