

The Montreal Courier

FOR THE COUNTRY

Optimus est Republica status, ubi nihil deest nisi licentia persequi.—SENECA.

Vol. II.

MONTREAL, THURSDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 2, 1837.

No. 77.

Morning Courier.

MONTREAL, TUESDAY, JAN. 31, 1837. We beg to inform our subscribers in Upper Canada...

THE MORNING COURIER has published the Office of Foreign Exchange...

THE MORNING COURIER FOR THE COUNTY is published on Wednesdays and Thursdays...

For the observations on a Metallic Currency for Lower Canada...

We have been somewhat amazed by the awkward attempt to mystify "our readers" in yesterday's Herald...

Our correspondent "Eco" in yesterday's number did not do the Toronto Constitution the justice by quoting extracts from its remarks on the "Four Mayors of Toronto"...

The observations before us are evidently the result of a thorough investigation of the subject of a metallic currency...

We would suggest that in stating the relation which gold bears to silver...

The position which is made of the real worth of our currency...

differs from that of the London market. Suppose we take the former standard...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

We have been somewhat amazed by the awkward attempt to mystify "our readers" in yesterday's Herald...

Our correspondent "Eco" in yesterday's number did not do the Toronto Constitution the justice by quoting extracts from its remarks on the "Four Mayors of Toronto"...

The observations before us are evidently the result of a thorough investigation of the subject of a metallic currency...

We would suggest that in stating the relation which gold bears to silver...

The position which is made of the real worth of our currency...

differs from that of the London market. Suppose we take the former standard...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

We have been somewhat amazed by the awkward attempt to mystify "our readers" in yesterday's Herald...

Our correspondent "Eco" in yesterday's number did not do the Toronto Constitution the justice by quoting extracts from its remarks on the "Four Mayors of Toronto"...

The observations before us are evidently the result of a thorough investigation of the subject of a metallic currency...

We would suggest that in stating the relation which gold bears to silver...

The position which is made of the real worth of our currency...

differs from that of the London market. Suppose we take the former standard...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

We have been somewhat amazed by the awkward attempt to mystify "our readers" in yesterday's Herald...

Our correspondent "Eco" in yesterday's number did not do the Toronto Constitution the justice by quoting extracts from its remarks on the "Four Mayors of Toronto"...

The observations before us are evidently the result of a thorough investigation of the subject of a metallic currency...

We would suggest that in stating the relation which gold bears to silver...

The position which is made of the real worth of our currency...

differs from that of the London market. Suppose we take the former standard...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

We have been somewhat amazed by the awkward attempt to mystify "our readers" in yesterday's Herald...

Our correspondent "Eco" in yesterday's number did not do the Toronto Constitution the justice by quoting extracts from its remarks on the "Four Mayors of Toronto"...

The observations before us are evidently the result of a thorough investigation of the subject of a metallic currency...

We would suggest that in stating the relation which gold bears to silver...

The position which is made of the real worth of our currency...

differs from that of the London market. Suppose we take the former standard...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

Let gold be made the basis of our currency, and a legal tender to an indefinite amount...

We have been somewhat amazed by the awkward attempt to mystify "our readers" in yesterday's Herald...

Our correspondent "Eco" in yesterday's number did not do the Toronto Constitution the justice by quoting extracts from its remarks on the "Four Mayors of Toronto"...

The observations before us are evidently the result of a thorough investigation of the subject of a metallic currency...

We would suggest that in stating the relation which gold bears to silver...

The position which is made of the real worth of our currency...

Table with columns for 'ARTICLES', 'Price', 'Per', 'Duties', and 'Duties'. Lists various goods like Oils, Wines, and Spirits with their respective prices and duties.

Table titled 'EXCHANGES AND STOCKS' showing market data for various locations like London, Montreal, and New York.