Local stocks have increased, but not in sufficient volume to relieve the congestion in July and September. We regard corn as a dangerous short sale, but would only buy on good breaks. The Missouri River is overflowing bottom lands, and is still rising, threatening great damage to corn.

Oats—Heavy rains thruout the middle west and Ohio Valley were accompanied by claims of damage and lodging, which caused some buying of oats. While the prices are low, the feeling is easier than it was a week ago, and less fear is felt for stifficent supplies, as acceptances are more encouraging.

Big Business in House furnishings

NOTHING we have ever done appears to have met such a quick and hearty response as the new plan of charge accounts on Carpets and Furniture. It means more than the usual courtesies of business, for the reason that we extend the payments over six months. It represents every possible concession, both in prices and terms, and is bringing us an avalanche of trade at a time when things are supposed to be dull.

It applies with particular emphasis to hotels and churches, as well as homes. The enthusiasm of "Canada's Growing Time" ought to encourage a large interest in church carpets and hotel furniture, and the business coming to us from that source is very much of a revelation. In connection with the
