MORE LIGHT WANTED The Very Rev. Principal John Caird, famous pulpit orator, was preaching one dark winter afternoon in the chapel of Scotch university. As he proceeded he became more and more impassioned. Towards the close of his sermon he waxed magnificently eloquent, ending in an exalted shout of "Light, light; give us more light!" Whereupon the deity promptly turned up the gas.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR PUBLIC HEALTH

(Bangor Commercial.) The Federal Women's clubs of Bangor, after a campaign to raise sufficient money to finance the plan for a year, are about to inaugurate a public health movement that has been successfully carried on in other communities in recent years. This project is part of an energetic effort to improve public health, outside of the work of the city officials, which has already been marked by several years of successful effort by the Anti-Tuberculosis association. It is a distinct feature of public health work today that educational methods are supplementing purely administrative ones. Here in Bangor in addition to the tuberculosis class, we find the club women actively engaged in the effort to improve the public health. They have been very careful not to interfere in the functions of the public officials, but have supplemented the work of the officials in many ways. They have urged upon the citizens co-operation with the officials, have drawn public attention to the danger of contamination from filth and flies, have persuaded general cleaning of premises and are now about to supplement their efforts by the employment of district nurses, who will not only actively assist in time of need, but will teach the public how to avoid disease. Today we have medical inspection of the pupils in the public schools and thus in many cases early discovery of incipient disease that might otherwise go unnoticed until it obtained a firm and possibly fatal hold. We have everywhere the great work against tuberculosis with organizations teaching how the disease shall be recognized in its early stages and how it may be treated. We have the campaign of the women's clubs against filth and germs, and their efforts for pure food and civic cleanliness. For many years the physicians of the land fought their battle against disease practically unaided. Then came the realization that they must have the public as an ally and they gradually followed an improved civic cleanliness, improved sewage and improved plumbing, greater care in food supplies, and widespread measures for the early detection and treatment not only of communicable disease but of general troubles. The first efforts were to protect the public from the victim, but the movement has enlarged its scope until it now seeks to protect the individual for his own sake. The accomplishment has been great, but it will be greater. The advance has been so far more generally noted in the large cities, but is perceptible elsewhere. In New York state in 1911 the death rate from tuberculosis was 180 per 100,000 against an average rate of 180 per 100,000 for the twenty-five years previous. There has been remarkable accomplishment in the campaign against tuberculosis which is now being supplemented nationally by the crisscross infant mortality where once more the movement is largely educational. And yet while wonderful impetus has been given this national public health campaign there remains much more to be done. Thus in what is known as the registration area of the United States, that section concerning water returns, there were 732,538 deaths in 1909. Of these about 29 per cent, were due to various minor causes which are difficult to classify, but 558,068 were due to eleven main causes. Of these 314,389 were due to infant mortality, diphtheria, epidemic diseases, tuberculosis, pneumonia, diarrhoea of infants and accidents which are the main preventable. It is along these lines, the reduction of mortality from what are termed the preventable diseases that the great work of the public health crusade is now being done. In addition to the general work against disease by the reduction of the danger of contamination from impure water and milk supplies, the movements for improved sewage and general civic cleanliness are the more specific efforts against tuberculosis, against typhoid, now vastly aided by the typhoid vaccine, against diphtheria and against infant mortality aided by the instruction of the public and particularly the instruction of mothers. As a community, as a state and as a nation, we are gaining in this campaign for the public health. We will not expect conditions, but there will be an annual reduction of the mortality from preventable diseases and an annual gain to the nation that can be counted in the prolongation of hundreds of thousands of lives and hundreds of millions of dollars.

THE SURGEON HAD BECOME MANIAC

Nurse Gave Alarm as He Was Dissecting Patient—Committed to Asylum

Maricetta, O., Aug. 15.—With the commitment of Wm. R. Dabney to the View Asylum in Cincinnati there has come to light one of the most remarkable cases in medical history. Not until the crazed surgeon had undertaken to perform vivisection upon a patient was it realized that madness was directing the scalpel in an effort to uncover vital organs. Dr. Dabney entered practice in Marietta about fifteen years ago. He made a specialty of eye, ear and throat operations. For several months previous to his mental collapse and the startling revelations of his condition, rarely a day passed that he did not perform two or three difficult operations. When an aged and wealthy farmer named Jacob F. Schaud, died on the operating table, Dr. Dabney's career came to a climax. Schaud had a tumorous growth on his upper jaw. He consulted Dr. Dabney, and was assured that a minor operation would remove the disfigurement. Besides Dr. Dabney and the nurse there were present when Schaud lapsed into unconsciousness under the influence of an anesthetic Dr. C. B. Ballard and Dr. J. B. Penrose. As Dr. Dabney proceeded with the knife the two surgeons detected that there was something wrong, and both began to remonstrate. Dr. Dabney became angry and ordered them from the operating room. When the two doctors had left, according to the nurse who had remained beside the unconscious patient, Dr. Dabney began to dissect Schaud's face and throat. Both sides of the face were laid open and deep incisions made in the throat. But the skill of the mad surgeon was shown in the dexterity with which he avoided inflicting a fatal wound. How far the crazed surgeon would have proceeded with the dissection cannot be told for the horrified nurse shrieking that Dr. Dabney was killing his patient. Her cries brought Ballard and Penrose with several of the hospital attendants to the rescue and Dr. Dabney, by this time a raging maniac, brandishing his scalpel over the unconscious living subject, was disarmed and subdued after a desperate struggle.

MAGISTRATE HOLDS INQUIRY INTO MARKET STREET FIRE

As a result of the letter of W. M. Jarvis to the city council, asking for an inquiry into the fire in Robert Armstrong's pool room in North Market street on Monday night, following Tuesday's report in the Telegraph, Magistrate Ritchie and Chief Clark conducted an investigation yesterday afternoon. Five witnesses gave evidence and the hearing was concluded, but the magistrate did not comment on the matter at all. Joseph McManus, an employe in the pool room, said that he was not in the building when the fire broke out, but was just returning when he noticed smoke coming up the hatchway from the cellar. He went down, but could find no fire for some time. He was of the opinion that the fire had started for the Akerley's store next door and had come in through a window and ignited some rubbish in the garbage cans. After the fire had extinguished the blaze, he found some burned rags on the top of the cans. Other witnesses who gave evidence were Chief Blake of the fire department, Jeremiah Smith an assistant in the chemical engine, Joseph Lankey, another employe in the pool room, and Robert Armstrong himself. Mr. Armstrong said that the rubbish had been piled in cans as was required by law, but as the garbage man had failed to call last Saturday the cans had overflowed. He thought that the fire started from a lighted cigarette but being thrown in the rubbish. The magistrate then said the hearing was concluded and the matter finished without any comment on the evidence.

CALGARY HAS TRAINED NURSE ON DUTY AT CITY MILK DEPOT

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 15.—Calgary's municipal pure milk bureau is gaining new customers every day until now there are more than fifty babies receiving their milk from this source while there are a large number of customers who secure the regular supply for the family from the milkman, but there is an extra care that is taken with the milk. In addition to the superior quality of the milk, there is a trained nurse on duty at all times and some of the most prominent citizens of Calgary are prepared to respond at any time for consultation as to the best treatment to be given a baby.

LAWYER WAS AGAINST CHANGE FROM DELIVERY OF MILK IN BOTTLES AT HOUSES

When the advice of the chief medical officer, Dr. G. G. Melvin, was given to the effect that it would be more sanitary to use the old fashioned jug or other vessel for receiving the morning stock from the milkman than to have the more familiar bottle delivered, a prominent lawyer paid a visit to the board of health rooms and protested against it. He said that the bottle system was sufficiently safe and the use of other means was antiquated. Some boards of health advised the use of bottles and he thought them best. He would be very reluctant to make a change. He was told that no resolution had been passed by the board affecting the matter, but that the suggestion, which was considered a good one, particularly in view of recent happenings in connection with an outbreak of typhoid, was not so much against the using of bottles, but against their being taken by the milkman and a return bottle made next day. The proposed change would be protective both to customer and milkman.

DIAMOND PIN FOR NEW J. C. R. DIVISIONAL FREIGHT AGENT NOW STATIONED IN ST. JOHN

A presentation was made this week by the railway men of Toronto to the two chief Toronto officials of the International Railway, S. C. Tiffin and G. Fernley, who have been promoted to important positions in the company's service. Mr. Tiffin, who has been general agent for the road in Toronto for a number of years, received a handsome diamond stick pin, while Mr. Fernley, the city freight agent, was given a beautiful gold watch. The presentation was made by O. Q. Wood, of the Allen Line, in the presence of a large number of railroad men. Mr. Wood, in making the presentation, spoke of the great esteem in which the two departing officials were held, and expressed on behalf of their friends regret at their leaving. Mr. Tiffin has been appointed divisional freight agent at St. John and Mr. Fernley commercial agent at Montreal.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

At a meeting of the shareholders of the School for the Deaf, Lancaster, yesterday afternoon, with A. O. Skinner in the chair, it was decided to ask the local government to stop paying for children from this province attending the Nova Scotia school. The government is paying for ten children from the province who are attending the Nova Scotia school, and it is felt that this should be stopped, as the New Brunswick school has accommodation for about fifty children, and at present has only 84 pupils. The government has been paying the local school a certain amount for every pupil in attendance, as well as paying for the rent to Nova Scotia. The meeting adjourned until after the directors interviewed the local government.

Save One Ton of Coal in Every Six

The Economizer will do it. While the cost of living has undoubtedly been growing greater, at the same time it is true there are some inventions that will offset this increased cost of living, and the careful housewife takes advantage of these inventions.

On every Gurney-Oxford range there is an Economizer which controls not only the drafts but also the entire combustion or burning of fuel to create heat.

This Economizer will save 1 ton of coal in every 6 that you would use with the ordinary range.

The Economizer is a simple device, absolute in its control. By merely moving the lever you can obtain any degree of even heat in the oven. This insures the satisfaction of always having light, delicately crusted bread and biscuits.

The kitchen fire ceases to be a worry if the Economizer is on your stove.

The Gurney-Oxford is the final result of experimental thought. Science has given it a Divided Flue, a new Special Grate, and a Broiler attachment.

This Gurney-Oxford range is primarily a saver of money, time, and energy.
