Hollinger Up With a Flourish Forty Point Advance is Made

Porcupine Issues Display More Pronounced Strength—Cobalts Continue Depressed—La Rose Under Pressure Loses 15 Points.

World Office,
Tuesday Evening, March 21.

Mining stocks started off rather reactionary on the local markets to-day, but it was not long until a brightening up in the public demand ushered in a more buoyant trend, and the list in the main adopted a showing of strength.

Hollinger was the leading feature, this issue displaying a remarkable outburst of strength, and advancing some 40 points under what was taken to be short covering. The shares sold as high as $8.50, or only 35 points below the top figures reached on the earlier boom movement. At the close to-day traders were bidding for more stock slightly below the high for the session.

Hollinger has quieted down considerably of late, but when the aggressive buying once more came into play, the advance followed with quite a flourish, and clearly demonstrated that the security is in a strong position, where it is dangerous to make commitments on the short side of the market.

Porcupine stocks on the whole showed an upward trend. Preston sold up two points from its opening price of 43; West Dome moved up five to $3.18, yesterday's top figures not being reached, and the other shares in this department generally made small advances.

Cobalt issues did not share in the upward trend which characterized their sister shares, and lower prices were in order thruout the list. Hargraves, Timiskaming and Wettlaufer were all lower, losses ranging from a fraction to two points.

Holders of La Rose were apparently disappointed in that the directors did not see fit to raise the dividend, and the stock bore out this idea to-day. The shares sold down to $4.55, or 15 points below their opening price.

The market in general displayed a healthy undertone, with the buying of a responsible nature.

HOLLINGER DOES STUNTS.

The market for Porcupines yesterday received another strong stimulus by the rise in Hollinger. This stock opened at around $8 and at the close had made an advance of fifty points. Orders for Hollinger were stated to have come from Cleveland Tuesday, and the scarcity of the stock on offer easily accounted for the rise. Brokers are looking for a further advance to-day, owing to the many enquiries received from New York and the buying demand from that centre.

PORCUPINE MEN LOOK FOR BOOM THIS SPRING

Conditions Shaping Toward Unrivaled Interest in New Gold Fields From Now on.

PORCUPINE CITY, March 17.—That Porcupine is to have a boom with the coming of spring is more and more evident each day as the stages roll in, bringing old timers from western camps, who are known to always follow a good thing. Among the number are many of the older western prospectors, who have hunted for gold in every camp on the face of the earth, in addition to middle men, known as the boosters in western camps, who are here getting their bearings. They study out conditions and go about the mining game just as the old chess player plans his moves. And they are here now planning.

Among the more recent arrivals is James McFarlane, who has prospected from the country around Peru north to Valdez in Alaska. He says: "The westerners are coming, and there is every reason for a boom here this spring. The fellows we know in former camps as the boosters, some call them the 'con men,' are dropping in each day, and the word they bring is that the 'boys' all along the line across from the far west are on the way. These are the men who take the options, get the buyers, and bring the real live business to a mining camp.

"I am satisfied in comparing Porcupine with other mining camps I have worked in that Porcupine will be the one wonder of the age this summer. There are no new gold camps opening up anywhere on the continent now that I know of, and the only rival Porcupine has for the coming year is the camp at Valdez, and two camps are not many for so large a world. Yes, it looks like a boom sure enough, just as soon as the spring opens."

Another who finds things shaping well is Thor Warner of the Sullivan-Dunn claims in South Porcupine. Mr. Warner returned from the outside today, after a 10-days' absence, and relative to conditions said:

"It certainly looks like a big time ahead for the camp. Men of prominence are enquiring anxiously about what is doing up here and shaping their business matters so that they can run in just as soon as they know they can see the bare ground. The man who is in on the ground floor now will surely make money, and the one who cannot at the least do something this summer in Porcupine will not amount to much. I am expecting a big movement in Porcupine matters this summer."

And already work has started up here with great alacrity. During the past two weeks over 200 men have been set to work on various properties, building roads, cutting right-of-way, building camps, and in general getting in trim for the heavy work of the summer. Every day new signs are posted asking for idle laborers to come to work in some part of the district.

With the approach of spring, an enlivening effect is in evidence all along the line.

ENGLAND FEARS OUTLOOK

Feeling Strongly Adverse to Reciprocity, Says H. Clifford Holden.

"The business world of England looks with aversion on reciprocity," declared H. Clifford Holden, a director of a London, England, leather goods firm, traveling thru Canada and the United States on business. "It is generally accepted that it would ultimately injure the British preference, and stop the possibility of lowering it, or having mutual reciprocity between the colonies and the motherland. It is looked upon generally as a death blow to the Chamberlain policy.

"The Liberals favor it as a party issue, but I think the majority of the English people are strongly against it. The Conservative party there is firmly of the opinion that it will raise the price of wheat by increasing the market. We are also opposed to Canada giving her timber to fill the gap made by the wastefulness of the United States. It is our opinion that these natural resources should be used for the benefit of Canada and the empire generally."

Get Damages From Railway.

The jury in the assize court yesterday returned a verdict to Justice Latchford in favor of Spiros and Helen Annis, two Greek popcorn vendors, who were suing the Toronto Railway. They allowed $200 to the woman, and $75 to the husband for the loss of his wife's services. They were wheeling their cart across the Gerrard-street bridge in September, 1909, when it was struck by a street car.

A sealed verdict was brought in by the same jury giving $1500 damages to Edward Williams, a street cleaner, who was hit by a street car while at work on College-street, near Elizabeth last summer.

Struck by Car.

Frank Mate, 30 years, 40 Ridout-st., crossed behind one car and was struck by another, which he had not seen, at Bloor and Dundas-streets, yesterday morning. He was severely cut about the head and was taken to the Western Hospital.

Lecture to Carpenters.

R. L. Hamwood gave a lecture on "Practical Lessons on the Steel Square" and a talk on the care and shapening of carpenters' tools before the Brotherhood of Carpenter at the Labor Temple last night.
