at this moment is very much like whipping a dead horse. What Is the Government Up To? What is the new British Columbia government up to? First it closes the London office, and then it refuses to participate officially in the proposed mining exhibition to be held here next year. The group getting the latter affair together has not done much at present but any effort made to enlighten the public regarding the mineral wealth o the province is deserving of recognition and it would not have done the govern ment any harm to promise to send box or two of representative ore

80 that those persons who are shareholders in British Columbia com panies could go and see the kind of min eral deposits which are to in due time become dividends. The closing of the London office is a more serious affair. It was stated that the government, after getting rid of Vernon, contemplated placing its affairs in the hands of a firm of estate agents in the city. Their conduct drew forth a storm of condemnation from officials, financiers, shareholders and the press. To shut off all available supplies of information was too bad. The situation was admirably summed up by Sir Charles Tupper in an interview with him a few days ago. He said he was very sorry, indeed, to hear that the office of the agent general for British Columbia had been shut. consider it of the utmost importance, said Sir Charles, "that the government

Sir Charles seemed to think that the decision in question would probably be isolowed up by the appointment of a new agent-general in London, and if a rumor current in the city is correct, the British Columbia government has already regretted its mistake and speedily endeavored to atone for the bed impression previously created by the decision to close the Westminster agency.
