Plays and Players

CHARTER NEWS OF THE GREEN ROOM

Emma Dunn, since she played in St. John, has met with distinct and lasting success in the American cities in which she is a prima favorite. She attributes in part her success to the fact that she has had a splendid and thorough stock training part of which was under the careful direction of W. S. Harkins in this city where she made many friends some years ago.

"I attribute my recent success chiefly to stock experience," said Miss Dunn the other day. "It is impossible to emphasize too much how important this work is. Half a dozen years' experience in stock gives an actor an opportunity to play numerous parts of different types. Nowadays there is a great tendency to specialize, and if a young actor he learns that part well, plays it effectively, is appreciated by the manager and, however, but makes his range for acting very limited."

"While it is true that some stars by their beauty or personality have had their names emblazoned in electric lights without stock experience, they are suited to comparatively few roles and are the exception that proves the rule."

"It pays to take your work seriously, and this is the advice I want to offer young players who have yet to climb the ladder of success. It is a long tedious journey, with many unpleasant experiences and means leading an artificial life. But there are some rare moments when the play is a success, which in a brief period make up in happiness all that has been unpleasant in the past. It is these intense moments which in a measure enhance the love for the stage."

"Now that The Governor's Lady has made its success, I want to make a confession, and it is that my one ambition for a number of years has been to star for Mr. Belasco. Even when I was in a stock I would see that he received a copy of all the press notices that meant anything to me, and I never allowed him to forget that Emma Dunn was knocking at his door."

Although I bothered Mr. Belasco a lot, he sent me cordial answers to my various communications. At last I had my chance, and I am going to make good because I have the confident feeling that I can."

As she talked of The Governor's Lady, which has just to make its Broadway appearance, the star became intensely serious. She does not pose as a moralist, she believes that it is possible to teach various moral lessons in a pleasant way by means of the drama. This evident sincerity is responsible for her success. "I love the part of dear old Mrs. Slade. The lines are so human, the character so well drawn, that I really live in the part. I am really afraid that off the stage also I act the part of the little hard-working, dried-up old woman. Every once in a while I brace up and smile to convince myself that I am still young."

This part makes me desire to play comedy. Tragedy and emotion are things I know I can play comedy capably. The managers can not see it, what is it to do if they could see me in the summer time, playing in my bare feet with my little kiddies up in Connecticut, and see that there is a lighter vein to my nature just as strong as the somber one they play on. I am sure I would be given a chance in a comedy part."

Off the stage Miss Dunn is Mrs. John Stokes, her husband being well known to theatrical people for his short plays and sketches. Their country place is at Milford, Connecticut, where they have a small room to retire for vacation.

Florence Webster, who played here in "The Climax," and who is now in the company, is in Boston this week, playing at the Castle Square Theatre. She is returning to her home in Connecticut, and will be seen in "Naughty Marietta."

Let Sarah Do It was presented for the first time on stage by St. John, John Stokes, Jessie Bonstelle and her company at the Star Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y. The comedy is by Douglas Murray and Lee Shubert owns the American rights. The story briefly told is of a young business woman who is the only daughter of a rich man who has succeeded in pushing into society. To prevent the marriage of the young people, both parents visit Sarah at her office, and the mother being secreted in a closet on the arrival of the father, is forced to overhear the argument in which he says he hopes to save his son from an error such as he made: that of marrying the wrong woman, and after her $40,000 to give him up, which is promptly accepted. The girl, disheartened, goes to France and the old folks finally have to appeal to Sarah to bring him back and straighten matters out, all of which she does to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Patrick Sarsfield Barrett who was here a few weeks ago in "The Light and the Dark," and previous to that with the Helen Gray Stock Co. is in New York this week playing at the Prospect in "The Heidelberg." Henry Crosby is also in the cast.

George M. Cohan is having an old-fashioned milkhouse built on his estate up in Orange County, N. Y. A bricklayer was indispensable and none was to be found nearer than Monroe, three miles distant. The brick expert declined to undertake the job unless Mr. Cohan provided transportation. So the Cohan limousine and chauffeur were placed at his disposal, and the lucky laborer rides back and forth in state each day. While the job lasts he is the envy of the countryside.

Harry Hemenway the funny fellow who played the title role in "The Burgomaster" here some time ago, has been engaged to play with A. H. Woods for next season. Mabel Taliferro, before leaving for Atlanta to resume her vaudeville tour, was negotiating for the purchase of a farm in the Catskills, where she will be a neighbor, as neighborhood in the mountains goes, of Maude Adams. "Springtime," Miss Taliferro's three-hundred-acre farm is forty miles south of Maude Adams's place, in Ontario Park. With the actor's sentiment of naming a home in gratitude to the production that helped pay for it, the little star will transfer from her now dismantled Chicago flat to her new mountain home, the site of her second starting vehicle, the drama of Andrew Jackson's time.

Though known ever in 1895 as the veteran minstrel, Lew Dockstader still makes his grin at his blackface art. This summer the critics united in praise of his work in Maude's Baby Boy, proclaiming him a pleasant relief from the surroundings, all of which goes to prove that "veteran" is to be respectfully used in reference to our young friend, Mr. Dockstader. He was born on August 7, 1856, at Hartford, Conn. His first professional engagement was in a sketch in 1873. For a short time he was with the management of a Hartford Theatre, and then he became a minstrel, joining Charles Dockstader, he performed with him in the New York Theatre, now the Bijou. In 1880 they joined a minstrel troupe. Some time later they separated and Lew Dockstader organized a minstrel company of his own. He also appeared in vaudeville, winning considerable reputation for his fastidious and impetuous. He has been busy with the burnt cork every season in the memory of the present generation, and even now he delivers political speeches in Maude's Baby Boy.

Jack Kohler and Mabel Spencer, both of whom were seen here with the Chicago Stock Co., are playing leads with the Gallop Stock over Turner time in the states. Harry Shubert, who is playing the title role in "The Gay Musician," at the Opera House, and who incidentally has aspirations to a position of note on the baseball team from the south, while she is known as "the star" of the troupe.

Pauline, the hypodermic, well known in St. John, through his attorneys, O'Brien and Maloney, received a verdict against William Morris before Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court last week.

Dr. Pauline sued for $10,000, that being the amount due him under his contract for eight weeks' work that he was not allowed to play.

The attorneys for Morris contended that the contract was void inasmuch as it called for Sunday performances, which are illegal in this state. Pauline's contention was that he had only contracted to work on Sunday in such places as he might legally do so, and after fifteen minutes' deliberation the jury returned with a verdict in his favor.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Sothorn (Julia Sothorn), announced in Cleveland last week, through their press representative, Frank J. Wilsch, that it is their intention to retire from the stage in 1914. Wilsch, who has been playing in Eastern cities, the season afterward in the West, and make their farewell appearance at the Manhattan Opera House, in this city, in June, 1914.

In the outer office of Florence Ziegfeld, Jr.'s, suite in the New York Theatre are posted two pertinent mottoes signed by Abraham Lincoln. They are: "I am never stung twice by the same person," and "Two minutes spent in meditating on another person's business are two minutes lost from your own."

The sketch which Thomas A. Wise and W. H. St. James have been playing in vaudeville, and which was called A Chip of the Old Block, has been sold by Mr. Wise to Mr. St. James, and the latter will engage a new actor for the part that the former presented.

Miss Perry Haswell's friends in St. John will be pleased to learn that she is drawing big crowds at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, Ont., supported by a strong company of players. Earle Brown is her talented leading man. Geoffrey Hill, brother of Alice York, has recently joined the company to play small parts, as this is his first season. Mr. Hill will probably be with his sister in light opera next fall.

T. Daniel Fawley, returning from his trip around the world with Henry W. Savage, announced on Monday that Mr. Savage would make no productions until December or January after the campaign excitement has subsided. The other Savage attractions will be sent out, however, in the fall, slightly reduced in number. There will be only two Excuse Me companies, and the pick of the three casts from last season will probably be chosen. Mr. Fawley said that, in the majority of cases, the casts would be made up from the former company.

One of Virginia Harned's birthday anniversary gifts, which arrived at her home at Harrison, N. Y., last Wednesday, was a birthday calendar. This had been so arranged that a loose leaf from it was sent to each of the former Irish friends, who inscribed their sentiments toward her and perhaps passed their own photographs on it. The leaves, recited by Margaret Gordon, reached Miss Harned in next calendar form. Each day that she tears from the calendar a leaf Miss Harned will be greeted by a friend from some near or remote part of the globe.

David Belasco will not join the stream of European travel, nor will he be him to mountain or seashore for rest. He will spend the time between seasons, as usual, at work. Already he has a number of engagements, to continue until the premiere of The Governor's Lady, has begun. The numerous admirers and friends of the actor, who will be known as "the star" of the troupe.

Harry Casman, the popular comedian who has been playing at the Grand Opera House, received the highest compliment possible some few days ago when a letter came to the Zeany office from a friend in Baltimore. She said she had seen E. E. E. Casman's comedy, entitled Getting a Hired Girl, and she had enjoyed it very much. She said she had seen E. E. E. Casman's comedy, entitled Getting a Hired Girl, and she had enjoyed it very much.

Playing the part of the discharged servant girl, as a lady friend for whom she had been engaged, and quite suits the parts of maid and washerwoman. Please be kind enough to give me the name of this party, as I have been very much worried over her disappearance.

The story of "Daddy's" life in those days is not, however, a wild and woolly tale of road agents and other crude happenings, but a pretty bit of sentiment, showing youth, love and reminiscent old age in charming proportion. Both the famous Selig stage coaches are used. These stages are genuine relics of the days and the route run out of San Antonio to the mines with Wells Fargo Express in addition to many wealthy passengers, so that his stage was usually tempting bait for Black Bart and other famous highwaymen of the region.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Important business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon. Reports were read and the board ordered actions to be taken against milk dealers who were delinquent in procuring licenses for carrying on the trade and others who conducted unsanitary premises where milk for city use was procured.

There were forty-eight dealers who failed to take out licenses in the city and seven who were reported for having unsanitary premises.

The board reported 138 persons for not complying with the orders issued by the health officer to install better and more sanitary toilets.

A committee was appointed to supervise and look after the remodeling of the plumbing facilities at the isolation hospital, and improve the drainage system there.

A very satisfactory and encouraging report was received from the dairy inspector in reference to the examination of cows supplying milk in the city. Communications were ordered with the department of agriculture at Fredericton requesting that there be an inspection of herds, barns, milk cans and all appliances that may in any way tend to the infection of milk and other produce.

The new health act and new regulations for the provincial board of health were submitted.

The nurse reported on the cases of tuberculosis looked after and the efforts made in the fight against tuberculosis by means of the distribution of literature, etc. Their report was satisfactory.

"Johnny," said the pretty teacher, "what is a kiss?" "I can't exactly put it in words," returned the boy, "but if you really want to know, I can show you."

A ROUSING MEETING AT LITTLE RIVER

Candidates and Hon. Mr. Pugsley Speak—The Campaign in Westmorland and Sunbury

That the people in the district around Little River are solid for the Liberals in this campaign was shown last night when the Little River school house was crowded and the Liberal candidates, A. F. Bentley and Amador Anderson, and Hon. William Pugsley were given a rousing reception.

The audience heartily approved the criticism of the Fleming government, by the three speakers, was made plain by round after round of hearty applause and cheers.

The charge that Mr. Fleming and his colleagues had been tried and found wanting was proved to the entire satisfaction of the electors that filled the room, and the reference to the almost impassable condition of the roads created great interest.

The appearance of Hon. Mr. Pugsley in the district which has benefited so much through him was the signal for an ovation and every reference to him, whether by the chairman or the candidates, was greeted with cheers and applause. It was a meeting, as the chairman properly termed it, of farmers, and that they have but little use for Premier Fleming and his colleagues, Messrs. Baxter and Carson, was not hard to see. There can be no doubt that Messrs. Bentley and Anderson will come out of that part of the county with fine majorities.

The meeting was called to order soon after 8 o'clock, and on motion of ex-Councillor J. M. Donovan, Joseph Lee was chosen chairman. In introducing Mr. Anderson as the first speaker, Chairman Lee referred to him as the farmer's representative on the ticket and said that he had no doubt but that both he and Mr. Bentley would be among the supporters of the coming administration of Mr. Copp. (Applause and cheers.)

The Liberal speaking campaign in Moncton was opened with a rousing meeting last evening addressed by the candidates, Mayor Robinson, and Hon. H. R. Emmerson. Mayor Robinson dealt effectively with local issues, advocating, among other reforms, a change in the assessment law which would relieve the I. C. R. employees of the unfairly heavy proportion of the taxes which they now pay.

Mr. Emmerson discussed the record and policy of the present administration and pointed out how their dealings with the C. P. R. have been inimical to the Liberal policy of extending the sphere of influence of the I. C. R. by taking over the branch lines of the province.

George W. Kimball was nominated yesterday at Oromocto to take the place of A. R. Miles on the opposition ticket, he having withdrawn because of his health. He and Mr. A. Smith, of Blainville, will form the winning ticket. Speeches were delivered at the convention by C. H. McLean, S. Alexander, C. A. Harrison, J. E. Stocker and M. A. Smith, and the nomination of the two candidates was received with hearty cheers.
