Should Be Done.

After wrangling among themselves for a couple of hours yesterday afternoon, the members of the committees representing the city and county they were in exactly the same posiparables, who went ahead and started a building and didn't know anything about how much it was going to cost. The court house repairs, according previous estimates, were to cost $25,000, of which the city was to pay half. According to estimates presented yesterday, based on tenders received, the cost will be $40,989, and the end is not yet. Many additional things are needed, and several members of the committee stated plainly that they thought the repairs are going to cost $50,000, and probably more. Must Have Estimate.
