Burglar Rutledge Kills Himself

Leaped From a Gallery to the Floor Thirty Feet Below and Crushed

he died about an hour after his nard

He and Rice had been down in the court house, where they were sentenced to 21 years at Kingston for burglary, and arraigned for the murder of Constable Boyd on Tuesday, during their fight for liberty. Despair seems to have seized Rutledge, for he was silent and moody on his way back to jail.

On arriving there he was taken, with another prisoner, in charge of one of the jail guards, to dinner, shortly fore 3 o'clock, when he made a sudden dash, and, springing up the stairway, ing, jumped to the floor below. He fell in a heap on the pavement, which is made of thick glass in an fron framework, and crushed his skull.

DIED WITHOUT SPEAKING. Guards at once hurried to his assistance and carried him to a cot, and Doctors Richardson and Sneath were soon in attendance on him, but he was unconscious. The back of his skull was crushed in. He died about one hour later, without recovering consciousness.

sciousness.
Rutledge was a native of Streetsville, Ontario, and had served terms at Kingston for robbery and assault before going to the United States, where he became acquainted with Rice and Jones. The terrible events of the past few days have already cost three livesthose of Boyd, shot down while doing his duty as a police officer; Thomas Jones, fatally injured while trying to escape from the hack conveying him to jail, and Routledge, who killed himself to avoid the gallows.

Rice, the remaining one of the three burglars, was the man who shot Boyd, and his conviction for murder is cer-
