

RIGHT HON. JAMES BRYCE WELCOMED TO ENGLAND

Continued from page one. I should be ungrateful were I not to tell you of the unceasing and invaluable cooperation of Lord Grey, who was governor-general. His successor, the Duke of Connaught, kindly extended to me, during the last year of my stay, a like counsel and aid; while from the two successive prime ministers, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden, a constant confidence which it is a pleasure to acknowledge.

An Explanation. "While returning hither from America I have two things to say to the British Pilgrims, gathered here as friends of the American people. One is that you must not take too seriously the lurid pictures of American life drawn in some organs of the European press.

"In Washington I used to be struck by the dark view which the press news from England conveyed of British events and conditions. I know which I knew to be misleading. Here the same thing happens. Cable messages and the vivid pens of correspondents have nearly heightened the color. Unlike stocks, news would be the better of being watered when they cross the sea.

"My other message is to assure you that the friendship you entertain for the people of the United States is reciprocated by them far more unreservedly and far more heartily than ever before. There is a friendship of governments and a friendship of nations. The former is a shifting of the shifting of material interests, or affected by the relations of each power with other powers. But the latter rests on solid and permanent foundations. With our two peoples it is based on a community of speech, of literature, of institutions, of beliefs, of traditions from the past, of ideals for the future. In all these things the British and American peoples are closer than any two other peoples can be. Nature and history have meant them to be friends.

"Next year we are planning to celebrate the centenary of a century of unbroken peace Britain and the United States. For our two peoples the celebration has a special significance. But it is much to be desired that other peoples also should be associated with it, and that both by our example and by our worldwide influence we may together try to reduce the apprehensions that trouble the rest of other nations, and draw them more and more of them into a general league of peace.

"The more prominent guests present at the dinner included: Sir John Cockburn, Davison Dalziel, M. P.; Lord Save and Sele; Lord Morley, of Blackburn; Edward Goulting, M. P.; Thomas MacKenzie, High Commissioner of New Zealand; Col. Sir Percy Girouard, Ellis Griffith, C. C.; Lord Cowdray, Neil Primrose, the Earl of Aberdeen, Viscount Deerpark, Lord Fairfax of Cameron; John L. Griffiths, United States Ambassador in London; Sir Thomas Holdich, Sir Alexander Henderson, Lord Justice, Sir H. H. Cozens Hardy, Irwin Laughlin, first secretary of the American embassy; Lord Macdonald, Lord Southwin, Major Ebermont Mills, Sir William Oser, Col. George Osmann, Sir Percy Sanderson, Sir Edgar Speyer, Sir James Colman, C. D. Seligman, Sir George Wyatt Truscott, and Sir Joseph White Todd.

ADDITION TO EXILE COLONY

London, England, Oct. 31.—The Grand Duke Michael-Alexandrovitch, the only brother of the Emperor of Russia, who aroused the displeasure of his royal brother by his marriage to a Viennese woman not of royal parentage, has taken up his residence in England, thus adding another to the interesting colony of exiles who have made this country their home.

The Grand Duke has taken a long lease of Knebworth House, the ancestral seat of Lord Lytton, in Hertfordshire, and has already moved in. This makes the second Russian Grand Duke who because of a morganatic marriage has come to England to stay. The other, the Grand Duke Michael Michaelovitch, a first cousin once removed from the Emperor, who married Countess Torby, has a home at Hempstead. His two daughters are almost as English as their neighbors, and his wife, still known as Countess Torby, has for years taken a prominent part in social life of London and England generally.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels. Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and cured frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctor had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine. Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, is made by a house of dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

GERMAN WOMAN PROVES RIGHT TO ALLOWANCE

One Housekeeper Demonstrates that Husband Must Provide Suitable Food and Dress—Cannot Escape.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—One German housewife at least has proved that she has a legal right to the regular weekly, semi-monthly or monthly allowance which her husband is accustomed to make for housekeeping expenses. If he fail to provide her with an allowance sufficient to conduct the household in a manner suitable to the family's station in life, she may proceed against him at law and the court will grant an interlocutory decree, under which, if necessary, a recalcitrant husband's wages may be garnished. The foregoing rules of law have just been laid down by the supreme provincial court of Brunswick. The court ruled further that the allowance must be paid in advance for a period of not less than one week. The probable expenses of the housewife can not be properly estimated through calculations based upon her average for a shorter period, said the court, and the wife is to be considered the husband's agent within a provision of the imperial civil code which prescribes that when an agent is commissioned to do something requiring a money outlay, the money thus required to be laid out must be advanced.

The husband cannot escape his obligations to advance the cash by opening a line of credit at various shops which her husband is accustomed to make for housekeeping expenses. The case that a man have a spendthrift wife is provided for in the civil code. His remedy, in case the wife misuses her so-called "power of the keys," is to take her housekeeping into his own hands.

A large number of the railway men assembled in the company's rooms on Wentworth street last evening and Harris Elliott, one of the oldest motemen in the company, acted as chairman. R. J. Cochrane, the line foreman, on behalf of the other employees presented Mr. Fleming with an address and a costly travelling bag. The address was as follows: To our friend fellow employee: Dear Sir:—We, your fellow employees with the St. John Railway Company, learn with much regret that you have severed your connection with the company after nearly a quarter of a century of faithful service, during which time you have been a good comrade to us all. We are happy to know that you are obtaining a more desirable position with another public service corporation, and we wish you every success in this new field.

Accept from us as a slight mark of respect and esteem in which we hold you the accompany token of our regard. Signed—R. J. Cochrane, Zackariah Toole, John A. Warwick, J. B. Elliott and W. Ingraham, committee. The address was neatly printed and on receiving the same Mr. Fleming made a brief reply of thanks.

The inaugural lecture was auspicious from every standpoint. The attendance was very large, the studio being taxed to its capacity. The lecture was among the best ever given under the club's auspices and proved very enjoyable to the large audience.

Major Bartlett, who is a pleasing speaker, gave his hearers an interesting description of the Alhambra, the Red Castle of the Moorish kings in the days of Moorish rule in Granada. He gave a delightful description of Granada, touching upon its architectural beauties in the days when it was the seat of the Moorish kingdom. He gave an illuminating resume of the history of the country previous to and subsequent to the time it passed under the control of Spain in 1492, when conquered by Ferdinand and Isabella.
