E. T. FIELDS WAS BADLY HURT

Car turned turtle and occupants missed death by margin—Another Auto smash.

A bad automobile accident occurred at Brookville Saturday evening as a result of which T. F. Fields is lying in the hospital with an injured skull and Harry Sears is suffering from severe bruises. About six o'clock they were running out the Rossby road in a Ford car when the machine skidded a short distance beyond the automobile factory, and turned turtle. Both men were thrown out and struck the ground with violence, and it was a miracle that the car did not roll on them. Mr. Fields, whose skull was hurt, was rendered unconscious. The victims of the accident were brought to the city by W. C. Hewings of the Ford company. Mr. Sears was able to go to his home, but Mr. Fields' injuries were so serious that he was taken to the hospital. Last evening he was reported to be resting comfortably.

Another Accident

Another accident occurred at Lorneville Saturday by which P. J. Mooney's car was badly wrecked. In the car at the time were Chauffer Hickey and another man, but though they were thrown out and bruised a bit they escaped serious injuries. The car skidded and ran into a tree on the side of the road, while going at a rapid rate.

CANADIAN HORSE MEN FOR FRONT

That Lord Roberts has suggested the advisability of raising three brigades of Canadian cavalry for foreign service was the word that reached local militia officers yesterday. Three brigades of cavalry would mean three regiments with a strength of over 7,000 men. Lord Roberts was much impressed with the mounted men Canada sent to the South African war when he was commander in chief of the British forces in the field, and believes a considerable body of cavalry raised in Canada would be a desirable acquisition to the British forces at the present time.

The government only planned on sending a small body of seasoned cavalry with the first contingent to be dispatched to the front, but it is understood that following out the suggestion of Lord Roberts the matter of raising a cavalry force of three brigades is now being inquired into with a view to finding out how long it would take to raise such a force.

MOTOR BOAT CAUGHT FIRE; ONE KILLED, TWO INJURED

James Dunlavy Either Drowned or Killed Outright, and Frank Dykeman and Frank Craft Badly Burned—Gasoline Tank Exploded Before They Could Swim Away.

As the result of an explosion in their motor boat, which was cruising in the harbor about eleven o'clock last evening, James Dunlavy of Union street West, was reported drowned while Frank Dykeman and Frank Craft were badly burned.

The men were out cruising in the harbor when the gasoline in the bottom of the boat burst into flame and in a few seconds the whole boat was like a fiery furnace. Craft and Dunlavy immediately jumped overboard while Dykeman clung to the stern of the boat. The men in the water began calling for help and boats put out from both sides of the harbor.

Pilot Cline and two boys named Nixon went out in one while the watchman from the dredge St. John went out in another. G. Doody and Albert Bates went out from the dredge Flaming.

The two men, Dykeman and Craft, reached the boat of the watchman of the St. John and they were later taken aboard the Doody boat and landed at Sand Point. Dunlavy was not seen after the explosion of the gasoline tank which took place shortly after the fire broke out.

The watchman on the steamer Yarmouth said he first was attracted to the motorboat by a muffled explosion. When he first looked he saw the boat about midway from the stern of the Yarmouth and Sand Point. It was in flames and one man was sitting on the stern while he heard two more in the water. He at once summoned aid from the steamer's crew but almost immediately he saw other boats putting out to the motorboat. Before these reached her the gasoline tank exploded.

The two men rescued were taken to West St. John while the motorboat was towed into the Ballast Wharf slip. Dykeman and Craft were burned quite badly about the arms and face but their burns were not considered serious.

Dunlavy was said to be unmarried and an employee of the Maritime Mail Works.

MYSTIC LIGHTS ON BAULD MOUNTAIN, ONLY SURVEYORS

Geodetic men working at night bring thoughts of German spies to farmers in vicinity—Search by soldiers discloses true situation.

Considerable excitement was caused about the city on Saturday by a report that a party of Germans had established a signal station on Bauld Mountain, near Velafoord and were signalling at night. It was reported that the militia authorities here that signal lights had been seen on the mountain at night and it was also rumored that a wireless apparatus was being used there.

The militia authorities did not take much stock in the report that Germans were on the mountain signalling, but that it was felt that whoever might be on the mountain using lights at night might be in danger of being shot by some excited natives, and it is unlawful for private parties to display signal lights from high places in war time.

Geodetic Surveyors.

A signal officer with four men were detailed to go to Bauld Mountain and investigate the matter. They went up by automobile Saturday afternoon, and about six o'clock came upon the supposed Germans at supper in their camp on the mountain side. They proved to be a party of four men from Ottawa, employed on the geodetic survey. They had been doing considerable work at night, using acetylene lights at different points on the mountain, and had been taking angles and run geodetic lines, to furnish the data for correcting maps. In manipulating the lights for this purpose they appeared to have the impression that they were signalling, and people in the vicinity who did not know what they were doing jumped to the conclusion that they were Germans.

Reports from the neighborhood of Bauld Mountain indicate that the apparition of the lights was causing much anxiety among the more excited thereabouts, and one old trapper clearing his gun Saturday with the intention of stalking the surveyors that night. If the militia men had not made an investigation, it is not improbable that something serious might have happened to the men on the mountain.

Several parties of men attached to the geodetic survey are at work near St. John and at Annapolis, and as their manoeuvres are somewhat mysterious and likely to excite the ignorant, it is likely they will be wanted to be careful until matters quite down Ottawa, employed on the geodetic

R.K.Y.C. ANNUAL CRUISE ENDED; FINE SERVICE

Rev. Dr. G. M. Campbell in Splendid Address—Divine Service at Day's Landing.

Another happy and successful Royal Kennebecas Yacht Club cruise was brought to a close yesterday at Day's Landing with the annual divine service conducted by Rev. G. M. Campbell, D. D., chaplain of the club.

The yachtsmen and visitors were favored with one of the finest days of the year and Day's Landing, transformed by the hundreds of pleasure boats and many hundreds of people from St. John and vicinity, presented a blaze of color at once picturesque and beautiful. A large number of automobile parties went up from the city while many went by boat.

The great fleet of pretty pleasure craft decorated with long streamers of flags, the improvised open air church with its handsomely arranged pulpit and the happy people combined to make such a scene as will live long in the memories of all who saw.

Altogether the day was ideal and the only accident was luckily not serious. Dr. Sawyer and George Stephenson who happened to be out in a dingy were bumped into and upset by a motor boat. Neither could swim but they were rescued without difficulty.

Rev. Dr. Campbell preached a magnificent sermon, dealing with the war and the great growth of the British empire. At the close Rev. Dr. Campbell recited, "We who would reckon with England," in such a manner as to make the audience feel the majesty of the empire and the seriousness of the present crisis.

Dr. Campbell took his text from Exodus, the fourteenth chapter and the fifteenth verse, "Speak to the children of Israel that they may go forward," and in opening referred to the situation in Europe, drawing a comparison between the England of the nineteenth century and the Great Britain of the beginning of the twentieth century. At the beginning of the nineteenth century England was standing alone against the world and opposed to the military genius of Napoleon. The speaker then referred to the conditions in England at that day and continuing said that at the darkest hour, the dawn came. With wonderful ability Nelson reorganized the fleet and with Wellington he ably backed the rulers of the country and placed England where she belongs.

When Queen Victoria was crowned 150,000,000 acknowledged her sovereignty. When George V. King and Emperor, was crowned more than 400,000,000 paid homage. Between the two occasions a wonderful change had taken place. Today Great Britain stands more than any other nation for enlightenment and truth.

Great Britain goes to the present war under far better conditions than existed a hundred years ago. Instead of being isolated and fighting her battles alone she has on one side her old time enemy France, and on the other the great Salvoic Empire. More than this she has the sympathy and support of many other nations not directly involved, but above all this she has the patriotic support of all her colonies and dependencies.

Great Leaders.

In the actual operation of military forces she has in the navy such men as Jellicoe and Callaghan and in the army Kitchener and French. A quartette that could not be equalled by any other nations in combination.

There might be reverses in the present struggle, but undoubtedly victory would be the victor's and the loyal colonies of the Empire would share.

Ye who would reckon with England—Ye who would sweep the seas Of the flag that Rodney nailed aloft And Nelson hung to the breeze—Count well your ships, and your men, Count well your horse and your guns, For they who reckon with England Must reckon with England's sons.

Ye who would challenge England—Ye who would break the might Of the little isle in the foggy sea And lion heart in the fight—Count well your horse, and your swords, Weigh well your valor and guns, For they who ride against England Must sabre her million sons.

Ye who would roll to warfare, Your hordes of peasants and slaves, To crush the pride of an Empire And sink her fame in the waves—Test well your blood and your metal, Count well your troops and your guns, For they who battle with England Must war with a Mother's sons.

—Theodore Roberts, Bathsheba, Barbados.

Special music was sung during the occasion and a double quartette composed of Messrs. Ralph March, E. A. March and Cecil March, Kenneth Bonnell, Edward Bonnell, Horace Cole, Howie Holder and Mr. Nobles was heard to splendid advantage.

After the service ex-Commander Thomson delivered a short address and was greeted with applause by all. Commander H. C. Wetmore then dismissed the fleet.

M. FOSTER HOWE DROWNED AT SALMON RIVER

Was seen to stagger and fall in shallow pool—Believed he was afflicted with heart disease.

A sad accident occurred at Great Salmon River yesterday when M. Foster Howe, of Millville, Kings county, was drowned in about three feet of water. Mr. Howe was stream fishing when he fell into a pool about a quarter of a mile above the residence of Robert Connelly. Miss Barnes of Hampton and two daughters of Mr. Connelly were witnesses of the accident. Mr. Howe was just casting his line when he was observed to stagger and fall into the pool. He made no sound, and as the water was shallow it is supposed he was afflicted with heart disease.

When the young ladies, who were some distance away, saw him fall they ran to the pool, but they were unable to do anything. So going to Mr. Connelly's residence they summoned help and in less than twenty minutes the body was recovered from the shallow pool.

Mr. Howe was an expert swimmer. He was a graduate in forestry and engineering of the U. N. B., and had been employed by the Peabody Lumber Company for about nine months, being considered an efficient employee. He was a son of Frank Howe of Millville, Kings county. He is survived by his parents and nine brothers and sisters, his death making the first break in the family.

The body was taken to St. Martins and thence to Millville and the funeral will take place today.

FOUR CHILDREN LOST IN WOODS WHOLE NIGHT

Daughters of Michael Flynn, of Lepreau, hid in tree when darkness fell—Parents anxious.

The four children, ranging in age from seven to twelve years of age, of Michael Flynn of Lepreau, had a trying experience Saturday night, when they lost their way in the woods and were compelled to remain in the open all night.

The children started out Saturday morning to gather berries and after filling the baskets started for home late in the afternoon. The oldest girl who attempted to take the rest home lost her way and nightfall found them in the depths of the woods. They climbed into a bushy tree and spent the night there. During the first part of the night they were fairly comfortable but towards morning they became cold and had to descend to the ground and walk about in order to restore the circulation.

As soon as daylight came they started again and about nine o'clock came out on the road three miles from their home. They were then able to make their way home, arriving about eleven o'clock.

When the children did not return home Saturday night their parents became greatly alarmed and several of the neighbors went out with lanterns in a search for the lost ones. Early yesterday morning four guides from Mac's Bay started out on the search, and after waiting in the woods one of the children fell into the water of New River and was rescued with difficulty by the oldest girl.

Their parents are greatly relieved when the lost children returned to their home.
