COSTLY CIGARS HIS ONLY LUXURY

Strange Ways of Late Harry Barnato, Multimillionaire — Remarkable Dinner Given at Close of Russo-Jap War—Room Fixed Up Like the Veldt.

London, Dec. 18—Harry Barnato, who died the other day, was one of the multimillionaires of whom the general public knew and saw very little. Some years ago his fortune was computed at £12,000,000 sterling. His saving alone amounted to several hundreds of thousands of pounds a year, for to a great extent he lived frugally, his one luxury being good cigars, which he smoked incessantly.

A good many stories are told of his thrift, but most of them are apocryphal. Still is is probable that in recent years he never spent as much in a year as he received in a month. He seemed to live in a curly brimmed hat, black frock coat, with a large scarf, in which he wore a large diamond or pearl. Thus attired he went every morning to the offices of the Diamond Syndicate, where he smoked cigars all the time. After lunch, which he ate in the office, he would go to his own room, still wearing the silk hat, and sleep in his chair for an hour or two.

He went to South Africa to make his living as a wandering juggler. He sent for his younger brother, Barney, to join him in the early days of the diamond fields, and the two brothers started as diamond dealers. Barney's genius for finance soon showed itself, and with astonishing rapidity the enormous wealth of Barnato Bros. was built up.

One of Harry Barnato's proudest possessions was a cheque for £5,000,000, bearing Barney's signature, which he kept in a frame. He was fond of explaining that this was the last link in the chain of negotiations for the amalgamation of De Beers and the Kimberley company.

To the last Harry Barnato looked more like a retired showman than a magnate of finance. He raced a little, but not with the keeness or on the scale of his nephews, the Joels. He was a great authority on the music halls, which he attended regularly, although never wearing evening dress.

He was the hero of one of London's most famous freak dinners. After the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese War he entertained twelve other millionaires at the New Gaiety. The Duke of Connaught Rooms were got up to represent a scene on the veldt.

The floor was covered with sand; boulders, quartz, veldt carts and bags of gold dust were strewn about, and a miner's tent stood in the middle, with a rough wooden wash handstand beside it, bearing the notice, "Please wash your hands before sitting down to eat." The banquetting hall was a representation in little of Port Arthur, and the waiters were made up as Boers and Kaffirs.

In the centre of the table was a large tank, in which floated model Japanese warships overlooked by a miniature Port Arthur. When the guests entered the room it was in semi-darkness, and at the moment of their entry fireworks blazed out from the warships and the forts.

JERE McAULIFFE OPENS TONIGHT IN $5,000 REWARD

Tonight in the Opera House the McAuliffe Stock Company will present the big melodrama "$5,000 Reward." This play possesses heart interest, pathos and comedy, and gives Mr. McAuliffe ample opportunities to display his eccentricities. Each of the four acts is interesting and the plot well brought out. The indications point to a large house tonight. Owing to the depression in the theatrical profession in the states, Mr. McAuliffe has secured a strong cast of players. Regarding vaudeville features which will prevent long and tedious waits between acts, Jere has secured the services of The Hub City Comedy Four, singers. Then comes Mlle. Laveau in the latest Parisian novelty made famous in New York city entitled The Serpent's Dream; the Gay sisters, child artists in songs and dances; Mr. McAuliffe in parodies; and Gonyer and Gay, fancy dances.

Other plays to be presented this week will be Why He Divorced Her, How Baxter Butted In, The Tramp Detective, and An Outcast of Society. There will be matinees on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

NICKEL HAS GREAT SHOW

With a magnificent bill of fare—pictorially, musically and dramatically—the Nickel enters upon the festive Christmas week. The next few days also marks the winding up of the children's Kris Kringle Jingle contest, and there is expected to be great activity at the big picture house. Today's programme will include the Dramagraph Co. in the lovely fireside drama "Ex-Convict No. 969," a tale of a released prisoner who proved a hero. This is a gorgeous picture, and the dialogue lasts fifteen minutes. Colonial Virginia is a charming bit of pageantry commemorative of early events in American history. Rivals For A Week is a ludicrous series of climaxes in which two ardent lovers figure. There will be other comedies. Miss Edwards will sing "My Honey Moon." and Mr. Cairns "Those Good Old Country Days;" new holiday music by the orchestra. On Thursday the jingle ballot box will be unlocked and the judges will select the winners.

HER CHRISTMAS GIFT

Pittsburg Girl Gets a New Son-in-Law for Mother.

Pittsburg, Dec. 19—When Mrs. Henry Nichols, wife of the wealthy president of the Liberty Brewing Company, answered her telephone yesterday, the voice of Sarah, her only daughter, who disappeared last Friday, came faintly over the wire:

"I haven't forgot you, mamma. I've got your Christmas gift. He's fine. It's a new son-in-law. Shall I bring him home?"

Miss Nichols started down town last Friday, saying she would do some shopping, and, among other things, she promised to bring her mother home a nice Christmas gift. On her journey she met Albert Schwartzkopf, a bookkeeper, with whom she eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va.

Schwartzkopf had called up the house Saturday, but Mrs. Nichols would have none of him. When Sarah telephoned Mrs. Nicholas relented and told Sarah to bring the "Christmas gift" home.

On Friday evening last, an official visit was paid to Cornhill, Kings county, division, Sons of Temperance, by the G. W. P., E. S. Hennigar, and the P. G. W. P., Rev. Charles Flemington. After a business session, the meeting was thrown open to the public and addresses were made by the chairman, Thomas Stockton, and Messrs. Flemington and Hennigar, and a short programme carried out.

Cornhill division members were complimented on their hall and the flourishing state of the division.

The Nova Scotia schooner Adonis, Capt. Brown, from Port William (N. S.), for Havana, returned to this port again yesterday for harbor. This schooner is having hard luck getting out of the Bay of Fundy with her cargo of potatoes. The first of last week she put in here with the loss of some sails, and now was compelled to return by stress of weather.

Ven. F. R. Blackburn, archdeacon of Manchester, Eng., is seriously ill.
