EARLY FROSTS INJURE CROPS ON LOW GROUND

Farmers Working at Harvest of Corn, Pumpkins and Hubbard Squash.

Frosts which have occurred the last four nights in Western Ontario have brought outdoor growth of most crops to a sudden stop. They have not been sufficiently heavy to injure the corn, but the fact that the first frost is here has speeded up the cutting, and on many farms the corn binder is working hard to get the crop, but before real injury takes place.

Grape growers report that the grapes are not affected as yet, and in the case of gardeners located on high ground, tomato vines are still unhurt. Those gardeners who are working on low flat land say that practically all outdoor crops, with the exception of roots, are cut down by the frost and work is going forward rapidly in the harvesting of pumpkins and hubbard

The potato crop is frosted down The potato crop is frosted down and in Caradoc some growers have commenced digging. Potato growers who have dug some of their crop say that the yield will be above average and mention the freedom from blight as one of the biggest factors in the splendid yield that is reported from most districts.

splendid yield that is reported from most districts.

The root crop is reported to be doing nicely since the heavy rains of a week ago, and some growers go so far as to say that the hot dry weather of early summer will not be felt in the yield, provided an open fall gives the turnips a chance to take on a little more size.

the turnips a chance to take on a lit-tle more size.

The majority of the farmers who have been questioned say that in so far as the whole season is concerned, it has been a profitable one, for al-though the spring grains were a light crop, and straw is rather scarce in this district, hay, corn and root crops are well above average, and on most farms there will be an abundance of winter feed.
