The London B. C.'s Evening Meet at Queen's Park.

Result of the Oxford-Yale Athletic Tournamen!-Sporting News in Ceneral.

RADWAY AT IT AGAIN. Between 700 and 800 people were seated in the stands at Queen's Park last night to witness the initial evening races of the London Bicycle Club. The directors of the evening had expected the "meet" to be well patronized, but their desires were more than realized when they saw the big crowd. And a good-natured and enthuslastic crowd it was, too. They cheered every rider, whether in first place or last, but an extra effort was made every time Frank F. Radway crossed the tape. The events were all pretty well contested. The half-mile, 1:30 class, brought out Radway, Moorehead, C. H. White and Reid. With the word "Go" the riders forward and was closely followed by Reid.

These two had a small picnic to themselves

A.2.4.5 started well together. Moorehead pushed till the homestretch was reached, when Radway put on one of his best spurts, passed his opponents and finished twenty teet in advance of Moorehead. White appeared out of condition and dropped out near the finish. Time, 1:18 1-5.

"Green" riders of 1894 was hardly a suitable term to apply to some of the entries in the '94 race. Screaton, Dilloway, Baker, Croden and Peacock filed into line at the race being called. The distance was one mile, and Baker showed up well on the first half. His energy was spent at the three-quarter post, and Screaton and Dilloway worked to the front. The former had all he could do to maintain first place. Dilloway was second, and was followed in order by Baker, Croden and Peacock. Time, 2:58 4 5.

The one-mile handicap was not so exciting as it was expected to be. Radway was the only scratch man. White had 50 yards, Moorehead 80 vaids, Bryant 125 yards, Little 80 yards, Reid 125 yards, Elson 150 yards, Jenkins 150 yards, Holt 125 yards, Macbeth 125 yards, Screaton 200 yards, Croden 250 yards, Dilloway and Blackwell 175 yards, and Baker 250 yards. Radway was in hard luck throughout the race, being, in the first place, 5 seconds behind the field in starting. He endeavored to make up for the delay, and was succeeding admirably as he was about to turn on the homestretch. He was but a short distance be hind Little and Holt when he got mixed in about half a dozen riders. Several seconds elapsed before he freed himself, but when he did he came down the stretch at a terrific rate, and was given hearty applause by the stands. Little finished first, Holt second, Macbeth third and Radway fourth. The rest of the entries were bunched. Time, 2:23 1-5.

The two mile team race was more like procession for the first three laps. The eight riders held about the same positions in the three laps, but on the fourth Captains Radway and White urged their men forward as best they could, but White had the best following, and won by two points. The time was 6:05 1-5.

The following were the teams and points

A funny event was the 100 yards slow race. The entries were so plentiful that three heats were necessary to decide. The winners of Nos. 1 and 2 only were permitted in the third, and Sweeney was the winner, proving himself slower than Frank White. Some of the riders proved themselves as expert balance artists as some circus professionals.

The officers of the day were: Referee-C. J. Wade. Starter-Dr. Balfour. Judges-James McCormick, Fred Scan-

At Monday night's bicycle races the one-mile handicap, with about twenty starters, was acknowledged to be the race of the evening. This race was won by Mr. A. F. Little, a harness maker, of Ilderton, on a Smalley road machine, purchased from W. Mann & Co., the Canadian agents. A FOE OF WHEELMEN.

English wheelmen regard Lord Malmesbury in the same light that an enraged bull does a red rag. Lord Malmesbury is chairman of the quarter sessions and president of the board of magistrates of Hampshire and takes advantage of his office to act with brutal severity toward offending wheelmen. His lordship recently told the police that it was time to clip the wings of wheelmen, and, on being informed by the superintendent that the police had difficulty in stopping the riders owing to their speed, he advised the officers to run a stick through the spokes or throw a stone at the machine. How Royal Birth : Are Witnessed [From the New York Home Journal.]

The attendance of Mr. Asquith, the Engish Home Secretary, at the birth of the little Duke of Kent gives rise to the story of the origin of the custom. It arose out of the dispute that followed the birth of the eldest son of King James II. of England. This led to the enacting of the law which requires one of the secretaries of state to be present whenever there is a birth in the reigning family of Great Britain. When the eldest son of King James was born the king's enemies maintained that his heir was not the offspring of the queen, but that an infant had been procured elsewhere for the purpose. Since then a Cabinet minister has been present in the room when a royal birth has taken place, and the custom has been adopted by all the continental courts.
