The electors want to know what Railway, Canal and Suffrage policy they are to vote for if an election is to be held. It may, possibly, be sufficient for a certain slavish set to know that they are voting for or against the supporters of Mr. Mackenzie—to know that "the Premier has expressed his entire approval of the nomination" of a certain candidate; but the majority of thinking people who are without a pecuhiary interest in the maintenance of power by Mr. Mackenzie would like to vote for or against a policy, instead of The British exploring ship Challenger

Mr. J. R. Walsh's "Manual of Domestic Economy" is reprinted in London, and it may be noted as a sign of the times that the lowest income contemplated in it has been raised from £100 to £150 a year, while the highest is now £1,500, instead of £1,000.

The Saturday Review says of Mrs. Beecher Hooker's "Womanhood" that it is "chargeable with no worse offence than utter ignorance and blind credulity." It is, moreover, "a protest by a lady of the strong minded school and the shricking sisterhood."
