The correspondence now laid before the public does not sustain this charge, but it reveals a dark page of our secret history, shows that Sir Hugh Allan pursued a tortuous and discreditable course, and convicts many of the leading public men of Canada of the crime of selling themselves like sheep to the highest bidder. Mr. Brydges' price was, it seems, $100,000 at least, while the Hon. George Brown (with the Globe) was to be purchased for half the money. It seems odd that Notice of Public Sale-Brown should be cheaper than Brydges, but then it is suggested that Brydges carries others with him.
