MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB.

The Way This Pretty Children's Poem Came to Be Written. The "Mary who had a little lamb" was a Massachusetts little girl. The lamb was thrust out of the pen by its unnatural mother. Mary took care of ft, and it became a great pet.

One day when the lamb was to be taken to the pasture no lamb was to be found. Hearing Mary singing on her way to school, her pet had quietly trotted after. On reaching the door Mary carried it in and nid it in her desk. There it lay perfectly quiet, covered with Mary's shawl, until Mary was sent to her spelling class. The lamb trotted after her, and, as children then were very much like children now, of course they laughed. The teacher reproved Mary until she explained the situation, when she allowed her to take be pet home.

It happened that on that morning a young man named Rawlston, who was preparing for Harvard, was at school. A few days later he produced three verses of the poem. How they came to be published is not known. The young man died soon after, not knowing of the immortality of his verses.

Mary's lamb lived many years and finally came to its death at the horns

His Musical Dog.

A showman in England once advertised outside his tent the following notice:

"Come and See the Musical Dog. Admission 2d." •
A good many people, attracted by the title, paid the sum required and en-tered the tent, where a big dog, wearing a huge metal collar, was crouching in a corner,

After waiting awhile the audience called for the showman and asked that the performance might begin. The showman seemed surprised at their request and exclaimed as he edged toward the door:

"Why, there's the musical dog!" point-ing to the mastiff. "Can't yer see the brass band round his neck?"

The Game of Hockey.

Hockey is an old fashioned game, but it is getting a new and increasing popularity of late. In Scotland it has been played for years under the name of shinny or shinty, and in Ireland it was long known as hurley. Today it is played not only in this country and in England, but in Holland, France and Switzerland. In England an ordinary cricket ball painted white is used in playing the game, which requires a ground 100 by 50 yards. There are elev-en players on each side, the object of the game being to drive the ball over to the opponents side. For this purpose long wooden sticks curved at the end are employed.

Little Mothers In Japan.
The little girls of Japan are real little mothers. Many a small maiden in Japan goes out to her games of tag and bouncing ball with a wee sister or brother tied on her back with the big broad sash which she always wears. Sometimes she turns the baby around and plays she is a pilgrim carrying the Goddess of Mercy on her back, while the other children pretend to worship the goddess.

Good Things to Remember.

"He who shuns burdens because of their weight can never lift."

"If we are stingy of kind words we are the worst kind of misers."

Rill Simkins' Pussies.
"I don't think that this jography,"
Said Bill, "is printed right.
It says 'hat rivers all have mouths,
Yet I can't find they bite.

"It says the mountain has a foot, Which can't be right, I know. For I've just looked on every map and haven't found a foe.

"Nor I can't find a single hand And so it's plain to me The book is wrong again where it Talks of an arm of sea."

A GOOD DEAL OF NON-SENSE.

ABOUT "BLOOD PURIFIERS" AND "TONICS,

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food properly digested. There is no other way and the idea that a medicine itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is riduculous and on a par with the fol-de-rôl that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy, that a weak atomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and infaming the bowels by pills and eathartics. catharties.

and infaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and, unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure stomach trouble by the use of "tonics," "pills" and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass bottle at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets, because it is not only the sick and ailing, but well people who use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of food,

MISS HELEN F. MEARS.

Talented Woman Who Has Enraed Fame as a Sculptor. Miss Helen Farnsworth Mears, the sculptor of Frances Willard's statue which the state of Illinois commissioned her to make for Statuary hall at the capitol at Washington, was born in Oshkosh, Wis., and began to model things out of putty that she found about the house when but a mere child. Before she was nine years old she had modeled a head of Apollo, which was exhibited at the county fair, and every year after she modeled something for exhibition, her designs representing allegorical figures, as Hope, Re-pentance and similar ideas. Later, when Miss Mears began attending the Normal college, she continued her model-ing at home, with her father to make suggestions and criticisms.

Although the statue of Miss Willard is not the first work of importance

MISS HELEN FARNSWORTH MEARS.

Miss Mears has executed, she is still a young woman. She submitted a design in competition for the figure of a woman for the Woman's building at the Chicago exposition, coming in third, and when symbolical figures of Wisconsin were wanted for the Wisconsin that had been symbolical figures. state building she competed successes fully for them. The Milwaukee Wôzman's club having offered a prize of $500 for the best work of art by a Wisconsin woman that should be exhibit-ed at the Chicago exposition she was fortunate enough to win it with her Wisconsin figure, which, after the fair, was put in marble and placed in the da of the capitol at Madison.

Up to this point the only professiona instruction Miss Mears had received was confined to about six weeks at the Art institute in Chicago, but she went to New York, where she studied for a year and a half under Augustus St. Gaudens at the Art Students' league before going abroad to spend a year in Paris ateliers, working under Puesch in Julien's studio, in Collin's class and with Merson and Charpentier. During the latter part of the time she worked for St. Gaudens, helping to model his General Logan and other statues.

After nine or ten months in Italy Miss Mears returned to New York and set up for herself as a sculptor .- Detroit News-Tribune.

Window Shades, In measuring for window shades it must be remembered that the dealers measure by the length of the roller and not by the width of the shade itself, as women learn to their sorrow if they take the measure for themselves. The shade has to be cut narrower than the fixtures on the ends of the roller to allow it to work; hence shades are too narrow very often if untrained persons take the measures for themselves

In the same way designers of their own homes draw plans and give measures to a house builder, imagining that the measures will be exactly right to allow the pieces of furniture to stand in the spaces intended for them. They intend the single line for inside meas-ure and make no estimate for the walls, and the builder takes it for the quiside and lessens the size of the room just that much. The writer once visited in such a house, where it was a constant source of trouble to its own-ers, who had drawn the plan to accommodate rugs and furniture. The foundations were laid and walls up too far to change before the matter was discovered.—Table Talk.

Her Company Voice.
"Who is that in the parlor, Nellie?" "Nobody but mamma and Fred," re

"Oh, yes, there must be some one else," rejoined the little girl, "for mamelse," rejoined the little girl, "for mamma has her company voice on!"

It was a little squib under the heading of "Fun" which a member of the family read aloud from the paper. The circle about the table who heard it smiled, and one said, "That's a good joke." But a more thoughtful member turned it over in her mind. She was the mother, and she admitted to herself that it was more than a joke—that in many instances it was sober truth. It came home to her heart with that in many instances it was sober truth. It came home to her heart with great significance, for she acknowledged to herself that "the company voire" was entirely too often put on when in the presence of those outside the home circle. We wish to appear at our best before those whose good opinions we desire to gain. But with those who love us how often we speak in irritable, harsh, quick tones.—Evangelist.
