

UNRESTRAINED JOY OF FRANCE OFFERS A REVELATION TO ALL

Deferred Cable Message Describes Spontaneous Outburst on the Part of All the People—Joyous Celebrants of All Classes Sang and Danced Through the Streets and Did Every Foul Thing Conceivable, Finding in This Way Outlet for the Feelings so Long Restrained.

Paris, Nov. 12. (Delayed)—The wholehearted joy of Paris in the hour of triumph is a revelation to those of us who have lived here for several years. The wonderful spontaneous manifestation which began at ten minutes of twelve yesterday morning when the news of the signing of the armistice was first made public, reached its climax at 9 o'clock last night when Marthe Chenal appeared on the balcony of the opera house and sang the Marseillaise before the crowd of twenty thousand which filled the great square in front.

Mlle. Chenal is the most famous singer of the French national hymn in the world. She portrays in herself the imposing figure of French womanhood under which the republic is usually typified. The whole of the triumphal France stood before us last night in the person of this noble woman while from her golden throat rang out the music which inspired millions of the children of the republic to fight and die for France.

Then the whole enormous crowd took up the refrain. Men, women and children, sang like one colossal, victorious soul and with an individual fervor that was almost religious, nay, that was religious in the true sense of the word for the highest aspirations of France breathed in it.

People sang with the tears rolling down their cheeks. A widow standing next to me sobbed out "Le jour de gloire est arrivé" with both hands clasped, tightly clasped, round the arm of a tall, young soldier son, a black band around whose sleeve told what the war had cost this one French mother and what the coming of peace had saved to her.

When all was ended the huge gathering dispersed in silence into the darkened streets. It was a spontaneous outburst of the full heart of France. No one who witnessed it will ever forget.

Amsterdam, Nov. 15.—Contrary to earlier reports, the fallen German Emperor apparently is looking very well, so well indeed, that an English lady who witnessed the arrival at Maarn, is said to have expressed her surprise aloud.

The Kaiser has a considerable court and eleven officers staying at the castle, including General von Moltke and General von Hirschfeld.

Another notable German personage, Prince von Croym-Dulmar, of Westphalia has crossed the Dutch frontier, at Winterwyck, and is staying at a hotel there. He made the journey in a peasant's cart.

As to the Emperor Karl of Austria, who has left Vienna for Eckartsau, in lower Austria, the "Vossische Zeitung" says he will take up his residence at that place for the time being with the concurrence of the council of the state, but that it is thought that he will later leave for Switzerland.

It is reported that during the discussions in the state council it was proposed that the imperial manifesto should include the sentence, "I wish to live among you as a free citizen." The Emperor, however, refused to agree.

VIENNA IS STILL EXUDING HOT
AIR—Emperor Charles and His Family May Be Starving—People Refuse Them
Food.

Vienna, via Geneva, Monday, Nov. 12.—The situation in Vienna, where the first American correspondent, that of the Associated Press, arrived last week, appears to be that there is more talk than disorder, with urgent need for bread, especially for the poor of Austria. The correspondent was accompanied to Vienna by one French and one British army officer.

Former Emperor Charles, who has retired for the present to his castle at Eckartsau, it is asserted by the Socialist Arbeiter Zeitung, is living on the shortest rations, and possibly may be starving with his wife and family. The former royal family has been unable to secure meat, milk and bread in the neighboring villages or even to have its washing done. They have been obliged to send away almost all of their fifty servants.

WILL GIVE HIM A FRESH START.
London, Nov. 19.—The Belgian cabinet will resign after King Albert meets the parliament this week, according to a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Brussels. M. Delcroix, a Brussels lawyer, will be asked to form a coalition government, the mea-

This morning Paris began soon after 5 o'clock to insist on observing the day as an unofficial but indisputable public festival. No official plans of any kind were announced but little independent processions began to form themselves in every square and railroad station as trains brought hundreds of thousands of people to their work.

By 9 o'clock the problem had to be faced how to make the shops close. The solution was delightfully simple. Whenever the procession of joyous strikers came to an open shop door they headed for it, marched in with closely locked steps, singing as they went, permeated to every part of the premises, upstairs and down, and regained the street, carrying most of the shop staff with them.

Tradesmen and managers of work-rooms protested with a good humor that belied their words and then pulled down the shutters with a smile and hastened off themselves to join in the day's joyraking.

Not a shop is open today in the main streets of Paris except restaurants and cafes. All have been closed by order of Her Majesty, La France Victorious. All the pent up joy, held back by four years of anxiety with no Mardi Gras, no Fourteenth of July, no pleasure-making of any kind—nothing but a terse, bitter determination to beat the Boche,—had to find an outlet with these joy-loving people and it has.

The public authorities are now joining in the manifestation. Military bands have begun to be heard and airplanes are flying over the city this afternoon. A notable thing is that there is no sign of the people celebrating the end of the war or even the signing of an armistice. The word armistice has, in fact, been transformed into capitulation. What Paris is celebrating today is neither the cessation of fighting nor the surrender of the enemy but a victory, complete, final, and indisputable, that has wiped out the stain of 1870 and has placed in France back in her old proud position in the front rank of the great free nations of the earth.

Legislation to be Introduced to This Effect, But Some of the Restrictions May be Lessened.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—Validating legislation will be submitted next session, it is expected, in regard to prohibition. The order-in-council on which dominion action was taken found its authority in the war measures act. The order itself remains in force during war time and for a period of twelve months afterwards. The war measures act, however, expires on the proclamation of peace in the Canada Gazette.

The question how far the order in council is valid after the war measures act has ceased to exist is now before the justice department.

While the government has not yet taken the matter up, the suggestion is made of some lessening of prohibition restriction when validating legislation is introduced.

The same situation will arise in regard to other orders in council, passed under the War Measures Act, which cover a period beyond the conclusion of peace.

MAKES NO DIFFERENCE TO ANY PERSON NOW
German Government Decides to Publish the Abandonment Decree to Show That William Really Has Quit.

Paris, Nov. 19.—In order to end the discussion as to whether William Hohenzollern has really abdicated as German Emperor, it is understood the German government intends to publish his decree of abdication. This consists of an attempt to justify the war on the ground of Germany's isolation. The abdication decree, according to the correspondent at Zurich of the transformation concludes with these words:

"To avoid difficulties and put an end to the mourning and suffering of my people, I renounce the throne and leave my faithful subjects free to choose a government which seems to them most compatible with honor and to their interest."

Make Your Stomach Your Best Friend
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Digest the Food, Prevent Sourness and Make You Feel Fine All Over.

If you feel any distress after eating take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. You will then have a good, steady friend in your stomach. For no matter what you eat there will be no gas, no sour risings, no lump in your throat, no biliousness, no dark brown taste in the morning. And should you now be troubled, eat a tablet as soon as possible and relief will come promptly. These tablets correct all once the faults of a weak or over-worked stomach, they do the work while the stomach rests and recovers itself. Particularly effective are they for banquets and those whose environment brings them in contact with the rich food most apt to cause stomach derangement. Relief in these cases always brings the glad smile. Get a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, 50 cents in any drug store. Be good to your stomach.
