

The chair, just now, and usually, was occupied by a little girl, a very little girl, with a thin face, and straggling flaxen locks. — Page 37.