QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

ARTIFICIAL ABORTION.

I have two cows that will be due to calve about the first of April, 1910. They are not good milkers and are kickers, and I want to feed them for the butcher. I am advised to abort them. Would this be wise, and how can it be done? M. R.

Ans.—It is very unwise to attempt artificial abortion in any case. The danger of untoward results is too great. Better allow them to produce their calves and then fit for the butcher. V.

RESULT OF WOUNDS.

Mare kicked over the crossbar and skinned and bruised her leg badly. I got a lotion from my veterinarian, which reduced the swelling and caused the wounds to heal. There is a thickening of the skin from fetlock to hock, and two lumps where the wounds were. E. W.

Ans.—Thickenings of this nature are very hard to remove. They can be reduced some by repeated blisterings, or by the use of an absorbent liniment, as one made of 4 drams each of iodine and iodide of potassium, and 4 ounces each of alcohol and glycerine. Rub a little well in once daily. V.

INDOLENT WOUND.

Horse got coronet cut three months ago. The wound has not healed, and I am afraid an enlargement will remain. How can I heal the wound and remove the enlargement? C. L.

Ans.—Dress the wound once daily for three or four days with butter of antimony, applied with a feather. Then keep clean and dress three times daily with a five-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid in water. If what is called "proud flesh" appears again, use the antimony as above. Wounds in this part usually cause an enlargement, which is very hard to remove. Rub well once daily (after the wound has healed) with a liniment made of 4 drams each of iodine and iodide of potassium, and 4 ounces each of alcohol and glycerine. V.

ABCESS IN FOOT.

Clydesdale stallion has a sore foot. On one side of the frog, in the sole, is a sore spot about the size of an egg. It looks like proud flesh, and matter escapes from it. Should I have this burnt or cut off? H. BROS.

Ans.—This is a thickening of the sensitive sole, the result of an abscess. When the inflammation is allayed the swelling will subside. The sole should be carefully removed all around the diseased spot in order to remove pressure. Then apply poultices of hot linseed meal, with a few drops of carbolic acid, say 2 per cent of the water required to heat and moisten the meal. Recovery will be slow. I would advise you to get your veterinarian to dress the foot, as a great part of the sole may be underrun. V.

Miscellaneous.

CEMENT ROOF ARCH.

Find enclosed a rough plan of a root-cellar under the approach into barn. It is built of cement, gravel and stone. The walls are one of cement to ten of gravel, with stones bedded in concrete. The roof, or arch, with a rise of 3 feet 3 inches in a width of 12 feet, is seven inches thick, mixed one of cement to eight of gravel, with eleven bands of iron 2 x 1 1/2 inches, divided up in twenty-seven feet of space, with old buggy tires laid between each band of iron; also some barbed wire. I am going to plaster and wash roof with cement so it will turn the water. I think that will help to strengthen it. I would be very much obliged if you could tell me how many tons such an arch will carry. Some think it will not carry a separator. If it will not carry a span of horses and a load of grain, what will be the best way to strengthen it? S. C.

Ans.—Your arch roof is likely to carry any load that will go over it, though, if bedding again, it would be prudent to make the roof two or three inches thicker. Readers who have built such arches are requested to communicate their experience for publication, stating how built, and how long in use, loads carried, and evidences of durability or defects, as the case may be.

Measure the cost of ready roofing by what it will do all the way through.

Genasco Ready Roofing

costs a little more in the beginning than ordinary roofing because it is made of genuine Trinidad Lake asphalt; but that gives it life to resist sun, air, heat, cold, rain, and fire. You are sure Genasco will last—you know what it's made of; and you know it is cheapest in the end.

Insist on Genasco—the roofing with a thirty-two-million-dollar guarantee. Gives absolute protection to every building on the farm. Mineral and smooth surface. Look for the trade-mark on every roll. Write for Good Roof Guide Book and samples.
