

DUTTON, ONT. MAY 16, 1912

DR. BEATTIE NESBITT IN TORONTO

The Wrecker of the Farmers Bank Out on $30,000 Bail

Toronto, May 13.—Dr. William Beattie Nesbitt is back once more. Early Sunday morning while the good folk of his home city still slept, the doctor was rushed from the office of a Grand Trunk train at North Parkdale station, down the winding stone steps into the subway. A taxi picked him and his police escort up, and in a few minutes he was off on a roundabout way to the jail. There in the big, gloomy building beside the Don he is waiting, an unwilling guest, for his first appearance in a Canadian Court of Justice. A stone's throw away from him is W. R. Travers, the man who stood by him in the troubled operations of the Farmers Bank, and who is now paying with years of his life for the wrecking of that ill-fated institution.

The return of the exile came with dramatic suddenness, rivaling in interest the circumstances surrounding his hurried flight before the arm of the law, eighteen months ago, when he made his escape by driving from his Muskoka home over the frozen lake. Saturday morning the people of Toronto were reading of habeas corpus proceedings in the Chicago courts, were noting interviews with Nesbitt's Chicago counsel, in which he spoke of a surprise that was on the way. The "surprise" arrived but not the one the counsel expected. Early Saturday afternoon a wire reached Toronto declaring that the ex-bank manager had been spirited away from Chicago without being given a chance to consult his legal advisors and was well out of the state of Illinois before his friends were aware that he had been removed from the Chicago jail. His entry to Toronto was as quietly carried out, and a dozen newspaper men, with a few press photographers as aides, went on a wild-goose chase from north Parkdale station to the Prison Station, while the prisoner and Provincial detective Boyd rolled swiftly off from Parkdale.

Dr. Nesbitt appeared in the police court for a few minutes this morning and was allowed his liberty on $15,000 bail. His bondsmen are Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., and Dr. Walter McKown, each giving his surety to the amount of $7,500 each.

The doctor was arraigned on four charges of fraud making false returns of the condition of the finances of the Farmers Bank to the Government. H. H. Dewar, his counsel, asked for a remand until next Monday without clothing or pleading, stating that the case had been brought on so hurriedly that he had not been afforded an opportunity to consult his client.

So brief was the stay of the doctor in the court room that the small army of newspaper men and artists who were in attendance to get either a sketch or a word picture of him, caught little more than fleeting glimpses of the man who had eluded the authorities for sixteen months.

The investigation into the affairs of the Farmers Bank by Sir William Meredith was resumed this afternoon. Before it concludes, Dr. Nesbitt will be asked to give the commission his version of the defunct institution.

HON. A. G. MCKAY IN THE WEST

Rumored That He Will Drop Out of Provincial Affairs

Toronto, May 9th.—An Owen Sound special to the Star says: "While no definite announcement has been made so far there is no doubt that Hon. A. G. McKay, until recently leader of the Ontario Opposition, has located permanently in Edmonton, where he has opened an office and taken up the practice of law."

"It has been known for some time that exceptional inducements have been offered him to locate in Edmonton, where he has many friends, both political and personal, among them Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta. "Mr. McKay left for the west nearly a month ago, but gave no intimation that he intended staying there. Since arriving in Edmonton he has been successful in examinations, admitting him to the Alberta bar, and has opened a fine suite of offices. He will appear on an important case in the Edmonton courts to-day. The case is one involving over $100,000, and some of Alberta's most prominent men have been engaged on it."

"In a speech at a banquet a few days ago Mr. McKay said that he intended making Edmonton his home in future."

The Globe states that Hon. Geo. P. Graham, M.P., has been offered the presidency of the Grand Trunk Railway Co. as successor to the late Chas. M. Hays, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster.

It would surprise you to know of the great good that is being done by Chamberlain's Tablets. Darius Downey, of Newburg Junction, N. B., writes: "My wife has been using Chamberlain's Tablets and finds them very effective and doing her lots of good." If you have any trouble with your stomach or bowels give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

A CANADIAN WRITER DEAD

Victoria, B. C., May 13.—Agnes Deane Cameron, the well-known writer and lecturer, died in the hospital, following an operation for appendicitis. She was educated in the public and high schools of the city, and after teaching for a number of years, entered journalism and moved to Chicago. There she became noted as a descriptive writer of great ability. She concentrated most of her energies to describing to the world the magnificent resources and opportunities of Western Canada. For years she travelled in the recesses of the Dominion; in 1908 making a 10,000-mile trip to the Arctic Ocean by way of Athabasca, the Great Slave Lake and the Mackenzie River, returning by the Peace River and Lesser Slave Lake. Few magazines are there in Canada, United States or Great Britain that have not published her wonderful tales of the country and people in those parts. Her volumes comprise, "The New North" and "The Outer Trails." She was well known on the lecture platform of the English-speaking countries.

A Teacher of Health.
Ontario's health exhibition is traveling around the province now, with additions and elaborations. The man who put this idea into effect in Ontario is Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Health Officer, and if you call at his office in the Parliament Buildings you will find the walls of his room lined with various new objects lessons in health ready to be added to the traveling exhibit.

The car containing this exhibit is visiting every city and town in the province. It is not taken to a place, run on a siding for a few hours, and then taken away again. A hall is hired, the exhibit is attractively set up, and a number of local doctors are asked to help in explaining the urgent need of sanitation, pure water and milk, and methods for preventing the spread of dangerous infection. Moving pictures are also shown to emphasize these lessons. Sometimes the health exhibit remains in one of the larger towns for four or five days, and is viewed by thousands of people. Dr. McCullough is greatly interested in this work. It may, indeed, be said to be his hobby; for every energetic head of a branch of the public service has a hobby of some kind. He says it has been particularly useful in showing the public that tuberculosis is no longer considered a disease which cannot be combated, but that if given early treatment it can often be conquered.

A Bright Lad.
There is no age limit to patentees. Donald M. Murphy of St. John, Canada, could not even write his own name when he produced a sounding toy, for which the United States granted him a patent. But do not blame him for his lack of schooling for Donald was only six years old when he filed the application, and, as far as is known, is the youngest applicant for a patent in this or any other country. The toy patented by him is a simple contrivance including a bar with handle knobs at its ends and two clapper disks slidable along the bar, so that they can sound against each other, and against the handle knobs.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the rink will be held next Wednesday evening in the town hall.

There was some frost in the Niagara belt on Monday night, but whether any damage was done is not known yet.

Knew His Man.

The members of the staff of The Montreal Star have been selling tickets for a concert by means of which that paper aided a charitable cause.

One of them sold a ticket to one of the men who are partners in business. Then the newspaperman made a bet with another member of the staff that he couldn't sell a ticket to the other partner, who was known to be close in money matters.

The man who took the bet soon reported that he had sold two tickets to the close one and had collected two dollars.

But the man who had taken the other end of the bet was still doubtful. He hunted up the alleged buyer, who told him that he had bought the tickets and, after tearing them up, had thrown them into the waste-paper basket. The counter searched the waste-paper basket and found what looked like bits of the tickets. Somewhat sadly he went back to The Star office and asked the "boys" out for the promised refreshments.

Soon afterwards the man who had taken the two tickets met the seller and asked why the doubter was so anxious to find out about the tickets.

"He nearly had me," said the close one. "Just after you sold me the two tickets, a friend came in and I resold them to him. It was fortunate for me that there were some bits of cardboard in that waste-paper basket."
