

FOR WOMEN

Red Cross Depot
Is Now OpenedInterested Visitors Calling at Prince William Street
Quarters.

The familiar sign of the Red Cross will be seen displayed at 150 Prince William Street where the depot has been opened. Miss Ethel Jarvis, secretary of the Provincial, will be at the depot every afternoon except Saturday from two until five o'clock. Already a number of interested visitors have called. As soon as possible the depot will be made convenient and comfortable, with supplies neatly stored and labelled.

The Chief Work

At present the chief work is sending through the province literature appealing for relief for the eleven million starving children of Europe. During the past few days Miss Jarvis has had assistance in this work of mailing circulars from the following helpers: Miss Dorothy Jones, Miss Helen Hayes, W. A. D'S, Mrs. Christie, Mrs. Hendrie, Miss Sadler, Miss Stetson, Miss Barker of the Local Red Cross, Misses Audrey Rankine, Viola McArthur, Constance Watson, Marion Currier, June Currier, Margaret Page of Gimelville School. Boy Scouts will distribute literature for the city appeal which is being largely undertaken by members of the Rotary Club and others interested in war sufferers. Herbert Daniel is in charge of advertising. No one can fail to be touched by the pitiful cases of disease, hunger and poverty in Central Europe and the large amount of publicity given to the dire need of these people must bring forth a generous response.

Enniskillen

Enniskillen Station, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Laura Eddy Dupuis, Misses Ruby Kirkpatrick, Louis Kirkpatrick, and Mrs. W. N. Dupuis are attending the Sunday school convention at Charlotte town, P. E. I.

Friends of Mr. C. L. Pess will be sorry to learn that he met with a serious accident, having fallen on a barrel and cut his face. Several stitches were necessary to close the wound.

George M. Thorne who is building a new store at Hoyt Station expects to remove there in the spring. Miss Annie Dupuis, Fairville, is visiting her brother, Andrew. Mrs. Jane Dupuis, Fairville, was a weekend visitor.

Lumber and pulp operators are very busy and report a record output. The largest operators are Henderson and Kelly and Leonard and Burns, Ltd. Wm. J. McCann has returned from McAdam where he is employed with the C. P. R.

Messrs. John S. Butler, John Costello and Charles Mooney attended the regular session of the "Forty-Five Club," Thorne Building, Saturday evening.

Of Course, the Women
Liked It

On special occasions, such as an afternoon tea, the new Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea had its first introduction to many of the women of Canada.

And at such times its extra qualities could be discussed and enjoyed at leisure.

The women found that its aroma is delicate and delightful, that it has a bright sparkling amber color in the cup, that the flavor is of rare charm and distinction, while its strength is rich and satisfying.

The more cultivated your taste, the more you will appreciate Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea.

Ask for it by the full name—Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea.

Sold only in our new sealed airtight cartons.

Prof. Hontine Guest
Of Canadian ClubMembers Heard Able Address
from Visitor on "The Moral Element in Democracy."

The Canadian Club had as its guest Professor M. A. Hontine, of Chicago, Ill., at the luncheon yesterday evening at Bond's restaurant. The speaker's subject was: "The Moral Element in Democracy," which he dealt with in a very masterly manner. The President, A. M. Belding, in introducing the guest of the club remarked that the attendance on this occasion was very good, but he considered that it should be even larger. On Thursday evening next, John A. Stewart, of New York City, will be the speaker, and he will deal with the question of Anglo-Saxon Solidarity. He also stated that there had been a considerable increase in the number of democracies in the world during the last six years, and expressed the hope that the old type of autocracy had reached its death blow. A new type of autocracy had, however, arisen in Russia recently, but it all probably will suffer defeat. The phrases, "making the world safe for democracy" and "making democracy safe for the world," have been very much in use of late years, and for this reason the subject upon which the guest of the club proposed to speak was a very interesting one.

Delighted With Canada.

The president then introduced Professor M. A. Hontine, who, during the course of his address, stated: "I am very glad to meet you on this occasion. I assure you, I have had the pleasure of spending at least four weeks in your Dominion, including Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and I am delighted with Canada and the Canadian people. I am going to talk to you on the moral element in democracy. If I were a minister I would take the text 'Let us Make Men,' and discuss the elements that enter into the making of the human race in respect to the child. There are three essential things, namely, what he is; what he has, and what he does. In other words, what he is by heredity; what he is by environment; and what he has and does by both. Every child that comes into this world has the right to be born possessed of a sound mind and body. There is not a case on record, however, where a man has married a weak-minded woman, morally speaking, the children of which marriage have not been morally feeble-minded by a large majority. If you do not agree with me, read 'Godard's Study of the Kallakak Family.' This man was an officer in the revolutionary army, who lived with a morally feeble-minded woman. As a result of this illicit relationship, practically every child born was feeble-minded, and the number of their descendants amounted to four hundred and eighty-six, of which only forty-six were normal. The rest were mental and moral delinquents. He subsequently married a Quaker girl of very good family, and they had four hundred and ninety-nine descendants, of which only one was defective, and two moral delinquents. There are some poor souls born into this world so warped and twisted that nothing will prevent them from criminality."

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS:—

By HELEN ROWLAND
(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)
Being the Confessions of the Seventh-Hundredth Wife.

By daughter, the heart is like unto a well; which goeth stagnant with neglect, but runneth dry if overworked. Hear, then, the Confession of a Blase Bachelor who hath gone the rounds of Love, and hath known too MUCH WOMAN.

"Alas, alas," he sigheth, "all life is as the menu of a cheap table d'hôte—the same today, yesterday, and forever. 'What profit hath a man of all the moneys wherefore he hath labored, when there is no wine to spend it for; what joy hath he of all the women wherewith he hath flirted, when there is no novelty in them? Behold, one day is as dull as another, one kiss is no more thrilling than another, one marriage is as stupid as another, and of women there are only two varieties:

"Those who are bold and athletic—and those who are subtle and synthetic."

"Those who wear eyeglasses and talk politics—and those who wear lengthening skirts and talk baby-talk."

"Those who say, 'How dare you!'—and those who say, 'Come hither!' Those whom I do not dare to kiss—and those whom I do not care to kiss."

"Those who are married and unattractive—and those who are after marriage and inescapable."

"Those who bore me to exasperation—and those who frighten me to desperation."

"Those who bob their hair and try to look 'literary'—and those who henna their hair and try to look 'kittenish.'"

"Those who would drive me to distraction—and those who would lure me to destruction."

"Those who trust in oja boards and believe everything I tell them—and those who seek to reform me—and those who seek to flatter me."

"Those who carry lap-dogs—and those who carry longitties."

"Those who are too simple to be interesting—and those who are too sophisticated to be fascinating."

"Those who talk sex-problems and read Freud—and those who talk gossip and read the society columns."

"Those who ask me how to vote—and those who TELL me how to vote."

"Those who soothe my headaches—and those who give me headaches."

"Those who are more insipid than fudge—and those who are more invidious than wine."

"Those who elude me—and those who pursue me."

"Those who make me wonder—and those who make me weary!"

"Then have pity upon me! For I am as one that walketh blindfolded amidst speeding automobiles. I know not which of these shall 'get me!'"

"For, alas, all diversions have become dull, and all variety is monotonous."

"And there is nothing new under the sun—save MATRIMONY; and nothing left for me to do, save PLAY GOLF and grow selfish—or marry and grow FAT!"

Such, my Daughter, is the punishment of the Heartbreaker, who hath played too long at the Game of Love.

More Feeble-Minded.

More feeble-minded people exist in the United States today than ever before; and during the period while the population of that country increased thirty per cent, the population of feeble-minded persons increased one hundred per cent.

The President, in heartily thanking Professor Hontine for his address, mentioned that the City of St. John and the Province of New Brunswick, had the question of feeble-minded persons to deal with, and it would come up in the near future. Herbert Collins rendered several solos for the benefit of the members, and he was accompanied by Louis Sima. The gathering broke up by singing the "National Anthem."

Sardonic Suggestion.

"I guess I'll knock off work for a day and go fishing," remarked the man who is always weary.

"This is the fourth time you have said that this week," commented his wife. "Just for variety why don't you knock off fishing and go to work?"

Describing It.

There was a look of sadness on five-year-old Elizabeth's face, and her father asked her what was the trouble.

"Oh," sighed the little miss. "I've got such a headache in my stomach."

Parents Should be Careful.

Father and mothers should carefully look into the heredity of their future sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, as you cannot make a healthy crop out of diseased seed. No subject is so much misunderstood as that of heredity, as we transmit what we receive and not what we acquire. A prominent professor claimed recently that Harvard did not do so; all it did was to give Roosevelt a chance to make his self; otherwise they should be able to turn out many other Roosevelts. Politically, it is thought that all men born equally mentally, but biologically we are not. The old idea that uniform methods could produce uniform results is being thrown into disarray; and you cannot transfer mediocrity into excessive ability, as nature determines. Environments and education can, however, furnish the proper stimulation for a man to show his true natural mental capacity. Bad heredity may be made dominant in good environment.

"If I were asked for a synonym for the word education, I would say 'change.' Education is the changing of an individual from what he is to what he is capable of becoming only. This world in which we live is a great university, in which we should be tutors and students at the same time. Education rests on three things—study, teaching and learning. Democracy will rest on the dual foundation; one is intelligence and the other is righteousness. A democratic government will not stand on any other foundation; and we must look to the church for assistance. Education and righteousness have not kept pace, as many who have acquired education do not practice righteousness."

Must Provide Fund.

"It is necessary that education must provide a fund of practical information which will also result in the creation of righteous ideas towards God, oneself, society and our homes. If our system of education will do this, then it is indeed valuable. The church should lay stress on service as well as doctrine. The church of the future can never alter ecclesiastical interest to run counter to community and kingdom interest; and there must also be a federating of both talent and wealth. The guiding star of the entire teaching process is interest; and this must be appreciated in ecclesiastical colleges and

EFFERVESCENT SALT
Regulates the LiverNew Department

Inmates of County Hospital
Giving Great Satisfaction.

A new department has been opened at East St. John County Hospital, which is giving great satisfaction. This is a kindergarten for the twelve children, patients at the institution, who up to this time, have received no instruction whatever. One child has been four years at the hospital without being able to learn a thing. Dr. Farris who has infinite faith in the good hearts of St. John people, engaged Miss Woodrow, trusting that the financial difficulty would be solved by patriotic societies. He has appealed to the Daughters of the Empire, the Y. W. P. A., and several other organizations and individuals, and has had assurances of support.

Began Teaching Children

Miss Woodrow began teaching the children in the Children's ward on Monday, and all inmates of the hospital are pleased with the result of her work. The youngsters are delighted with kindergarten handicrafts, and the games they are allowed to play under the direction of the doctors. Their minds are being developed in an entertaining way, and when the rest period comes they are unwilling to leave off the fascinating work. Nurses are pleased because the children are no longer fractious, getting out of bed and running around the ward getting chilled.

The doctors have noticed an improvement already in the health of the children who are being kept quiet and amused in a way which is of benefit to both mind and body. And the adult patients, well they are, perhaps, the most pleased of all because no longer do cries and wails come from the children's ward, where peace now reigns. Childish laughter may be heard, but that sound annoys no one.

A Bright Girl

A little patient, who has spent four years at the hospital, is a bright girl and is taking to the instruction readily. She is going to get well, the doctors say, and thus will not be so far

STRANGE POISONING!

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called "Anuric," which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you should obtain "Anuric" at the drug store; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package. "Anuric" is many times more potent than lithia.

A Peeplish Passing.

The movie director thought the hero's acting of the deathbed scene was poor.

"Come on! Put more life into your dying, there!" he shouted.
