A BEAUTIFUL PUBLICATION.

The World's Columbian Exhibition is, perhaps, becoming ancient history with some people, yet those who saw its wonders take pleasure in recounting what they saw, and in perusing descriptions of what the magical white city contained. The study of such a stupendous collection is a liberal education. Thousands of surprising creations and curiosities—the Telautograph and many other electrical exhibits, the latest mechanical devices, the ethnological treasures from all the most noted collections; the display of the nations in the Liberal Arts building, the statuaries from Italy, the gold and silversmith's exhibit from London, the Tiffany gems, the Swiss wood carving, the Bohemian glass from Austria, the French bronzes, the German porcelain, Japanese vases, the great telescope and countless others; the Horticultural building, with the rare ferns, cacti, fruits and flowers from every land; the United States Government display; the model postal car, mint, models from the patent office; the historic relics; the life size soldiery from the Puritan to the staff officer of to-day; the Fisheries, with its monster aquarium and interesting exhibits; the Palace of Fine Arts, with its seventy-two galleries of statuary and paintings; the foreign buildings, teeming with interesting, strange and curious collections illustrative of the customs, habits, resources and art of people of other lands; the State buildings; the Midway, its cosmopolitan life and features; the Mines building, with the greatest mineral display ever brought together, the coal pyramid, the diamond mines of South Africa, and the great Stratum exhibits; the Agricultural building, illustrating the agricultural resources of the nations of the world; the Krupp pavilion; the Transportation building, showing the methods of transportation from the earliest period to the present time, the original Grace Darling boat, the sectional steamship, the Nicaragua canal model, the great engine, the mammoth locomotive, "Lord of the Isles," the Woman's building, with the Queen of Italy's lace, the French salon, the Colonial exhibits, the examples of woman's work in all countries. There is but one work which adequately illustrates and describes the wonderful exhibits. It has been in course of preparation for nearly two years, and is the most magnificently illustrated work ever issued in America. The title is, "The Book of The Fair," 2,500 copperplate engravings, 1,000 beautiful pages. Text by Herbert Howe Bancroft. Published in twenty-five parts at $1 each. The Bancroft Company, Publishers, 30 and 32 Auditorium Building, Chicago, Ill.

APPLETON'S POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY

Edited by WM. JAY YOUMANS.

The Popular Science Monthly is without a competitor.

It is not a technical magazine.

It stands alone as an educator, and is the best periodical for people who think.

All its articles are by writers of long practical acquaintance with their subjects, and are written in such a manner as to be readily understood.

It deals particularly with those general and practical subjects which are of the greatest interest and importance to the people at large.

Besides this, it keeps its readers fully informed of all that is being done in the broad field of science.

A reference to the contents of any of the late numbers will more than confirm the foregoing statement.
