Men's High-Class Footwear

An Unprecedented Opportunity to Buy The Best Grade Goods Made in Canada at Prices Less Than Original Cost.

$5 and $6 Boots at $2.98 and $3.48

OUR buyers were fortunate in having their offer accepted by Canadian leading manufacturers for all their made up unsold stock consisting of 700 pairs of the choicest goods produced. These shoes are all of this season's make. The leathers, styles and shoemaking are perfect. The reason they accumulated was because some were late in coming through the factory and some were held for cause. About 100 pairs are what are called imperfect—that is slightly soiled or damaged in process—but still nothing to effect either appearance or wear. They are all laced and button boots in patent colt, Russian tan calf and gun metal calf. $5.00 and $6.00 would be the regular price—we have placed the entire stock at our UNION STREET STORE

At $2.98 and $3.48 a Pair.

YOU may never have another such a chance to buy high-class shoes at such prices.

OLD WORLD NEWS OVER THE CABLE

Masterlinck, in Disguise, Will Defy the New York Reporters

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Departure of His Royal Highness for Canada—The Ex-Princess and Pianist—Patti to Sing for Albanian—Kitchener in Egypt

(New York Sun Cable.)

London, Oct. 7.—Maurice Masterlinck, the famous Belgian dramatist, having escaped interviews all his life of forty-nine years, has a slight opinion of the resourcefulness of newspaper men. Recently in Paris he was discussing with friends the ubiquity, energy and insistence of American reporters.

The discussion revolved itself into a proposition. Masterlinck wanted Henry Russell, manager of the Boston Opera House, $400 and several other sceptical friends varying amounts that when his wife, Mme. Gergette Leblanc-Masterlinck, sailed for the United States, where she will appear in "Pelléas et Mélisande," he would accompany her to Boston and not only escape being interviewed but would completely escape discovery at the hands of the American reporters.

Henry Russell while about to take the train to catch the Lusitania told The Sun correspondent the details of Masterlinck's wager. It is no secret that Mme. Masterlinck is booked to sail on the Olympic on December 20.

"My faith in the ability of American newspaper men is such that I am convinced that Masterlinck will lose," said Mrs. Russell. "He and several of his friends are basing their opinions on the author's success in escaping interviews in the past, and are confident that he will win."

It must not be forgotten that Masterlinck is a master of disguises. One of his hobbies is to wander here and there Haroun al Raschid fashion. I am told that his disguises are so perfect that they have never been penetrated. To my mind, the most difficult part of the wager is that Masterlinck contended that he will not only leave France undiscovered but that he will visit the United States, see "Pelléas et Mélisande" in Boston and return to France without being discovered.

"But Tosselli preferred the idle life," she writes, "and to live upon my income. I used to rise daily at 5 on the hope of inducing him to leave his bed and settle down to work, but it was all in vain. My expense hasn't had a shirt to his back or a tie to his neck but what was purchased from my allowance from the Saxon court."

Patti to Sing for Albanian

Patti will sing next week at a testimonial concert at the Albert Hall in behalf of Albanian.

Edward Knobelach, the author, will oversee the production of "Kismet" in New York. Stanislas Stange, the librettist, who has been suffering from a slight paralysis in London, recovered sufficiently to sail. He will also plan a couple of comic operas. Other than the Lusitania are Arnold Bennett, the author, Ogden Mills, Clarence Jones, Joseph Duven, J. A. Burden, Mrs. Cavendish Bentinck and Mason Peters, who is planning a scheme for a broad gauge railway connecting Argentina and Brazil.

The present northern route reaches an altitude of 10,000 feet and necessitates a cable car. Peters says that he has discovered a southern pass whose greatest altitude is 3,000 feet, enabling the construction of a broad gauge road, which will permit the running of trains without change of cars. English capitalists are financing the plan. Peters's partner, Jack De Saulles, the old time Yale quarterback, remains in Argentina arranging the final survey.

Duke of Connaught Sails

Cheerful informality marked the departure yesterday of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught for Canada, where the duke is to take up his duties as governor-general.

There was a large company of royalty at the ship side and all were in mufti except one general. There was a hearty cheer as the duke waved the Guard's regiment, and the ship pulled into the stream.

An eagle-eyed commentator noticed that the duke wore the Guard's necktie, and remarked that it was quite a friendly act, as there were a large number of guards present to say farewell, the duke being the senior colonel of the corps. Otherwise such attire, even on royalty, would have been too remarkable. It is even doubtful if tie, with its blue and red stripes, was even seen with a tall hat before. Fashioners are not what they once were, but even now club colors are never worn with town clothes.

The duke takes only two horses with him, but will buy others in Canada and may take over some from Earl Grey.

Social Service by Rich

The Cavendish Club will open its premises in Piccadilly in November. The Duke of Devonshire is at its head, and it is supported by many influential men. The object of the club is to popularize social service among men brought up in the traditions of the English public schools.

The promoters believe that social service has hitherto failed to attract the fortunately placed young men of the aristocracy only because its need had not been forcibly enough placed before them. The club will have a bureau of service, where laymen will hear of various opportunities for activity. There is no intention to provide new work, only to supply workers. Existing agencies are handicapped by lack of voluntary support.

Ex-Princess Louise

Princess Louise of Saxony, whose memoirs recently created a sensation, has answered the statement of Enrico Toselli, the pianist, who married her a couple of years ago, that he began proceedings for separation on the ground of desertion and because of the divorce suit upon the family by the publication of the "scandalous memoirs."

The princess denies the slightest breach of wifely conduct. She says that she cherished the hope that her husband would do great things as a pianist and composer. She wrote an operative libretto to inspire his genius and went to Paris to secure his encouragement.

"But Toselli preferred the idle life," she writes, "and to live upon my income. I used to rise daily at 5 on the hope of inducing him to leave his bed and settle down to work, but it was all in vain. My expense hasn't had a shirt to his back or a tie to his neck but what was purchased from my allowance from the Saxon court."

Consecration Ceremonies at Cathedral Will Draw Many

Cairo, Oct. 11.—Plans for the consecration ceremonies of the new Anglican cathedral at Khartoum on January 20 next are now completed, and invitations to witness the event are already being issued. As a large number of English churchmen and their families are expected to go from London to Khartoum for the occasion, the committee has arranged for special reduced rate excursions for parties of fifty or more, which will include stops at Alexandria and Cairo, a voyage by steamer up the Nile, and a visit to Omdurman and other points in the Sudan, where historic associations and characteristic native life appeal to the imagination and interest of the traveler.

In addition to the English pilgrims to the consecration of the cathedral, it is expected that Khartoum will be filled with visitors from Cairo and the north, for at that season of the year there is usually considerable exodus, due to the inclement weather of Egypt, to the warmth and sunshine of the Sudan.

BOARD OF HEALTH

The board of health met in monthly session yesterday afternoon and transacted routine business. The C. P. R. was notified to have an entrance made to the sewer in the rear of its Mill street property.

Tenders were called for the remodeling of plumbing and drainage at the Isolation Hospital. The by-laws relating to the regulations of slaughter houses were amended so as to make their application exclusively local.

The services of Miss Smith, the nurse recently employed by the St. John Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, were accepted by the board. Her salary is to be the same as that paid her predecessor, Miss Rogers.

Application was received from fifty-one persons asking for an extension of time in the matter of having their homes equipped with modern improvements, as required by law. The requests were granted.

An adjourned meeting of the board is to be held at the call of the chair for the transaction of unfinished business.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Mrs. Mary O. Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, was a legal resident of Concord, N. H., according to the ruling of Justice J. M. Morton, delivered in Boston yesterday. The succession taxes on Mrs. Eddy's estate will probably be taken by the state of New Hampshire.

An industrial council for the purpose of settling disputes has been appointed by the British government, consisting of employers and working men under the chairmanship of Sir G. R. Askwith.

Moncton, Oct. 10.—(Special)—Good Samaritan Lodge, I. O. G. T., session was the scene of an unique wedding tonight. Rev. G. A. Lawson being called upon to perform the ceremony. The principals were Leamon Tower and Delma Lezer, members of the order. A celebration of the event followed by the lodge.

It's up to the near sighted palmitist to use a hand glass.

If a man's mind is fully occupied he has no time to be miserable.

Daily Hints For the Cook

TOMATO BUTTER

Tomato butter is a California conserve that stands generally approved. To make it, put nine pounds of ripe tomatoes, peeled and cored, into the preserving kettle. Add three pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of powdered allspice. Stir and cook until thick, stirring often enough to prevent scorching.

FRIED CHICKEN, OKRAS AND

Singe and cut into joints suitable for frying a young tender spring chicken. Season with salt and pepper and roll in plenty of flour. Wash 25 pods of young okra, cut off the stems and slice thin. Put into a skillet a large tablespoonful of lard, when hot put in the chicken, with a quarter pound lean ham cut into dice, and fry brown, without burning. Drain off nearly all the fat, add to the okra a small onion and a small pepper minced fine, and pour in sufficient broth or hot water to cover well. Season with salt and pepper and simmer gently until chicken and vegetables are tender. More broth water can be added if the gravy thickens to much in cooking. Serve with fried oysters and boiled rice.

BEAT EVEN VAUDEVILLE.

"We saw Vesuvius in action while burning zinc filings once a month in the furnace will remove the accumulation of soot in pipes and chimneys."

"Impressive, no doubt."

"I never saw anything more impressive in vaudeville, and I've seen all the big acts."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Burning zinc filings once a month in the furnace will remove the accumulation of soot in pipes and chimneys.
