School Has Silence Strike.

Bayonne Students Express Disapproval of School Board by Going Dumb.
Bayonne, N. J., Oct. 3.—Indignant because one hour had been added to their four and one-half hours of daily recitations, the High School students here expressed their disapproval by "giving the silence" to all their teachers.

They answered none of the questions that were put to them, and asked none.
Impenetrable silence hung over the halls of learning from nine o'clock in the morning until quarter after three. Then the principal appealed to the board which had passed the obnoxious law. While awaiting their verdict the strike silence still goes on.
Abraham Lincoln studied by the light of a torch, but that has nothing to do with the case.

The Small Blue Button.

By W. T. M. Salter.
Fasten on the small blue button
With its Square and Compass bright.
A memento of the evening
When I first beheld its light.
With the pleasant recollection
Of the comrades who were there,
Who have pledged their fond affection
On the Compass and the Square.

I will wear the small blue button
As I journey to and fro;
Let the lessons that it teaches
Fill my life where'er I go.
That the friends with whom I travel
May behold the emblem there,
And may gauge me by the button
With the Compass and the Square.

When my life has gone its circuit,
And my moon no more shall rise,
When no sunshine greets my morning,
And no life-beam lights my eyes;
When they lay me in the cold ground
When my dust to dust they bear,
Please be sure I wear the button
With the Compass and the Square.

When the lights all blaze in glory,
And the Master in His love
Offers me His hand in greeting
To the altars up above;
I will search the Heavenly stations
For my brothers over there,
Who have worn on earth the button
With the Compass and the Square.

Jonathan's Message.

At the banquet of the Iron and Steel Institute, which took place in October, 1890, at New York, it was my privilege to offer, as a part of my address, some verses, entitled "Uncle Sam's Welcome," which had the good fortune to win from our English guests a flattering approval; and the president of that society, in notifying me of my appointment as a speaker at the great dinner in the Guild Hall of London, on the 27th of last month, paid me a compliment of requesting that I would include in my remarks something more of the same kind. Externals in after-dinner oratory need not be told that such a request is highly embarrassing. If a man has had good luck once in a given line, it is, of course, best for him to try some other line next time. Nevertheless, in the goodness of my heart (whatever might be the inference as to my head), I resolved to do my best to satisfy the desire of my friend Haddfield, in recognition of whose services and merits I was ready, if necessary, to sacrifice my reputation; and consequently I delivered in London the verses which are printed below. In further explanation, I may add, that, in the immediately preceding part of my speech, I had emphasized the unquestionable historic fact that the war of the American Revolution was a conflict, not between England and America, but between the party of freedom and the party of despotism in both countries; that the best men of England were on our side; that the general refusal of Englishmen to enlist (even at double pay) in a war against men of their own blood necessitated the employment in that war of European mercenaries; and that the final victory won by the party of freedom in America was only the prelude to a similar victory of the same party in England. In the light of such an introduction, the following verses should be interpreted.

Sez Jonathan.
Now don't tell me the British Oak
Was split by any lightning stroke!
Bless your soft head, that wasn't a split.
But just a fork, that doubled it!
For freedom ain't no sapling limb;
A-fear'd to grow another limb;
Thar's two big branches to that tree.
An' one is you, an' one is me,
Sez Jonathan, sez he!

Your bough's the biggest up to date;
But mine has struck a lively gait,
An' fust you know, she'll shove her way
Right alongside o' yorn some day.
While through 'em both, from foot to cap,
Tingles an' climbs the same old sap!
No matter whar them branches be,
Thar ain't but one trunk to that tree,
Sez Jonathan, sez he!

What's more, we're both a branchin' yet
With every blessed chance we get;
An' every limb that we send out
I welcome to grow stanch and stout.
The sky above, the sile below,
Give room and food for all to grow;
An' limbs an' leaves that flutter free
Just add more glory to the tree.
Sez Jonathan, sez he!

Grow on, O stalwart oak an' tall;
Spread wide thy branches, great an' small.
While in their nest the birds,
And in their shadow stand the herds;
Lift all thy heads to greet the sun
That crowns with splendor every one—
So men, til men-shall cease to be,
May praise and bless the ancient tree,
Sez Jonathan, say we!

CHICAGO, Ills., Oct. 17.
The death of Stanley Ketchel, the pugilist, at Springfield, Mo., Saturday, has precipitated the heavy middle weight championship situation into a more or less of a muddle. Four claimants to the title stand out prominently, and of these three had feared the former champion in the ring, while the fourth would have had the opportunity before long, had not Ketchel died. This last is Eddie McGoorty, of Oakbrook, Wis., the others are: former champion Billy Papke, of Kansas, Ills., now in Australia; Frank Klaus, of Pittsburgh; and Hugo Kelly, of Chicago. Papke can claim distinction by the fact that he was one of the very few who beat Ketchel. Papke knocked him out in the 12th round of a bout in Los Angeles two years ago. This is the one decisive beating the past champion suffered in his career, although he was downed for the counting in the battle with Jack Johnson, at Colma, Cal., a year ago. One of those claimants for the championship was probably belittled when Klaus and McGoorty met in their bout at Milwaukee which was set down for last Friday night but postponed on account of McGoorty's condition.

It is estimated that 5,000 members of the Portuguese religious orders, expelled from their own country, have taken refuge in Spain, where they are being distributed among the convents and monasteries in various parts of the country. It is believed that this will render very difficult the expulsion from the Spanish territory of those people of Spanish origin. The attack on religious orders in Portugal have greatly altered the Spanish Orders in the various provinces, and it is reported that they are strengthening the convents and monasteries with iron doors and shutters and are laying in stores of arms and ammunition. A parade of Republicans was held yesterday in celebration of the Republic of Portugal. The procession passed through the principal thoroughfares of the city and perfect order was maintained.

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 17.

The Korean people apparently have accepted annexation by Japan with complacency. The new order has been greeted by the Koreans not with opposition but with relief. The reason is not far to seek. Korea has reached the top crest of misgovernment. Ten millions of peasants and poor were practically the slaves of a few nobles or nobles or nobles or nobles. The latter lived luxuriously, spending money with a lavish hand, and caring nothing for their country or the people except as payers of the taxes. Until the entry of Resident General and the suzerainty of Japan there was no relief for the serfs. But three years of the practical application of real Government gave to the mass of Koreans a just for freedom which came from Government properly directed, an seemingly are satisfied that the future holds out much more for them than the past. Since the annexation orders went into effect there have been few disturbances. At no time have the socialist insurgents been able to gather together more than 150 of their number for a demonstration. On several occasions small bands numbering from 10 to 50 have shown some opposition to the governing authorities, but no protest of a general nature has been made in any part of the country. Lieut.-General Viscount Terauchi, Resident General of Korea accompanied by his suite left here yesterday for Tokyo. Conditions throughout the country are reported to be normal. Before his departure the Resident General in an interview gave assurance that every foreign interest would be amply protected. Missionaries and others in position to judge state that the condition of the Koreans is vastly improved. The Consuls are inclined to be critical, probably because they have not been consulted by General Terauchi. Up to the present they have not been officially informed by the Government concerning certain changes, consequently there has been some confusion and uncertainty as to how they should act where various of their countrymen were concerned. Forty-six Koreans have been created Peers by the Japanese Government; four refused to accept the honour, and one is reported to have committed suicide because a Peerage was offered him.

Ends Dyspepsia in Few Minutes.

Heartburn, Gas, Indigestion and all Stomach Misery Vanish.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort and relieve the sourst, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, Nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Bilioussness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and besides, one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always relieve at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.
