An Indian Liquor Case.

Wellington Barnes, a hotel-keeper at Pottersburg, appeared before Squires J. B.
Smyth and R. F. Lacey yesterday afternoon on the charge of selling liquor to Indians. Mrs. Rachel Summers, of the Ouelia reserve, was the complainant, and she said that on Sept. 20 her son Isaac, about 18 years of age, got very drunk in the city and was arrested. She had learned from Isaac where he got the liquor. Those Nicholls, who was accused last week of breaking into the house of Sarah Dostler in 1888, but was dismissed, as the original information could not be produced, was another witness. He stated that he, with Isaac Summers, went to Barnes' hotel and, after getting a couple of drinks, each purchased two bottles of firewater. Isaac corroborated this story. Barnes denied having sold the liquor, but said the Indians were at his house. The case was laid over for a week to allow of further evidence.

Saying "Farewell."

The Baptist people of London took formal leave last night of a resolute little woman who will leave shortly for the Baptist mission field of Telugu, India. The affair took place in the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, and although the weather was threatening the edifice was crowded to the London Advertiser.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS

—You reach the right sort of people by advertising in the ADVERTISER.

—Is the wording of your advertisement according to the season? Freshen it up.

Bring it up to date.

—Rev. Robert Aylward, formerly the pastor of the First Congregational Church, has accepted a call to Parkhill.

—W. S. Dryers Barkwell, of London, who has been in the city for the past few days, leaves for the west today. — [Ottawa Journal.

—Mr. William Duffield, of the Gas Commission, has been charged by Inspector Mc-Cann with putting chemicals, destructive to fish, in the River Thames.

—Mr. W. Woollatt, superintendent L.

E. and D. R. R., was in St. Thomas yesterday arranging for a new time table and on other business of the company.

—If advertised articles were not the best their advertising would be unprofitable, as it scarcely pays to advertise an article not likely to be called for more than once.

—The superintendent of the social operations of the Salvation Army in Canada will be in the city all this week, and will be pleased to show any person through the new Shelter and Prison Gate Home, Clarence street; also to receive donations of cash or furniture for the same.

—To write advertising on one subject or about one business, in time will draw heavily upon the stock of original ideas of even the most versatile writer. The best man will get into a rut, in spite of their efforts. The modern advertiser knows the importance of bright, sparkling, original advertisements; yet, such results are impossible unless "new blood" is enlisted occasionally.

—Mr. R. A. Balfour, formerly of James Wright & Co., was reported recently to have jumped out of a window at the Danville, N. J., sanitarium, and to have been dangerously hurt. The statement is untrue. Mr. Balfour writes to say that a friend whom he was taking to the sanitarium fell from the window there accidentally. This was doubtless the foundation for the rumor.

—David Young, an inmate of St. Joseph's Hospital, escaped last night and was locked up by the police. Young belongs to Chicago, where he works in a blacksmith shop.

He came here about a week ago to attend his mother's funeral, and instead of returning to the Windy City with his brother, got on a spree and was attacked with delirium tremens. Young was removed to the General Hospital.

—Some boys whose sympathies are evidently with Japan in the eastern struggle attacked Lee Hop's laundry on King street near the fire hall last night. They broke his window and might have maltreated him but for the arrival of the patrol and two policemen. Hop is a very inoffensive and industrious Chinaman and is at a loss to account for the action of the rowdies.

—Mrs. Gravelle, of Palace street, has received the unexpected news of the death of her aged father, David Merouit, who died at his residence in the township of Hay, and was the last male survivor of ten French families who moved from St.

Jacques, near Quebec city and settled near Bayfield over 60 years ago. There are four of the original party now living—Mrs. Durant, Mrs. Lacourse, Mrs. La Finnere and the widow of Mr. Merouit.

—The Epworth League of the Askin Street Methodist Church has elected the following officers: Honorary president, Rev. T. Cullen; president, Mr. Wm. Copp; president of the Christian work department, Miss Lou Young; president of the entertainment department, Miss Winnie Atkinson; president of the social department, Mr. Harry Dunn; president of the literary department, Mr. D. C. Wilson; secretary, Miss Jessie Best; treasurer, Mr. Robert Kemp; assistant secretary, Miss Gowman. The election of a president for the junior league has been postponed.

The reports showed the league to be flourishing.

Successful Canadian Inventors.

The following list of patents, recently granted to inventors residing in the Dominion of Canada, is reported for the London ADVERTISER, by P. J. Edmunds, international patent solicitor, London, Ont.: Canada, patents: E. Morrison, E. Brockville, cheese press; W. J. Coulter, Chasley, clothes dryer; A. Tracey, Ottawa, vehicle dumper; E. F. Hand, Fenelon Falls, artificial egg; O. Barnard, Oxford Mills, eard cutter; E. Peway & Co., Montreal, kid gloves (trade mark); J. P. Staalay, Toronto, "The Chalice of Love" (music, copyright).

United States patents—C. S. Dean, Fort

Erie, Canada, boiler flue cleaner; J. W.
Coyne, Ridgeway, churn; John Ross, Halifax, animal trap; J. Tomlinson, Granby, dispensing apparatus.

"Williams' Royal Crown Remedy Saved John Weir's Life."

May be seen in large letters on the covers of the horses that precede the handsome Royal Crown Remedy wagon at Toronto and Western Fairs. To a Globe reporter, Mr.

Weir said: "This is a most marvelous cure. I became pale as a corpse; my blood seemed to be turned to water. I had dizziness and a ringing noise in my head; my hands and feet were cold all the time, and my limbs were completely swollen up to the body. Some doctors called it consumption of the blood. I got so weak that I could not walk, and finally took to my bed." Mrs. Weir says: "All M. Weir has told you is true. At times he lay for days unconscious and unable to take nourishment of any kind, and was reduced to a mere skeleton of 84 pounds; and I fully believe that if we had been one day later in getting Williams' Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to-day. So it may well be said that Williams' Royal Crown Remedy saved John Weir's life. The best druggists keep Royal Crown Remedy, but if your druggist does not, remail direct to Isaac W. Williams Company, London, and they will send it to you by first express. The price at which Williams' Royal Crown Remedy is sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with any other medical treatment. 6 bottles doors. The young lady referred to is Miss Lottie McLeod, who for fifteen years has taught the rising generation of East London in the public schools. Always an indefatigable church worker, Miss McLeod some time ago decided to devote her life to the missionary cause. She resigned her position on the city teaching staff, and will be supported in the field by the Ladies' Society of the First Baptist Church, Brantford, of which Rev. Thomas S. Johnson, formerly of the Adelaide Street Church, is the pastor. Miss McLeod is the second daughter of the late James McLeod, who at one time conducted a farm near Thorndale. He afterwards removed to this city and resided at the corner of Adelaide street and Lombard avenue for many years. Miss McLeod was actively identified with the different societies of the church, and all were represented at the meeting last night. Mrs. G. F. Robertson, president of the missionary society, presided, and the missionary societies of the Talbot Street, South London, Grosvenor and Adelaide Street Baptist Churches were officially represented by the secretaries, The Women's Mission Circle, Young Ladies' Mission Circle, the Young People's Band, the Junior Mission Band, and Young Men's Mission Union, were also represented by their secretaries. In the absence of Rev.

Ira Smith the Union Circle was represented by Miss Arnold. Speeches, addresses, and music by the choir constituted the programme. Mrs. (Rev.) J. S. Johnson read an address on behalf of the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church, Brantford, which will support Miss McLeod, and Miss Patch, Woodstock, a returned missionary from Telugu, and who goes back with Miss McLeod, read an address of welcome on behalf of the foreign mission board. An address from the circles was prepared by Mrs. Thomas Woodburn and read by Miss Kate McKerricher.
Mr. Arthur Woodburn, who will devote himself to a missionary life also, and who commenced his medical course yesterday, read an address from the young people's societies. Miss McLeod replied modestly and feelingly. Addresses were also delivered by Rev. Messrs. Mibell, Charlesworth and Walker. The music by the choir, under Miss Rendell's leadership, was especially fine. The quartet "Abide With Me," by the Misses Hartson and Messrs. Drew and Moorhead elicited well merited applause. The same four also sang "Rock of Ages" with beautiful pathos and a capital solo—"God so Loved the World"—was given by Miss Rendell.
Miss Brodrique Pen-Photographed.

The Chicago Temper of this week has the following interesting pen-picture of Miss Brodrique, a graduate of this office, and a former representative of the Advertiser in the Parliamentary press gallery at Ottawa:

"She isn't bigger than a glass of soda, but she has five enough for twenty quarts!

And underneath the brilliant and sparkling, which is as fascinating as the foam, opalescence of a summer drink, is the essence of good journalism."For a young woman, Miss Eva Brodrique has done an enormous amount of hard newspaper work. She is the only woman who ever went through whole sessions in the press gallery of the Canadian House of Commons, and that was done when she was a girl under 20. Her departments on the Chicago Times and Evening Post have attracted attention by their marked individuality and literary merit.

"I never catch a breath of cool, sweet, autumn air that I am not vividly reminded of a letter received from her one crisp, October morning; a letter of congratulation and encouragement, not because we were friends, for I had never seen her face, but it came from a generous impulse to commend the efforts of one ambitious to succeed in journalism. And that first season of society reporting, when I wandered around for-lornly at big receptions, almost paralyzed with the horror of being scooped, and surrounding agencies from excessive timidity—a plainly dressed, unknown woman, ignored and snubbed by fashionable dames, Miss Brodrique, surrounded by friends and looking like a picture out of a gold frame, would step from among them and greet me with a spontaneous friendliness as genuine as it was cordial. It was like a pungent odour in the nostrils of the faintling, for it restored self-respect and brought courage and inspiration for the work in hand. It's a small matter to put out your hand to help another, but if your grip is firm and strong it's salvation to a soul floundering in the quicksands.

"Miss Brodrique was a charter member of the Chicago Press League, and for several years held the position of corresponding secretary. She is strikingly original in her literary style, and it has attracted attention throughout the States and Canada. There is something warm and human in all she writes, and through it all runs a vein of pathos and a touch of humor that is as optivating as a vivid bit of color at the throat of a bird.

"She is loyal to her friends, and sincerity is her chiefest charm, but her strength lies not alone in her exceptional talents, but in the gift of continuance in the divine performance of her own nature."
