Boy of Thirteen Goes To Death In Lily Lake

Earle Merritt Breaks Through Ice While Skating—Father Doubly Bereaved as Mother Has Just Died in New York

Earle Merritt, thirteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Merritt of Seely street, was drowned in Lily Lake this morning. Accompanied by Gerald McGrath, he left his home a little after eight o'clock to have a skate on the lake. They enjoyed the sport near the shore for some time and then young Merritt started towards the centre. According to his companion, he had gone only a short distance when he disappeared from view.
 The first news of the tragedy was heard by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McLellan, who were horrified to hear young McGrath approaching their home screaming "Earle has gone down in the lake." Mr. McLellan, accompanied by the father of young Merritt, hurried to the lake and quickly launched a boat and rowed to the spot. The body was visible in about seven feet of water, and the father with the aid of a rake soon brought it to the surface. The boy was apparently dead, and Dr. G. A. B. Addy, who arrived soon after the body was taken out of the water, found that life was extinct and that resuscitation efforts were of no avail. The body was then conveyed to the home of Mr. Merritt.
 Mrs. Merritt was nearly distracted with grief when she heard that her son was drowned. She said she had repeatedly warned her children not to go near the lake, and not later than last night had warned Earle to keep away from the edge. She measured about one inch and a half and less than an inch where the boy went through. The accident happened about 100 feet below the old shoot-the-chutes, and about twenty feet from shore. Besides his parents, there are three brothers and two sisters.
 A sad feature of the accident is that Mr. Merritt was reading a telegram from New York announcing the death of his mother when he heard the cry that his son had gone down in the lake. He was so affected by the shock that he is now confined to his bed.
 When news of the accident reached the city this morning, Commissioner Russell sent men to the scene with grappling irons which are kept at Petting Place wharf. Coroner Roberts viewed the body of the boy and gave permission for burial.

The Man In The Street

Looks as if Greece is going to be good after all. Wouldn't it be interesting to know what Kitchener said to King Constantine at that private interview.

A visit to the King of Rumania might well be K. of R.'s next social obligation.

"Or Fight" or "And Fight"

Since Lord Derby's last announcement British papers have remarked jocularly that the single men must either get married or fight. The cynical bachelor wants to know when the first alternative relieved a man of the second.

Poor St. Christopher

The autolists have adopted St. Christopher as their patron saint. That seems like taking an unfair advantage of a man too long dead to be able to defend his reputation.

Most of our local car owners are supposed to be in the habit of looking for their guardian spirit.

Quick Work

After a lapse of only six months since the new falls arrived the curves in the let Square are to be straightened out some time soon, perhaps. Who said St. John people are not hustlers?

Some Sniping

Lieutenant Smith, home from the front, tells a good story illustrating the coolness of the British soldier under even the most surprising circumstances.

A tremendous German shell burst in the trenches occupied by his regiment shattering the trench and burying five of the men. Rescue parties hurried to their aid and soon dug them out. Fortunately they were in time and the men were still alive although rather the worse for wear. One chap was lifted out half unconscious but still grinning and as they carried him away he murmured in a resigned tone: "Bother those German snipers."

Here's a Good Story

The semaphore system of signalling as a first aid measure for separated sweethearts is a new development but its value was well illustrated at the time of the departure of one of the troop ships from a Canadian port. The steamer which the troops had boarded was protected by armed guards from the invasion of friends anxious to say good-bye but a little thing like that did not worry an enterprising young lady. Taking up her position on the opposite dock she raised her arms and sent out the semaphore "general call" immediately there were responses from all parts of the ship every man who knew the code hastening to take the call. With a few sweeps of her pretty rounded arms she spelled out the name of the man she wanted and some of his comrades promptly hunted him up. Then ensued the unusual but touching farewell scene of good-byes signalled across the water from wharf to ship. The other signalers all insisted on joining in the farewell and the young lady was kept busy answering until the ship pulled out.

BURIED TODAY

The funeral of John W. Swaine took place this afternoon from the residence of his son, Thomas, 228 Charlotte street. Rev. Robert S. Crisp conducted burial services at the house and grave, and interment took place in the Methodist church burying ground.

"All Except the Fish"

Julius B. Schloss in Newspaperdom tells the story of the derby who "was getting all the pleasure of fishing except the fish."

Some advertisers enjoy all the expense of advertising without the profit.

They do not fish where the fish are.

The shrewd advertiser finds out where the best markets are located and uses newspaper advertising to land the game.

He advertises for definite customers in the most efficient way and his bookkeepers do not have to use red ink for balances.

Manufacturers interested in increasing the efficiency of their advertising are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

MILROY HAD ACCUSED HIS WIFE OF TAKING HIS POCKET BOOK

He Had Carelessly Thrown it to Floor—Trial of Lucas, Who Killed Him, Goes Over Until December 1

Charles H. Lucas was arraigned in the Somerville, Mass., police court charged with the murder of his stepfather, Elias E. Milroy, of St. John, at their home, 51 Oak street. When Clerk Bradley asked him to plead he entered a plea of guilty. After a short consultation between the government officials and attorney Thomas Vahay, the case was continued for trial until Dec. 1. Lucas was held without bail.

The young man showed no signs of nervousness and listened calmly as Clerk Bradley read the text of the complaint, setting forth the charge that Lucas beat Milroy with a baseball bat until he was dead.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Bessie L. Milroy was prepared to take the stand and testify that her son was in her room when she was being attacked by Milroy in the kitchen of her home, after he had accused her of stealing his pocketbook which he had carelessly thrown on the floor before lying down late on Saturday night.

She announced that she believed that her life was in danger from the attack and that she cried out for help knowing that her son was in his room above.

Prosecutor Officer Jones may be called upon to produce a report which he has in his possession, which shows that Milroy was placed on probation on October 29 when he was found guilty of neglecting to support Mrs. Milroy.

He also has a pledge signed by Milroy on that date in which Milroy solemnly promised to abstain from the use of all liquor for one year from that date. Mr. Jones' record shows further that Milroy made the statement to him that he had drunk all his life to some extent.

DEATH OF MISS MINNIE SANDALL

The death of Miss Minnie L. Sandall, daughter of the late William and Margaret A. Sandall, occurred early this morning. Since the death of her mother, about six months ago, Miss Sandall's health had not been good, and she left for a visit to the United States in hope that the change would prove of benefit. As she did not improve she was brought home again and had been back only four weeks when her death occurred. Miss Sandall is survived by one brother, James, and one sister, Miss Jessie, both of this city. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at three o'clock from 5 Paradise row.

EARLE NAPIER OF 26TH BATTALION ALL WITH PNEUMONIA

William Napier of 118 Duke street, West St. John, received advice by letter this morning that his son, Private Earle Napier of the 26th Battalion, is seriously ill with pneumonia in a hospital in France. Mr. Napier has called for further news of his son's condition. His many friends will hope that the young soldier is on the road to recovery by this time.

ST. DAVID'S BROTHERHOOD.

Rev. R. P. McKim, rector of St. Luke's church, gave an inspiring address on the work of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and the Church of England Men's Society before the Brotherhood on Monday evening. Between forty and fifty men from St. David's are now serving their king and country, most of them already overseas.

GRAND REMOVAL SALE

Some three years ago the ownership of the building we now occupy changed hands.
 We approached the new owners for an extension of our lease but they refused to give us any, and the price at which they held the property for sale was in our judgment too high and so we were compelled to secure new quarters.

We procured a 198 year lease from the late Major John S. Hall and others of the lot adjoining. We had the old building that was on the lot razed to the ground and have had in the course of erection this past summer a building in which is being incorporated every desirable feature that will aid in the display and sale of Oak Hall Clothing. It will be Saint John's finest store for the sale of Saint John's Best Clothing.

The contract calls for completion January first, next, and we desire to have as little stock as possible to move, and as moving entails considerable expense, we are placing on sale our entire stock at enormous price reductions, giving the public such irresistible bargains that it will be to your profit to remove our stock for us. Sale will begin Friday, November 26th.
